Rusk Reports On Europe

Secretary of State Dean Rusk talks with newsmen outside the White House Friday after giving a personal report to President Kennedy on his week-long consultations in Europe. He said he found a "high degree of unity among the western allies on the Berlin problem," and that major powers all expect negotiations with Russia over the issue. (AP Photofax.)

Army Sending 3,000 New Men To Europe

Additional Troops Being Trained

By CHARLES W. CORDDRY

WASHINGTON — (UPI) Army Secretary Elvis J. Stahr Jr. said Friday night the Army will send 3,000 additional troops to Europe in the immediate future, and is training even more men for shipment later.

Stahr made the announcement in branding as "completely without foundation" an unofficial military journal's report that Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme allied commander in Europe, had been rebuffed by the Pentagon in his request for 38,000 additional troops.

The Army secretary failed to say, however, whether Norstad would get the full number of additional troops he asked.

The report that Norstad's request had been rejected was carried by the Army-Navy-Air Force Journal, an unofficial but authoritative publication. It said the administration had decided to restrict the buildup of U.S. forces in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) to between 3,000 and 4,000 soldiers.

The Pentagon had declined comment on the article earlier. But this evening Stahr said in a statement: "This report is completely without foundation." He added:

"The secretary of defense and I are in complete accord with our commanders in Europe on the size and timing of the buildup and actions that are under way to carry out the plans in timely fashion."

He referred to President Kennedy's emergency military plans for meeting threats to Berlin and other Western outposts.

Stahr said that in addition to sending the 3,000 new froops to Norstad's command, the remaining soldiers required to meet the needs in that theater "are being trained in specific tasks" for shipment later.

Echo I Begins Second Year In Outer Space

By SAM HARTZ

WASHINGTON (AP)—A baggy-suited space act named Echo I starts its second big year on the road Saturday.

Gazed at by millions, the silvery balloon satellite has ticked off more than 4,700 two-hour global tours since it blossomed into being above Cape Canaveral, Fla. Aug. 12, 1960.

But its trips are showing.

Though bright as ever to viewers, Echo is something of a Sad Sack. From 100 feet in diameter, it has shrunk to 70; its cellophane thin aluminum skin is wrinkled at the seams; and its shape is half way between a prune and a balloon.

Punctured by micrometeorites, Echo has probably just about run out of gas, too.

But the Smithsonian Institution Astrophysical Laboratory has given it another year, perhaps two or three, before it spirals to fiery death in the earth's atmosphere.

The big communications satellite was a success from the moment in space when it was born of a bundle of plastic sheeting and 30 pounds of sublimating powder that bloomed into gas to inflate it.

On orbit No. 1, scientists in California hit the shiny sphere by radio with a recorded message from President Eisenhower. Echo whizzing along at 18,000 miles an hour, 1,000 feet above the earth, relayed the message down to Holmdel, N. J. Two-way telephone talks, pictures and musical recordings—the first of hundreds to follow—were bounced off the satellite from one part of the earth to another. A dream of worldwide television became closer to reality.

To the man on the street, Echo became "the satellite you can see."

Paratroopers Make Big Jump

CHERAW, S.C. (UPI) —More than 4,000 paratroopers from the 101st Airborne Division filled the skies over Cheraw, S.C., Friday in a new phase of this nation's most extensive war games since Nazi armies threatened democracy.

The maneuvers, involving more than 40,000 men strung out along a 100 mile front, are aimed at testing this nation's ability to fight a "brush fire" war such as Korea.

At least two men were injured in Friday's jump. Their main parachutes failed and their reserve chutes didn't open until they had reached tree top level in their 1250 foot plunge.

Two other parachute failures destroyed a truck and a trailer. Both pieces of equipment cannonballed to earth and were smashed.

Impacted Area School Aid Is To Be Approved

By LEWIS HAWKINS

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee Friday rammed through swift approval of a bill to continue aid to school districts where federal activities have boomed populations.

The move symbolized the death of administration hopes for any general aid-to-education legislation at this session of Congress.

Dispensing with hearings, the Senate Labor and Welfare Committee voted 11-1 for a measure, introduced Thursday, to extend for one year the impacted areas program which has been costing about $312 million a year.

In contrast to the bitter opposition to general aid, this legislation is expected to sail through virtually unopposed. The reason is that this aid—which is for teachers' salaries as well as classroom construction — goes to schools in the home districts of 315 representatives and the states of 96 senators.

The program expired June 30 and to hasten its revival the Senate bill is to be sent to the House and acted on there under a suspension of the rules. This means it would go to no committees.

Outer Mongolia Plan Dropped

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has decided not to set up diplomatic relations with Outer Mongolia at this time, the State Department announced Friday.

The department said that, "In view of the existing world situation, it is in the best interests of the United States to suspend further exploration of that matter at this time."

Outer Mongolia lies between the Soviet Union and Red China in Asia. Its government is Communist.

The possibility of recognizing Outer Mongolia has been widely discussed within the Kennedy administration since it took office in January.

East Germany To Seal Off Escape Routes

Travel Bans Expected As Next Move

Parliament Gives Red Officials Full Authority

By EDWARD J. SHIELDS

BERLIN (UPI)—All travel by East Germans into both East and West Berlin soon will be banned by Communist authorities, reliable sources said Friday night.

The ban will mean, the sources said, that no East German citizen will be allowed to travel to either East or West Berlin without the special permission of authorities in his own home town.

The sources said the unprecedented ban was drawn up Friday after the East German parliament gave the government a blank check to take all measures to halt the greatest mass exodus since the June 17, 1953 revolt.

Shortly after the parliament acted East German Foreign Minister Lothar Bolz announced the Soviet bloc Warsaw Pact foreign ministers would meet late this autumn to discuss preparations for a German peace treaty and agree on the next steps in the Berlin crisis.

Considered Unusual

The ban was considered unusual by observers here who believed that never before had a government barred travel of its citizens to their own capital.

The sources stressed that trips to East as well as West Berlin were to be barred. Most refugees take elevated or subway trains to West Berlin from East Berlin.

However, the sources said there would be no ban on travel between East and West Berlin immediately. They said the East German government did not plan to close the East-West city border now.

They said for the time being East Berlin residents, unlike East Germans, outside the city, would be able to travel freely to West Berlin as now.

As the parliament acted, hundreds more East Germans crossed into West Berlin. The West German press office said another 1,573 refugees registered Friday, raising the month's total to 16,187.

The press office also announced that 12,448 East Germans fled during the week ending Friday for the highest weekly total in eight years.

Many of the refugees brought reports of heightening unrest in East Germany similar to that which exploded into the Soviet Zone revolt of June 17, 1953.

Approved Resolution

The Communist-dominated East German parliament approved — without a single "no" — a resolution authorizing the government "to prepare and execute all measures" to stem the refugee tide.

It was a virtual blank check to crack down on what the Communists call "the organized headhunting and slave trading carried out from West Germany and West Berlin and to safeguard the (East) German Democratic Republic."

West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt promptly condemned the resolution as the "Enabling Act" of 1933 that Germany's last pre-war Democratic parliament handed over all its effective powers to Adolf Hitler.

Senate Arguing Foreign Aid Bill

By ERNEST VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's foreign aid program survived a major hazard Friday night when the Senate rejected a move to deny him long-range authority to lend funds borrowed from the Treasury.

An amendment which would have forced annual congressional appropriations for any lending was beaten.

The amendment was rejected on a 56-39 roll call, giving the administration a 17-vote margin in contrast to predictions earlier Friday of an edge of only five to seven votes.

Bi-Partisan Support

Forty-six Democrats and 10 Republicans supported the President while 16 Democrats joined 23 Republicans in opposition to his plan.

Approval of the amendment would have destroyed the long-range lending and Treasury-borrowing principles which the administration feels are vital to the over-all success of its program.

While preservation of these principles constituted a major victory for the administration, it did not insure that the chief executive will get the full, five-year $8.8-billion lending program he has asked.

Byrd And Goldwater

Sens. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., and Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., paced the attack on the President's request for authority to lend up to $8.8 billion in the next five years with money largely borrowed from the Treasury without annual appropriations by Congress.

Byrd, a frequent opponent of administration bills, offered the amendment to strike the lending authority from the pending measure to provide $4.3 billion for foreign aid this year. This includes $1.1 billion to start the long-term, low-interest loans to underdeveloped nations.

The Virginia veteran said the program would promote poor risk loans with no certainty of repayment. He said if there were no repayments over the 50-year span which the loans could cover, the compounded interest on the $8.8 billion would run it to $29.7 billion.

"This is no time to relax control over any public spending," he added.

REVOLUTION REPORTED IN ARGENTINA

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A broadcast by a proclaimed revolutionary junta said Friday night the government of President Arturo Frondizi has been deposed. The proclamation was delivered over the government radio.

The manifesto said members of the armed forces, with what it called "national sensibility identified with the people" have started a march toward "our liberation."

Laotian Forces Fight Mortar, Artillery Duel

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — Government and rebel Laotian forces battled sporadically with mortars and artillery for two days on the outskirts of the rebel capital at Xieng Khoung, reliable sources reported Friday. There was no word on the outcome of the battle.

The fighting began Tuesday night when rebel troops in Xieng Khoung trained their 105 mm. howitzers on positions held by pro-government Meo tribesmen in the surrounding mountains, sources here said.

An estimated six to eight Meo companies known to be in the area responded with the heaviest weapons they have, apparently including 81 mm. mortars. Several of the mortar shells fell on the rebel capital, sources said.

This would mean that the tribesmen were within three miles of Xieng Khoung, military experts here said.

Speaking amid an all-out Communist attack against international controls in Laos, Indian chief delegate Arthur Lall warned that the three-month-old conference must reach a settlement soon.

At the same time U.S. Roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman again pledged that the 300 U.S. military advisors in Laos would be withdrawn, providing other forces — including Communist Vietminh units — were removed simultaneously under effective supervision by the International Control Commission.

Ann Duncan Wins Stay Of Execution

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Elizabeth Ann Duncan, under sentence to die Wednesday, was granted a stay of execution Friday by the U. S. Court of Appeals.

The stay will remain in effect until the court can hear arguments on whether newspaper publicity inflamed the residents of Ventura, where Mrs. Duncan was tried, and influenced the jurors.

Mrs. Duncan, 57, was convicted of hiring two men to slay her daughter-in-law, the wife of her son, Frank, who is acting as her attorney.

Japs Protest Mikoyan Visit

By ROY ESSOYAN

TOKYO (AP)—About 1,600 banner-waving ultrarightists, hundreds of them clad in steel helmets and leather boots, clashed Friday with police guarding the Soviet Embassy. The demonstrators were protesting a visit to Japan next week by Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan.

Police, grouped in ranks five deep, threw back two charges 200 yards from the embassy. The demonstrators gave up and marched off after truncheon-wielding police reinforcements rushed in.

Officers counted one casualty among their ranks but made no arrests in the second organized demonstration in three days protesting Mikoyan's arrival Monday. He is top open a Soviet trade fair.

Police appeared determined to prevent a repetition of the mob law which blocked former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's visit to Japan last year. But the right-wingers appeared equally determined to even the score.

Demonstrators protected by bright green, blue and yellow steel helmets waved placards saying "Red devil stay home" and "Let Kamikaze World War II suicide pilots expel him."

Senators Approve New Cabinet Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation to create a new Cabinet secretary was approved Friday by the Senate Government Operations Committee.

The bill, requested by President Kennedy, would establish a Department of Urban Affairs and Housing. Actually the effect would be to elevate the present Housing and Home Finance Agency to Cabinet status and give it a new name.

GOP LEADER QUITS—Frank Kenna, accused of using his office for private profit, quit his post as Republican leader of New York's borough of Queens, Friday. He said his action is no admission of wrongdoing, but he is stepping aside as he doesn't want his own role to be an issue in the city's mayoralty election. (AP Photofax)

Germans Honor Dr. Buchman At Memorial

FREUDENSTADT, Germany (AP) — Memorial services were held Friday for Dr. Frank Buchman, the American who founded the Moral Rearmament Movement.

Buchman died at 83 after a coronary attack Monday night while vacationing at this Black Forest resort. It was here that 23 years ago he conceived the idea that sparked the worldwide movement.

About 1,000 of his followers jammed into Kurtheater where the services were held.

Federal Labor Secretary Theo Blank, the official representative of the West German government, told the audience Germany will never forget Buchman.

"He was among the first to extend a brotherly hand to us after the defeat in the last war," said Blank.

Dr. Paul Campbell, an American physician who for years looked after Buchman and was at his bedside when he died, called on the audience "to remain silent and listen whether God may not give us new guidance."

This was followed by two minutes of silence.

On Sunday, similar memorial services are to be held in Caux, Switzerland, headquarters of the Moral Rearmament Movement.

Perry Como's Son Weds Beauty Queen

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Beauty queen Melanie Adams was wed Friday to Ronald Como, son of singer Perry Como, in a quiet ceremony limited to friends and relatives.

Nearly 200 curiosity seekers gathered outside the Sacred Heart church on the University of Notre Dame campus. The vows were read in a small chapel inside by the Rev. Glenn Borman, prefect of religion at Notre Dame.

Both the bride and bridegroom are 21. Como will be a senior at Notre Dame next month.

Reiterates Willingness To Negotiate

Russian Premier Tells Red Rally Soviet Is Strong

By REINHOLD G. ENSZ

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev declared Friday it is a fairy tale that the West will fight for West Berlin. If war does come, he went on, "hundreds of millions" will die in the resulting nuclear holocaust.

He reiterated that he is ready to negotiate on the problem of Berlin; asserted "We will not be the first to push the button for a rocket war," and added: "We believe common sense will win."

But in almost the same breath, shouting and waving his arms, Khrushchev declared nothing will stop the Soviet Union from signing a peace treaty with East Germany. He even said Soviet rockets would destroy the Acropolis in Athens if necessary to promote Soviet aims.

Western Fairy Tale

He was so excited that his sentences became somewhat jumbled, but his meaning was clear.

"It is a fairy tale," he said, "that they will fight for the freedom of the Germans in West Germany if we sign a peace treaty.

"For 2,200,000 people (approximate population of West Berlin) they want to declare war and hundreds of millions of people will perish. What man of common sense can believe such nonsense?"

He said any Western war to create one Germany out of two Germanys is bound to fail. If such a war is fought, he said, there probably will be nothing left in Germany to unite.

But Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, Khrushchev said, "is stubbornly pulling his allies on the road of threats and an intensification of war dangers."

For the first time, Khrushchev stated outright that his drive for a peace treaty is firmly tied to the question of Soviet prestige.

"The question of the fight for a peace treaty with Germany is not just literally for a peace treaty," he said. "This is a question of a fight for recognition, the recognition of our greatness. Here is his majesty, the working class of the Soviet Union, which has organized a state with which you imperialists and colonial states have to reckon."

Friendship Rally

Khrushchev was speaking at a friendship rally in the Kremlin for Romanian Communist party chief Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej. The Romanian has been visiting the Soviet Union since July 31.

After discussing the merits of Soviet-Romanian friendship for about 15 minutes, Khrushchev launched into his angry denunciation of the Western military buildup.

The Soviet people, he shouted, refuse to be intimidated. He said the roars of the imperialists used to terrify Asian and African peoples but "times are different now."

Bow And Arrow Warriors Guard Devastated Village

By DENNIS NEELD

LAC MUKAMBA, the Congo (AP)—Bow and arrow warriors stand guard here now over the charred ruins of a dozen African villages devastated in a new and savage outbreak of tribal fighting.

Luntu tribesmen and invading Baluba soldiers from South Kasai met in battle around this old Congo holiday resort as soon as U. N. troops were withdrawn from the area.

Barely a hut remains undamaged. Rows of gutted homes stretch out for mile after mile. Luntu survivors claim hundreds of men, women and children were butchered in the three-day massacre.

Lac Mukamba now is like a town withstanding a siege. It is cut off from the outside world by broken bridges and great jungle trees felled across narrow roads. Only by helicopter is it possible to reach here.

When the ship put down, Luntus approached it menacingly with homemade guns, spears and bows and poison-tipped arrows at the ready. The U. N. helicopter pilot threw out his K-rations and the warriors lowered their weapons.

The Luntus poured out of a big, tin-roofed shack they have turned into a fortress. It is the only building for miles around still standing.

From the air, villagers could be seen raking through the ruins of their homes. As the helicopter passed overhead, they stopped to wave white flags as an appeal for help. But the nearest U. N. troops now are based at Luluabourg, 50 miles away.

The withdrawal of U. N. Ghanaian soldiers from Lac Mukamba has never been announced and no explanation has been given. There is no sign of Albert Kalonji's troops, for whom the U. N. withdrawal was the signal to swarm in from South Kasai in a bid to recover territory they claim traditionally belongs to them. After the battle the Balubas apparently went back to their outposts across the disputed and undefined frontier.

FCC To Air Complaints That Weather Broadcasters Puff Up Little Storms And Hurt Summer Business

By FRANCIS STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Weather broadcasters seem to be making some people hotter than the summer temperatures nowadays.

These sizzling citizens claim that too often the broadcasters give overinflated and horrendous accounts of the possibility of bad weather, which are not only bad business but bad for business.

It was a one-man heat wave generated by bandleader Guy Lombardo last weekend which set off a storm of blasts at weather commentators.

Lombardo and others decided that while they can't change the weather they can at least try to change the way some broadcasters tell about it.

Lombardo's ire also got him a job as a weather commentator himself, with a chance to show the other boys how he wants it done. He accepted an invitation to appear Friday night on New York TV station WPIX.

His forecast went this way: "According to the U. S. Weather Bureau forecast, this looks like a weekend for real good weather. So I'm forecasting that there are going to be many, many happy people around this area, such as resort owners, beach concessionaires, people in the boating business and everyone else connected with a summer enterprise."

Lombardo bosses a big summer outdoor show at Long Island's famed Jones Beach. He said some dire predictions by broadcasters cost the show about 2,000 custommers last Sunday although the weather turned out just fine.

Lombardo, emphasizing he had no quarrel whatsoever with official U. S. weather forecasts, complained to the Federal Communications Commission about the way some broadcasters dramatize them.

He was soon followed by William H. Coy of Detroit, director of the Car Wash Institute, and by the chamber of commerce at Hampton Beach, N. H.

Coy said his association represents a $2-million daily business. But, he added, business at times this summer has been off as much as 40 per cent because of "negative forecasting." Furthermore, it sounds better anyway to say "partly sunny" instead of "partly cloudy," he said.

Hampton Beach asserted that "opinionated broadcasts" puffing up a weekend storm which failed to materialize did "irreparable damage to this and many other resorts on the New Hampshire coasts."

The FCC said it would look into these and a number of similar complaints.

As for the weather commentators themselves, none around New York would admit to having embroidered his account. But it seems that no matter what they do, somebody squawks.

Baltimore Widow Robbed, Murdered

Two Youths Sought By Police

BALTIMORE (AP)—Police searched Friday for two young men who fatally beat, raped and apparently robbed a well-to-do 64-year-old widow in her apartment in Northwest Baltimore.

Mrs. Ida Helen Baker was found in a semi-conscious condition on the bedroom floor by firemen who were called by neighbors when smoke was discovered coming from the apartment. The woman died at a hospital early Friday about three hours after she was discovered.

Police were unable to ascertain what might have been stolen. Investigators found $341 in cash hidden in a closet. There was also a small safe in the closet which had not been opened, although the five-room apartment had been ransacked.

In searching through the woman's personal papers, police found three bank books listing a total of $30,000, and $14,000 in government bonds.

There were stocks and bonds and insurance policies with a total value of about $100,000.

Investigators also found deeds to considerable property and receipts for a total of $2,704.90 paid last month in city taxes on properties she owned.

On the way to the hospital, Mrs. Baker told police she was attacked by two youths Thursday night when she went to investigate a noise in her rear bedroom.

Mrs. Baker died at a hospital about three hours after she was found lying on a bedroom floor under two windows.

In a statement to Patrolman Calvin Cason while enroute to the hospital in an ambulance, the dying woman said she was preparing for bed about 10:30 p.m. Thursday night when she heard a noise in a rear bedroom, went to investigate "and saw two boys." She identified them as white.

"They then jumped me and threw me on the floor," her statement added. "They attacked me and bound my arms and legs and gagged me. One of the youths then said, 'I have a gun and I will kill you if you do not tell me where the money is hidden.'"

She told them there was money in her purse, but did not say how much. She then told the officer the assailants carried her into a bathroom off the rear bedroom, where she lost consciousness. Later, she regained consciousness and managed to drag herself into the bedroom where firemen found her.

A passport indicated Mrs. Baker had traveled in Holland, France and Germany last spring.

Travel Bans

did not disclose immediately what measures it would take to stem the refugee flood. It has the power to forbid East Germans to visit or work in West Berlin and to close the still-open border between East and West Berlin.

Western sources in Berlin, meanwhile, took a serious view of the surprise appointment of veteran Soviet Marshal Ivan S. Koniev as commander of the 22 Russian divisions in East Germany.

Western sources saw his appointment as the first concrete development following up Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's threat in his televised address Monday to increase Soviet forces on the "Western frontiers."

7 Civil Defense Officials In Md. Fail To Qualify

BALTIMORE (AP) —The U.S. Defense Department says a decision could be expetced Monday on seven Baltimore Civil Defense officials facing dismissal.

The department statement came in answer to a telegram Thursday from Sherley Ewing, Maryland Civil Defense Agency chief, who asked federal permission to keep the Baltimore officials on the job. The seven officials failed a Civil Service merit examination, and were dropped from the eligibility list for their own jobs

The officials included Carl J. Holub, deputy director of the city organization, and shelter officer Thomas P. Grogan, brother-in-law of Mayor J. Harold Grady.

In his telegram, Ewing said release all seven men now would cripple the city's civil defense program.

Baltimore's CD organization was placed on the merit system to make it eligible for federal funds.

In Baltimore, Francis B. Burch, chief of the city's Civil Service Commission, said his agency might consider giving the officials new examinations if an investigation showed the existing tests were inadequate gauges of eligibility. Several State and city CD officials charged that the examination in question included many questions not related to local Civil Defense duties and requirements.

Deadline for dismissal of the employes who failed the test is this month, unless the Defense Department intervenes. Civil Defense organizations throughout the nation recently came under the supervision of the department.

2 Counties Show Use Of State Aid

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Kent and Wicomico counties are the first two subdivisions to reply to Gov. Tawes' request for a report on how new State aid is being used at the local government level.

The two Eastern Shore counties said their share of the $14.5 million made available through increased sales and cigarette taxes largely had gone to increasing teachers' salaries and for school construction.

Wicomico County said the aid makes possible a boost in teacher pay from $100 to $400, a $50,000 appropriation for school construction, and a decrease in property taxes by four cents. Other receipts will be used for welfare contributions.

Estimates place Wicomico's share of the new tax revenue at between $140,000 and $168,000.

Kent County is expected to receive $106,618, and will use $36,489 for higher teacher salaries, $13,038 for new school science equipment, $4,264 for welfare purposes, and $52,827 for school construction.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department Friday said it has sent another note to Cuba about the hijacked Eastern Air-lines plane which Cuba still has.

A spokesman said contents of the note would not be made public until Cuba receives it and replies.

Israel Fires Multi-Stage Test Rocket

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Israel recently fired its second space rocket within five weeks "during the last few days," reliable sources said Friday.

The rocket, known as "Shavit Three," had an altitude range of 100 miles, the sources said. Details on the firing were not available but informants said the rocket included one more stage than "Shavit Two," the multi-stage rocket which Israel launched last July 5.

There was no comment from the government.

The report of the rocket-firing came as the newspaper Maariv featured a story Friday reporting that "Shavit Three" was "ready" to be fired and that another rocket—"Shavit Four"—was being prepared for launching.

The newspaper said Premier David Ben-Gurion had ordered that "Shavit Three" not be fired until after next Tuesday's general elections. He requested the delay, the newspaper said, to head off any charges that the government was using the rocket launching for domestic political propaganda purposes.

According to Maariv, Israeli scientists decided not to include any costly recording and other instruments in "Shavit Three" until the missile's reliability had been proven.

Artist, Devout Presbyterian Layman, Draws Humorous Side Of Church Life

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

"And so, this Sunday, I have decided to preach on a less controversial subject."

The words appear beneath the drawing of a clergyman, standing before a sharply dwindled congregation—three people in a nearly empty church.

He carries on a ministry of the drawing board, puncturing pious pomposity with a grin, and using a chuckle to prick the consciences of the indifferent.

It's a new kind of pulpit—with a text that tickles.

"It's an inoffensive way to spank somebody's hand," he says. "If you tried to tell them in a serious way, they'd take offense."

One sketch, for instance, shows a sporty characetr shaking hand with the minister at the door. "Good sermon, reverend," he says. "Glad my golf partner 'chickened out' on me this Sunday."

Or, the cartoon of a determined clergyman addressing a sleepy congregation: "I'd be shot for saying these things in Russia. Still, it must be nice to get some kind of response."

Cartwright, a devout Presbyterian layman, started turning out his cartoon homilies in 1952. Distributed by the Interdenominational All-Church Press, Inc., they now appear regularly in more than 50 religious publications.

He has a deep regard for the church, but also a keen eye for its foibles and phonies, and he delivers his licks with a laugh.

"Most humor is tragedy," he says. But seeing the funny "little tragedies of life" in others may alert a person to his own failings.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chap.	Verses

Monday	Isaiah	44	1-8
Tuesday	Psalms	121	1-8
Wednesday	Proverbs	3	5-12
Thursday	II Timothy	3	10-15

Saturday	John	4	27-42

The carefree may call this entertainment. The discouraged might call it life!

We feel often as though we're not getting anywhere. Many of us recall a long succession of up and downs—coming in a vicious circle.

To get anywhere, our life must have direction!

Not just ambition, mind you. Ambition is simply a restless yearning to reach another plateau.

Direction is a course of forward progress.

It may lead to one's ambition . . . or beyond. And sometimes it bypasses an unworthy ambition to bring within our reach a worthy goal.

Set a time in your week when you will forego both entertainment and ambition—to insure for body, mind and soul a right direction. Begin next Sunday morning!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Stockings Should Fit Like A Glove

But how many women have prefectly-proportioned legs? Very few, if any. One pair of legs, with average well-shaped calves, may have heavy outsize thighs. Another with normal thighs might copy the tree-trunk in abnormally thick calves and ankles. A third set of nearly perfect legs can treminate in long-narrow or short-pudgy feet.

There is no "average" leg. And, at long last, name-brand hosiery is knit to fit all the irregular proportions needed by each individual wearer. As a result, the stockings look better, feel better in action . . . and can boast of a lot more mileage before the first run.

The odd sizes (which comes close to being hosiery's "average" group) can now cater to the very tall or the very short, to the petites as well as the medium, and to both very slender or very heavy women. They include all the popular stocking types and weights—support, stretch, seamless or regular full-fashioned.

Thigh expansion is undoubtedly one of the happiest innovations in today's hosiery. The top welt is designed for super-stretch in the ample lengths and sizes . . . but, very practically, adjusts also to slender thighs.

Foot construction is designed for complete flexibility. Contour heels have conquered bagging, slipping and wrinkling about the ankles, give the closer fit so necessary in sling-back shoes. The feet are cleverly seamed to shape the top and the instep, toes are tailored to allow for wiggle-room.

If your leg proportions are irregular, tell your exact measurements to the sales clerk next time you shop for hose. Tell her the kind of foundation garment you expect to wear with your new stockings, too. A brief panty-girdle may require extra-long hose; a short length may be sufficient with long-leg foundations.

You'll detect an immediate difference in wearing well-fitted stockings. In comfort and appearance alone, the difference is obvious. Pulling, buldging and drooping disappear. Financially, the difference pays off in longer wear per pair. It's a known fact that loose-fitting stockings snag easily, while the strains caused by tight fit break into runs.

To help you take your measurements and estimate the irregularities in your proportions, send for my booklet, Do You Measure Up? Accompany your request to me, John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper with 10c in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Delivery will be made within two weeks.

Women Voters League Selects Study Topic

"Foreign Economic Policy" will be the topic of study of the newly organized Provisional League of Women Voters of Allegany County.

Mrs. Abdul Hashim conducted the meeting, held at City Hall council room, at which time two main things were discussed. First the board recommended a budget be accepted. It was presented by Mrs. Lee Fresh, chairman. Assisting her are Mrs. Raymond McCullough and Mrs. John Kneisley.

The board recommended two items of study and the group chose the foreign economic policy. This was presented by Mrs. Alexander Ganyu, who also discussed setting up unit meetings.

So far it was decided to have one unit meeting a month. One will be held in Cumberland and the other in Frostburg. They tentatively are set for the first and second Tuesday of the month. Mrs. Edward Sokolowski was named unit chairman of the Cumberland group and Mrs. John Zimmerman of the Frostburg unit. The first meeting of the local unit is to be held September 5. It will be at the City Hall council room. Frostburg unit will meet September 12 in Lowndes hall of Frostburg State Teachers College. Both are to be at 8 p. m.

It was pointed out that the unit meetings are more or less study sessions, but will have speakers at various times.

Thomas Lohr Richards was guest speaker. His topic was the history of Allegany County. It was selected since the comprehensive survey of the county has begun.

Other officers serving with Mrs. Hashim are Mrs. Ganyu, vice president; Mrs. Robert Schwartz, secretary and Mrs. Kneisley, treasurer. They with Mrs. E. E. Miller, Mrs. Daniel Shupe and Mrs. William Van Newkirk compose the board of directors. They are to meet August 22, at which time they will discuss the leaders to be named.

Fashion Forecast For Fall-Winter, 1961-1962

Two-parts by day — long and slender by night: This summarizes the prevailing silhouette trend in dresses for fall. Strong — and getting stronger — is the bloused bodice. It makes some of the newest, most attractive daytime dresses; it lends grace and flow to the covered evening models. This is the fall-winter fashion picture.

Capes are seen as rippling little capelets or enveloping evening dresses in stately floor-length mantles. Some of the costume components look like capes, though they may be jackets or coats with stubby sleeves.

The two-part dress affirms the overblouse look, real or simulated. It's often banded or rimmed in grosgrain, contrasting fabric and newest of all — fur — to bring out the line. The glittering flowing evening metallics achieve elegance quietly in the covered, overblouse silhouette.

The flare is here, no doubt about it. It doesn't swoosh doorway-wide; it's under control; it's moderated.

Watch the line lengthen from shoulder to hip. The belt is often placed lower, the bodice descends past the natural waistline to the hipbone — especially when it blouses.

Body conscious is the watchword. More shaping is here. The silhouette moves into the body, especially in front. Not the old clutching look of the prechemise days, but something shapely and feminine, not disguising the figure, but not flaunting it either.

Crepes are everywhere, in color as well as black; they're fluid, they're shapely; they're new. Velvet steps out boldly, casting its rich glow on simple silhouettes, sometimes paired with satin. The velvet suit, the velvet dress, the velvet gown are three expressions.

A ham and chicken supper will be served from 5 until 7:30 tonight at Calvary Church social hall, Ridgeley.

Area Orchards To Ship First Peaches Next Week

The first of the commercial varieties of peaches will be shipped from the area peach orchard belt next week.

From the Hampshire fruit belt, where annually a quarter of a million bushels of peaches are harvested for the big metropolitan markets, will be going Hale Haven and Southland varieties.

A few early peaches have been picked in the past week, but these were of little commercial consequence.

The season, according to R. L. Sumner, manager of Mountain Fruit Sales Inc., big Hampshire County cooperative located in Romney, is from a week to ten days late.

Hale Havens and Southlands accounts for about ten per cent of the area crop, with the main variety, the Elberta, being over half of the peaches grown in this section.

As it stand now, the Elberta shipments will begin the week of August 27, and as usual harvesting will be interrupted by the long, Labor Day holiday.

Due to market conditions, the last day peaches can be shipped before the holiday will be on Wednesday, August 30.

Summer pointed out that a hydro-cooling or steri-cooling plus cold storage helps the orchardists over this period.

The peaches are given a long bath in ice water just as soon as brought in from being picked.

This removes the orchard heat from the fruit, which is a causative agent to spoiling, and then the peaches are placed in containers and held in cold storage until ready for movement to market.

Advances in this field of orcharding and marketing have almost revolutionized the handling of the very fragile peach in the past few years.

Sumner pointed out that in view of the rain of the past week or so crop prospects for peaches in this area are the best in years.

There has been very little hail damage, no particular onslaught by insects or disease, and there has been adequate moisture to size the fruit.

ABL Employes Commended By Blood Center

Mrs. Betty S. Vizi, administrator of the Blood Center, has written Mrs. Harry Beneman, chairman of the county's blood program, that the 301 pints of blood processed at the ABL visit set a new production record for the region.

Mrs. Vizi explained that the previous record for the amount collected at a single operation was 289 pints. Herman Smith, coordinator of the plant's program, and ABL officials were warmly praised by the administrator, who also noted that Red Cross personnel put in many hours of work in setting the blood-collection record.

The blood center has been in operation 12 years, Mrs. Vizi pointed out, and Allegany County will have completed 10 years of participation in the program next January. Pointing out that "accidents and illness do not take holidays," Mrs. Vizi said the Johnstown center is responsible for supplying the life-giving fluid to 44 hospitals in the region.

Collections of blood during the summer months pose a problem because of vacations and an increase in the number of traffic accidents. ABL's "splendid response came at a time blood was urgently needed," according to Mrs. Vizi.

Credit for Monday's record collection was given by Mrs. Vizi to ABL's program coordinator, explaining that Smith had arranged for 449 donors to sign up. Many of these were unable to be at the plant during the time of the visit, others were rejected for health reasons, and some were unable to wait around for processing because of the necessity of meeting transportation to their homes.

The Johnstown Blood Center is composed of 30 affiliated chapters in Pennsylvania, two in Maryland (Allegany and Garrett counties) and one in Mineral County (Keyser-Piedmont), W. Va.

You may have spent all these years believing that the Liberty Bell pealed our independence on July 4, 1776, but it isn't so. Actually, the Liberty Bell did not ring out tidings of our freedom from England until four days later — July 8, 1776, when Col. John Nixon first proclaimed the declaration publicly outside Independence Hall in Philadelphia.

2 New Employes Named To Amcelle Plant Staff

The addition of two men to the Amcelle professional staff of Celanese Fibers Company was announced yesterday by Hudson Nix, industrial relations manager.

Gary A. Smook has been assigned to cellulose compounds manufacturing section as a production engineer. Smook comes to the local plant from Rayonier, Inc., in Jessup, Ga., where he was a process engineer. He is a native of Oakland, Calif., and graduated from the University of California at Berkeley, in 1956 with a B.S. degree in chemical engineering.

His professional affiliations include the American Chemical Society and Technical Association of Pulp and Paper Industry. He was also active in the Lions Club and Toastmasters Club. He plans to reside in Potomac Park.

Philip W. Tigan has joined the accounting section at the local plant. He graduated from the University of Illinois in 1959 with a B.S. degree in accounting. He served in the Army for six months as second lieutenant and is presently in the active reserve.

Prior to coming to the local plant, he worked for Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation in Baltimore. While in school, he was a member of Alpha Phi Omega Fraternity, Newman Club, Army Drill Team and American Accounting Association. He is residing in Bowling Green.

Health Officer Asks State's Cooperation

Dr. W. Ross Cameron, acting deputy state health officer for Allegany County, has written Dr. Perry F. Prather, director of the State Department of Health, of the need for certain procedural changes in the operation of the local unit.

A copy of Dr. Cameron's letter was read at yesterday's session of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

The letter states:

"In recent months there appears to be an abnormal number of the staff of the Central Office (of the State Department of Health) spending time in Allegany County.

"Little seems to be accomplished except to add confusion to an already complex situation. It seems of the utmost importance that state and local authorities work together as a team rather than appear to the public to be working at cross purpose.

"Therefore, it seems desirable at the present time to take the following steps.

"Staff members of the Central Office should report to this office before undertaking work in this county and present their findings after they are finished. This represents little more than professional courtesy.

"Visitors should refrain from issuing statements to the press unless cleared through this office, or through John J. Rowan, president of the Board of County Commissioners.

"It is most fortunate that Mr. Rowan is taking such an intense interest in the development of this department. To do otherwise than to cooperate closely with him and the other commissioners indicates a lack of understanding of the fitness of these men."

Dr. Cameron is the deputy state health officer for Washington County and has been acting in a similar capacity here until the position is filled.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need some help with my 11-year-old daughter. I raised her without a father—he left shortly after the girl was born. Now I know what you mean when you say a child needs two parents.

Ever since Eunice was a tot she was overly affectionate with men. She loved to sit on their laps, hug and kiss them.

This was considered cute when she was a toddler and naturally she received a lot of affection in return. I thought she'd outgrow this lap-sitting and hair-combing, but she hasn't.

She kisses the delivery men, the paper boy, her girl-friend's father—anyone in trousers. I'm terribly worried about where it may lead. Please tell me how I can put a stop to it.

—WORRIED SICK

DEAR WORRIED: Little girls who grow up with no father are often starved for male attention. They try to compensate for this loss by behaving aggressively with "anyone in trousers."

Your daughter needs professional help. Contact your family doctor, clergyman or the local mental health clinic. An expert who knows how to deal with troubled children may be able to change the course of this girl's life.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Have you got some pull with the shoe manufacturers? Please say something about the monstrosities they force us women to wear. For two years we've had to cram our feet into a needle-pointed horror. Now they are coming out with a square-toed nightmare. Who ever heard of a woman's foot coming to a point—or a square foot, for that matter?

I'm not ashamed to admit that I'm vain and wouldn't be caught dead in last year's styles. As a result I'm a near crippie. If enough women complain the manufacturers will have to change the styles. Please say something and help liberate us from this trend to foot torture.

—LIMPING LOU

DEAR LIMPING: Don't blame the shoe manufacturers. It's the women who are to blame. Females who complain about shoe styles fall into two categories. The majority of screamers are vain dames who, 20 years ago, wore 5A, and are loath to give up the fantasy that their iddy-biddy tootsies have spread a bit—what with four pregnancies and an added 20 years. It isn't the style that's murdering them, it's the SIZE.

The second group of complainers have long since wrecked their feet with ill-fitting footwear and if they wore the boxes instead of the shoes, their feet would still hurt.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband passed away eight months ago. Since then I have stayed home night and day and worked myself half to death so my time would be occupied and I wouldn't go crazy with grief.

Several women friends and a few gentlemen have invited me to dinner and other places, and I'd like to accept but my mother-in-law says no decent woman would accept a social invitation before "a year is up." She says I owe it to the memory of my husband to show him this respect.

We were happily married for 14 years and I feel I "showed my respect" by being a good wife and mother. Do you think my mother-in-law is right? I need your advice.—STIR NUTS

DEAR STIR NUTS: Life is for the living. If you think you would enjoy an evening out—GO.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mathias Named Town Attorney Of Midland

MIDLAND—John J. Mathias, Frostburg and Cumberland attorney, has been appointed town attorney by Mayor Lionel Baker and Town Council, effective immediately.

He succeeds Jack I. Mullen of Westernport, who asked to be relieved of the duties because of the press of other business.

The road leading from Route 36 to the Methodist parsonage has been blacktopped and the council received a letter of thanks from Rev. Clarence McCloud, pastor. This is a distance of about one-quarter mile.

Several complaints were received about bad sewage conditions in George's Creek. The volunteer firemen have offered to flush sewers and to treat the creek with chemicals, according to Commissioner Donald Cook.

The books of the town for the fiscal year which ended June 30 will be audited by Lowell M. Sowers Jr., Frostburg accountant.

Three Hospitals Get Conditional W.Va. Licenses

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)— Three major West Virginia hospitals were cited last month for alleged fire hazards have been granted conditional licenses, it was announced Thursday.

The state fire marshal's office said the institutions are the new Pleasant Valley Hospital, Pt. Pleasant; Davis Memorial Hospital, Elkins, and Tucker General Hospital, Parsons.

Fire Marshal Basil Wright said the licenses were issued on the basis of their formal pledges to correct existing hazards.

He said Wheeling Hospital advised him it has prepared corrective measures which he will study, and Hinton Hospital's similar plan appears acceptable he said.

However, Wright said he has not heard from a number of other hospitals — including five in Charleston.

Wright also cited a number of nursing homes July 18 when he listed 28 hospitals that were refused licenses because of the hazards.

However, he said several are now being given conditional licenses on the same conditions granted the hospitals.

Withdrawal Of Whisky Causes Dispute

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — State Liquor Commissioner Clarence E. Elmore has vehemently denied that he authorized anyone to sign his name to paperwork for the withdrawal of whisky from the State warehouse.

Elmore replied to charges made by Nicholas M. Homes, who resigned recently as the department's merchandising director. The Charleston Daily Mail quoted Homes as saying 201 cases of liquor worth $10,000 were removed from the time Elmore took office in January to this week.

Homes, the last holdover from the previous Republican administration to leave a top-level liquor commission post, said the State lost no money on the whisky. He explained that it was charged to the distillers who manufactured it.

West Va. Farms Will Be Listed

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — West Virginia farmers have until Sept. 1 to get their names in a new brochure listing their homes as places for lodging for sportsmen and tourists this fall. The Department of Natural Resources and State Department of Agriculture hope the new listing will contain about 500 farms.

How Much Is A Billion Anyway?

Probably every one of us has, at some time or another, tried in vain to comprehend the size of a billion of something. This familiar mental gymnastic is occasioned most often by the mention of the billions of dollars the U.S. government annually takes away from us all and spends in some fashion or other.

From time to time we read that a billion one-dollar bills piled one on another would reach ever so high, or laid end to end would reach around the earth about four times. But when Congress gave its final assent the other day to a $46.6 billion defense budget, an even more overwhelming comparison came to the mind of a fellow who ponders such matters. Suppose, he supposed, that a typist could type 100 words per minute. Problem: how long would it take him to type a billion words? The answer, laboriously arrived at: 19 years, four days and about 18 hours. But wait—the problematical typist has been banging out a hundred words a minute, non-stop, 24 hours a day, seven days a week, without even a coffee break or a day off for leap year. If he were to work the customary eight-hour day, it would take him about 57 years, 14 days and six hours—and he still wouldn't get a day off, much less an annual vacation.

Now suppose our ambitious typist were trying to earn a billion dollars to make his 57 years of labor worthwhile. How much would he have to be paid per hour? Answer: at $1 per word, or $100 per minute, he would get $6,000 an hour. This works out to more than $17.5 million a year. If he were to defy the rules of longevity and live long enough to earn as much money as the new defense budget contains, he'd have to keep pecking away at the typewriter for 2,658 years. In other words, if he had started in the year 697 B.C., long before the era of dollars or of typewriters, he still wouldn't be quite finished.

And even if somebody had that many words to say or were willing to pay a typist so well, do you know what would happen when our typewriting Methuselah finished? Uncle Sam would be right there waiting to take it away from him, that's what.

These Days

Cowards Die

I recently received an unsigned post-card which speaks for itself:

"Sir:

"You made a real war-mongering speech today. Be sure to omit my son when you volunteer our sons!

"When did you last fight a war?

"I'd sign this but you'd say I'm a 'Red.' Amen."

This post-card comes from Newark, New Jersey, and refers to a radio talk I gave on the nature of the present war. What the card represents is abject cowardice, lack of patriotism, self-centered selfishness. The man who failed to sign his post-card is by nature cowardly. I would not call him a "Red." Most of the Communists I have known were daring men who risked their lives for what they believed to be true. Lenin, Trotzky, Bukharin, and all the makers of the Revolution were courageous.

The Newark anonymous post-card writer is more dangerous than a Communist because he is a coward and cannot be counted on in a crisis. Whoever he is, he offers nothing to the country that has given him opportunity and freedom.

To avoid invidious comparisons, my sons have done more than the law requires. We do not tolerate cowards in our breed.

This is a moral question which grows in significance as we come closer to peril. The cowards are stumbling blocks. They have voted and their votes have imperilled the survival of our country. As desirable as a free system of government is, both in the United States and Great Britain, cowards have sought to impede the defenses of both countries. It is too easy to attribute these evils to Communism and Communist machinations. Some of it is due to selfish fear, to an unwillingness to serve, to a lack of understanding of the American way of life.

No one need remain in this country; exit is unhampered. This is not true in Soviet Russia. Therefore, the person who finds himself uncomfortable under our system of government or who prefers another should pursue the advantages of freedom of choice and do what my father and millions of others did, find a better place to live than where they were born.

For the coward who does not want me to volunteer his son, I suggest Soviet Russia as a very suitable place to live. Then his son would not be asked to volunteer for anything. He would be told and he would do as he is told. There cowardice is not recognized as a right or are conscientious objectors given a chance to drive an ambulance. Whoever is not ready to perform what the government demands of him is a counter-revolutionist, a criminal against the state and party and is punished adequately. There is no choice.

If he does not like Soviet Russia, I strongly recommend Red China. That is a country ruled by a philosopher who also writes poetry. To Mao Tze-tung a person is a creature of the state, a mechanism to carry out the purposes of his party. His land and wife have only such relations as the state may from time to time find necessary. Children are separated so that their loyalty may not be retained by the family but would be focused on the state. Who needs a father or a mother if he can think of Mao Tze-tung as both? There one can be part of the permanent revolution and their wonderful human rights would be held in tutelage not by the Kuomintang as Sun Yat-sen designed but by the Communist Party which conquered and overawed the Chinese people.

Or if our coward does not like that, we can find a place for him in the Congo. There segregation is practiced but it is the white man who is segregated, pushed aside, and often killed. Or maybe this Newark coward would prefer Cuba — well, he can hijack a plane and land in Havana, a thief to be honored for his thievery and treachery.

But why go further? I shall be told that it is immoral to say, "Go back where you came from," and it is often geographically incorrect because the coward may have originated in Newark and he is still there and he has nowhere to go to.

But we need to have watchmen at our gates these days, careful, dedicated watchmen who recognize the coward who would sell our land for his personal safety. The time is running out when we can continue to risk his presence.

Dream Of German Reunification Distorts International Relations

By Drew Pearson

BERLIN — The greatest myth plaguing German relations with the outside world today is the idea that Communist East Germany and Capitalist West Germany can and should be successfully united.

The second big question mark plaguing Germany's relations with her neighbors is whether this dynamic country which caused two world wars will go on the rampage again.

The two questions cannot be considered separately, for if Germany does become unified, it constitutes a much greater threat to its neighbors.

The two questions are also all wrapped up in the Kennedy-Khrushchev impasse over Berlin, as follows:

1. Khrushchev has announced that he will sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany, come what may. This is for the purpose of making permanent the separation of the two Germanys.

2. The United States has been pledged to back the unification of Germany, partly because our close friend, Chancellor Adenauer has campaigned on this issue.

3. There exists very real worry on the part of Germany's two Communist neighbors, Poland and Czechoslovakia, regarding the emergence of a belligerent, aggressive Germany in another ten years, and this worry is shared, unofficially, by some of our Allies —England, Belgium, the Netherlands, and France.

My own conclusion is that the unification of Germany is a myth, and not even the Germans want it. The single exception is the German politicians. They have talked so long about unification that they can't drop it as a campaign slogan — any more than American labor can quit talking about the Taft-Hartley Act. But just as labor has learned to live with the Taft-Hartley Act, so the German people have learned to live as a divided nation.

And most Germans will admit, confidentially, that unification of the two Germanys would cause a political explosion.

The West has built up its own capitalism. The East has built up Communism. It would be very difficult to make the two mesh. Furthermore, West Germany is predominantly Catholic, the East predominantly Lutheran. If the two were united, the Protestants would control, which automatically would kick Adenauer out of power. The United States has been working nationally with Catholic forces (though locally with many non-Catholics); so unification would be a serious blow to our influence.

So, as far as a separate Russian treaty with East Germany is concerned, there's no reason, in my opinion, to fight a war over it.

Future German Militarism

The question of whether Germany will ever go on a military rampage again is much harder to answer. Under Germany's present leaders, the answer definitely would be no.

But men are mortal. The next generation's memory may be short.

There are three groups of men in Germany today with varying views on Nazism. They are:

1. The older generation, aged 60 to 70, which served under the Weimar Republic, then under Hitler, have adjusted themselves to change, and give the impression of being willing to serve under any new type of dictatorship.

2. A middleage group between 35 and 45 which saw the evils of Nazism, are dead opposed to it, and are becoming the new leaders of Germany. They are also the hope of German democracy. Under them there would be no resurgence of militarism.

3. The teen-agers and boys in their early twenties who have not tasted Nazism, and know not of its pitfalls. They see photos of their fathers in Nazi uniform on the living-room table at home and wonder why, if the system was so bad, their fathers were members.

They see the documentary history of Hitler as shown by the German government — and the government has done a superb job of portraying the evils of Hitlerism. Even so they remain confused.

It is this younger generation which must lead Germany 10 to 20 years from now, and it is over their heads that the big question mark hangs.

When I was in Germany in 1951, German youth was rebelling at the thought of a draft. Almost no one liked the idea of building up a new German Army. But now that opposition has evaporated. The change took place in 10 years. This may be a significant sign of the times.

A year ago last Christmas, the world was startled at the display of swastikas in German cities. In the spring of 1960 a giant rally of German Sudetenese was held in Vienna, to urge that Czechoslovakia give the Sudetenland to Germany. It was Hitler's march into the Sudetenland in 1938 that helped bring about World War II.

All this leads to genuine concern on the part of Germany's neighbors, both Communist and non-Communist, regarding the future. It makes them wonder why the United States is so determined to back both German unification and nuclear weapons for the new German Army.

Threat Of Economic Blockade Worries Mr. K

By David Lawrence

IN EUROPE, Aug. 11 — Nikita Khrushchev's real dilemma doesn't stand out clearly because no single event points it up, but it is real just the same. He is up against a problem in East Germany which will never be solved his way—by trying to make Communists out of the majority of the German people.

All the world fears a nuclear war, because one is, of course, possible. But it isn't probable. This is recognized by the foreign ministers who have been meeting in Paris and by the Communist spokesmen who have been broadcasting their propaganda threats from Moscow. Mr. Khrushchev himself is somewhat dumbfounded by what he now calls the "war psychosis." For he knows the West wouldn't start a nuclear war, and he himself doesn't dare to do so, either. He is well aware that his twenty-year plan and the aspirations of Communism to dominate the world cannot be realized on the debris of a devastated humanity.

What, then, is the international sparring match about? The Soviet Premier is desperately trying to save East Germany from being absorbed some day by a prosperous and efficient West Germany. Communism is far from a success in East Germany, as evidenced by the steady flow of refugees to West Germany.

Also, Poland is restless. So is Czechoslovakia. So is Hungary. The fate of Communism is at stake in East Germany, and Mr. Khrushchev will try in any way he can to get that separate peace treaty signed, even if it finally means letting West Berlin itself alone.

But the test will not come—as has been so often assumed—by a deliberate or major attempt to block the Allied routes of access to West Berlin. It will come in gradual stages, and at a slow and exasperating pace, after a peace treaty with East Germany has been signed later this year. Climaxes will arise one after another as East German customs guards or troops delay or block traffic here and there, only to remove the obstructions when a real fuss is made about it by the Allies.

Western troops will continue to be in readiness nearby, but the Soviets will never give them an opportunity to do any fighting. Also, on the Western side the futility of a military operation to stop interferences with Allied traffic will sooner or later become apparent. Instead, other measures, primarily in the economic field, may have to be undertaken.

It is significant that the State Department in Washington announced on August 4 that for the time being a total trade embargo on the Communist bloc as a counter-measure to Soviet pressure on Berlin had been shelved. But the exact words of the announcement are worth noting:

"It is only natural that Soviet threats with respect to Berlin should have stimulated considerable speculation concerning counter-measures, including action in the economic field. Now it is possible that if the Soviet government continues its threatening attitude toward the vital interests of the United States and its Allies, we will be obliged to reconsider all aspects of our relations, including economic, with the Soviet Union and the countries of the Soviet Bloc."

Those few words have more meaning to the Moscow government than all the talk of more military divisions in NATO or the calling up of reservists. For the economic weapon can be the most powerful of all in forcing the Kremlin to abandon its harassment of Allied routes to West Berlin.

Critics of the economic-warfare idea are saying that the same thing was tried in the 1930s before World War II, and failed due to disagreements among the anti-Hitler Allies. But the threat of a conventional war in those days aroused less interest in an economic blockade than does the fear of a nuclear war today. The world hasn't yet been right up against a nuclear war, and, if such a situation should really materialize, economic blockades will come promptly as a matter of course. At present, such measures are only in the "contingency planning" stage, which is the correct way to deal with this weapon at the moment. The Western foreign ministers discussed the problem at length in Paris this week, but gave only vague hints to the press as to the nature of their studies.

The potential danger to the Kremlin of an economic blockade is the impact it might produce inside the Communist-Bloc countries. There would be little chance of holding East Germany together. The demoralizing effect it might have on Poland and the other Communist-Bloc countries cannot be overestimated. The exodus of refugees to the West would be multiplied, factories would close down, unemployment would ensue.

Damage would be done to Allied trade, too, and the so-called "neutral" countries would have a hard time of it because the demand would naturally arise also to cut them off from essential trade with the West if any of them played ball with the Communists. Any blockade is a last-resort measure, but it is possible —and Nikita Khrushchev knows it.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

MAJOR DOMO — Of all the "take charge" guys on Capitol Hill, none is more ubiquitous than the Doorkeeper of the House, William M. (Fishbait) Miller.

Having received Presidents, kings, and emperors when they appeared on the Hill, "Fishbait" took in stride the appearance there of Mohammed Ayub Khan, president of Pakistan, to address a joint session of Congress.

As usual the military chiefs of staff came to the House to listen to Ayub Khan's speech, and, being early, Fishbait ushered them into Speaker Sam Rayburn's outer office. Fishbait threw his arm across the shoulders of two of the top-ranking generals who flanked him and joined in the small talk.

Then, looking at his watch, he announced, "Come on, boys, it's time to go in now."

Gen. L. L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, looked at his colleagues, laughed, and commented, "Well, I'll be darned. I don't get ordered around like this at the Pentagon." But Lemnitzer dutifully filed into the chamber with the others.

The incident reminded newsmen of the very best of Fishbait's lines. When then Princess Elizabeth of England and her husband, Prince Philip, came to the House in 1952, the lady who is now queen was seated on the rostrum by Fishbait, who then turned to the House officials standing beneath him and said, "All right boys, pass me up the prince."

If You Had Cancer, Would You Want To Know?

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

If you had cancer, would you want to be told the truth? More than 92 per cent of a group of physicians said yes when asked this question by the staff of the Medical Tribune. The majority believed they would find out sooner or later because of their familiarity with the disease. They felt, too, that by getting the news early, they could arrange their affairs more satisfactorily. As one physician put it, he had "many promises to keep and many miles to go before I sleep."

It is almost impossible to hide this diagnosis from a physician, but what about his patients? Would you want to be told if cancer were discovered in the stomach or lung? Let me know by writing me care of this newspaper.

More than 1,300 physicians were asked whether they believed in being frank with their patients after cancer has been diagnosed. More than 50 per cent said yes, but many qualified the answer by saying it depended upon the patient's ability to cope with reality. Some medicos had an established rule along this line and were in the habit of deciding each case on an individual basis.

Some of the medical men referred to the lesion as a tumor and never used the word cancer. Nor would they say anything about the outlook. They tried to be optimistic and, as one said, the situation should be viewed "with hope, not hopelessness."

Some individuals cannot be told because they go to pieces. Others react in the same way when they discover what is wrong after being kept in the dark for some time. They lose faith in the physician and are difficult to manage thereafter. But all physicians make it a point to inform the relatives and often discuss with them the advisability of telling the patient.

DISHPAN HANDS

H. R. H. writes: Is detergent burn (blisters, itching, burning, and peeling) due to allergy? My hands still are affected even though I wear rubber gloves when dishwashing.

REPLY

Yes, but detergents are not necessarily responsible for dishpan hands. Other factors may play a role, including water and injury to the skin from bumping, scraping, and scratching in handling knives and pans. In addition, going out of doors in cold weather shortly after washing dishes leads to chapping, a condition difficult to distinguish from dishpan hands.

SUICIDES

Mrs. L. writes: Does suicide indicate a weak or a strong mind?

REPLY

Everyone has a breaking point, which is reached sooner by the weak. On the other hand, the terms weak minded and strong minded are ambiguous. A strong minded person may find it difficult to take some types of adversity, whereas the weaker personality does not accept responsibility, hence will not worry or become depressed.

Rh INCOMPATIBILITY

D. F. writes: Is it safe for a Rh negative woman to marry an Rh positive man?

REPLY

Yes. The marriage may lead to a maternity problem later. Many miscarriages and still-births, as well as adnormalities of the newborn, are traceable to this combination of blood groups.

END STAGE

O. H. A. writes: Is terminal cancer when pain comes?

REPLY

Pain may come early or late or not at all. It depends upon where the cancer is located and what it is doing to the neighboring nerves, organs, and other structures.

ENLARGED SPLEEN AND LIVER

L. J. H. writes: What information can you give me on Gaucher's disease?

REPLY

It is a rare disorder in which the liver and spleen enlarge. The latter may be so large it fills the abdomen. Many victims are anemic and the skin assumes a brownish yellow color. Changes occur in the bones also. Removal of the spleen is the best remedy. At one time we thought the disease developed only in children but we know now it occurs occasionally in adults.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Veteran stage trouper Dale, of Smith and Dale, tells about a ramshackle, wooden walled theater in Oshkosh in the good old days. There, one evening, a young lady excused herself to go to the powder room. It was unoccupied, save for a maid industriously dusting some furniture.

The young lady adjusted the seams of her stockings, remarked ruefully to the maid, "I sure look shot this evening," and resumed her seat in the orchestra next to her boyfriend. "What's the plot so far?" she whispered.

"It's hard to follow," he admitted. "A maid was dusting when some girl walked in, fixed her stockings, said 'I look shot this evening,' and walked off. I just don't get it!"

A Time For Change

By John Crosby

LOCH AWE, Scotland

The great purpose of travel, virtually the only one when you consider the trouble and expense, is change. One needs change as one needs air. Change of climate, change of countryside, change of scenery — of food, of drink, of architecture, change of the appearance of people, of their speech and their clothes. The more complete the change the more refreshing it is and one of the terrible things about modern times is that, with the great speed of transport and communication, the degree of change, the degree of differences in all these things — speech, attitudes, architecture, food — is diminishing and eventually will disappear altogether. Horrible thought.

Eventually, there will not be a Welsh or Scottish accent because everyone will look at the same terrible television shows and derive their ideas on how to dress and talk and live from "Lassie." Happily that's still pretty distant.

Arriving here in Scotland, land of my ancestors, into which I have never before set foot, I am struck first — and struck like a blow — by the difference in scale. Scotland is a tiny land and at first everything seems tiny. The feeling is transient. I was so accustomed to New York's huge anthills of buildings that the little stone cottages here seemed tiny, almost like dollhouses. But, as I say, the feeling passes rapidly. After you've been here a couple days the stone cottages seem not too small but just right. One's sense of scale adjusts.

I suppose it seems unimportant, my feeling for scale, but it isn't really. The impact of scale on someone coming from New York where human scale has almost disappeared, the refreshment of the human spirit, is immense, almost impossible to describe. Small stone cottages, small stone bridges, little villages. Small roads on which two small cars have trouble passing, tiny green fields. I exclaimed over each of these things and my Scottish driver said — in some wonderment — that Americans were incessantly exclaiming over things that a Scotsman took for granted.

Well, that's true enough. A brown cow is hardly anything to exclaim about to a farmer. You start exclaiming over a cow and they're likely to find you peculiar. But then they have their own exclamatory peculiarities, too. Waiting for a ferry to take me across one of Scotland's innumerable firths, I was talking to a Scot who sold the tickets. He'd been in New York and he exclaimed over the Rockettes. You know—those girls who kick in unison. (Imagine exclaiming over them!) There's a play in London now called "The Kitchen," where a couple of cooks exclaim at some length about Broadway, the lights and all that. (Fancy getting worked up about that dirty old street!)

One more word about human scale and I'll get off that. I think scale alone is reason enough to come to Scotland because it puts the emphasis where it belongs — on humans. Bigness in America bothers me because I think we all get away from the purposes of life, the meaning of living, the reason for anything. A big plant is an efficient plant (so they say, though in light of some of the junk coming out of Detroit I'm not sure I believe it) but a guy stamping out one small screw hour after hour doesn't know what the screw is for or ultimately what he's for. This applies to everything. Unions are so big that the workers' welfare is far below the union leader who may never have met a worker, at least not recently. The advertising man on Madison Avenue is so far from the consumer that he has no real understanding of his wants and he is far more involved in impressing the vice president down the hall.

Here in a little country activity has immediacy and meaning. A stone cottage is a house. It's to live in, not a real estate speculation. I'm nuts about these stone houses because they look permanent and permanence in our rootless America is hard to come by. They all have names—Heathcote, Wyoming, Homewood, Cold Cottage. Now there's an appropriate name.

Because the other thing that strikes you — it too like a blow — is that it's cold. Oh, brother, is it cold! The pilot, when we landed at Prestwick, said that it was 55 degrees. Soming from a 92-degree New York City that sounded cold but when I got off the plane it was even colder than I expected. All I can say about that is that 55 in Scotland is not like 55 in America. It's a much colder 55 than ours. Also the wind blows. And blows, Of course, the Scots—all of them—explain that it's very unusual, the wind. Very unusual, the cold, too. Well, I've heard that one before. In California. In New York, for that matter. There is no such thing as usual weather, anywhere. Weather is automatically unusual.

I went fishing for salmon the other day in the River Awee and caught nothing but a chill. The wind blew. The clouds lowered. And the fish were uninterested. Still, it was a good day. I saw a couple of salmon jump, which I had never seen before. My God, they're big. The gillie went after them with a rod only a little shorter than a telephont pole. I asked him how long he'd owned it.

"Forty years," he said. "But it was not new when I got it. A mon left it to me in his will. I'm an old-fashioned mon and I like old-fashioned things." His reel, an ancient brass affair, was almost a hundred years old.

The gillie has been taking salmon out of the river Awee fifty years, but this will be his last year. A big dam under construction now will trap the swift brown waters and that will be the end of the fishing.

"Well, I've had a good fifty years of it," says the gillie philosophically.

John Brophy, 77 Says Farewell To CIO Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pals from the old CIO are throwing a farewell "brunch" Saturday for John Brophy, 77, veteran labor union official and social planner.

Always a rebel, Brophy is a bit embarrassed about the party but said Friday "If it will make some of the boys happy it's all right with me."

Brophy is a distinguished-looking bantamweight type — looking more like a bank or college president than the union leader denounced in the 1930s as everything from a professional agitator to a Communist. He has been a union member for 62 years.

Recently, he retired as an official of the Industrial Union Department of the AFL-CIO. It is the body that took over most of the CIO after merger with the AFL.

Brophy was director of the CIO for its first four years and took a leading role in its organizing drives in America's mass production industries.

Brophy walked the picket line in the first major CIO strike at Akron, Ohio, participated in the auto sitdowns in Detroit and Flint Mich., helped negotiate the first CIO contract with General Motors, and aided in forming many of the present-day industrial labor unions.

Born in England, the son of a coal miner, Brophy emigrated to America with his family when he was a youngster. At the age of 11 he started work full-time with his father in Pennsylvania mines.

Communications Satellite Contract Awarded By NASA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hughes Aircraft Corp. of Sulver City, Calif., was chosen Friday to build the first "stationary" type communications satellite for the National Aeronautics and space Administration.

The 50-pound satellite will be launched into an orbit 22,300 miles above the earth. Rotating at the same speed and in the same direction as the earth, it will appear to hover over a given area.

The cost of at least three flight units was estimated at about $4 million. The first launching is scheduled for late next year.

NASA gave the spacecraft the name of Project Syncom, describing a communications satellite in synchronous rotation with the earth.

The project takes its place along with two other NASA programs for active communications satellites, its own Project Relay orbiter being developed by Radio Corp. of America, and the privately financed American Telephone & Telegraph Co. satellite.

Veeck To Return To Mayo Clinic

EASTON, Md. (AP)—Bill Veeck, former major domo of three American League baseball clubs, will return to Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., Sunday.

His wife, who will accompany him, said her husband is "returning for more tests and we hope to have some answer" for what is ailing the colorful sports figure.

Veeck had been at the clinic twice before and his ill health caused him to sell out a majority interest in the Chicago White Sox. He previously had run the Cleveland Indians and the St. Louis Browns.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11 — You can buy this ticket—Cyd Charisse will join Kirk Douglas and Spencer Tracy in "Two Weeks in Another Town," Irwin Shaw's best seller about movie making in Rome. This is an MGM movie and while Cyd bowed out of her exclusive deal with this studio about a year ago, it was on the friendliest terms. She's a friend of both Director Vincente Minnelli and Producer John Houseman.

Both of these gentlemen are doing some fast talking to get Cyd—their enthusiasm whetted by her excellent performance in "Black Tights," a ballet opus made in Europe last year.

As I remember "Two Weeks in Another Town" the heroine was not a dancer. But she was a devastating "looker"—and Cyd's all of that.

There were rumors that Gower Champion, who made a package deal with Columbia for "Bye Bye Birdie," will not direct the movie and is in New York.

Sam Briskin confirmed that there was a possibility that Champion, who is a brilliant director, might not direct the picture, but he is hoping that they can still get together.

Meanwhile, in New York, Gower was trying to act as a peacemaker between Anna Maria Alberghetti and David Merrick.

One reason Gower went to New York was to try to get another actress for "Carnival." Anita Gillette, who has taken Anna's place, is committed for another play.

Three distinguished members of the cloth, Monsignor Edwin Broderick, secretary to Francis Cardinal Spellman, who has always gone out of his way to help our Hollywood people, Monsignor John H. Harrington, editor-in-chief of the Catholic Youth Encyclopedia, and Rev. John L. Guido, language professor of Cardinal Hayes High School, are currently visiting Los Angeles.

Howard and Gail Strickling entertained them at dinner at Chasen's, and I introduced them to Norma Shearer and her husband Marty Arrouge, to Gloria and Jimmy Stewart who were celebrating their wedding anniversary, and to Marilyn Monroe and Joe DiMaggio.

They paid a call on Mrs. Clark Gable, and Father Guido took pictures of the baby. Here on a special mission of interest to motion pictures, Monsignor Broderick was able to get away because Cardinal Spellman has gone to Rome to attend the funeral of Pope John XXIII's secretary.

Hard to believe that David Merrick doesn't think that Anna Maria Alberghetti is ill and that he made light of her contribution as an actress in "Carnival."

He didn't talk like that when Anna was acclaimed the darling of New York and received such glowing notices.

Her indignant mother, Mrs. Victoria Alberghetti, telephoned to tell me she is hurrying to her daughter in New York. "Anna worked when she was very sick with very low blood pressure and she is very anemic. I cannot understand Mr. Merrick's attitude."

"I am taking her to her own apartment but the doctor says she cannot work for several weeks," said Mrs. Alberghetti.

The thing that hurt Anna was that Merrick was quoted as saying that the understudy Anita Gillette, was better than she.

If Merrick really said those things, why then was Anna given an extension of her contract?

Sidney Miller, former sidekick of Don O'Connor, and a very talented comedian, went up to San Francisco to see Blake Edwards about a TV project they're interested in. Edwards is there directing "Operation Terror" with Lee Remick and Glen Ford. During the course of some dinner-business confabs, Sidney happened to mention that he hasn't appeared in a movie in four years.

It must have given Blake an idea because he decided to give him the key role of a murder suspect in this Columbia thriller. After all his hoofing and singing and cracking jokes with Don O'Connor—being suspected of murder is something new for Sidney.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

With the book "The Cardinal" so much in the news, it's shocking to hear of the tragic death of its author, Henry Morton Robinson, who was scalded when he took a hot bath after swallowing sleeping pills. It was not listed as a suicide, but as an accident.

Michael Rennie and Mary Gardner, the former Mrs. Otto Preminger, met quietly for dinner at the Kowloon. They are still very good friends.

Paul Anka and Red Buttons join Fabian and Tommy Sands in Zanuck's picture "The Longest Day." Darryl apparently is getting some of the younger generation for his movie.

Carl Foreman was sincerely touched when writers Herb Baker and Dan Taradash co-hosted a World War II revisited luncheon for him yesterday at Perino's, partly to celebrate Carl's hit "Guns of Navaronne" and as a get together with his old wartime buddies.

My household never fails to listen to Curt Massey's 15-minute musical program on TV. I enjoy him too, and listening to Liltin's Martha Tilton, a friend of many years.

Maryland Seeks Trade With Africa

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — It's off to Africa next Tuesday for Harry A. Boswell, a State official who's traveling at his own expense in search of big game — but not the wildlife variety.

Boswell, head of the State Economic Development Commission, hopes to bag some new international trade for Maryland.

His safari will not be to the bush country, but the main cities of newly-emergent African countries where he hopes "to sell the possibility of an export-import business between Maryland and the African nations."

Seven African countries—Sierra Leone, Liberia, Ghana, Nigeria, the Republic of the Congo, the Congo Republic and Nigeria — are on his itinerary. He also will visit Rome and Tel Aviv to investigate Italian and Israeli trade relations with the African nations.

Boswell will carry a letter of greeting from Gov. Tawes to leaders of each of the African nations.

Bedford Fair Holds Big Car Races Today

25 Drivers To Vie, First Event At 2:30

BEDFORD, Pa. — Upwards of 25 leading eastern drivers convene here Saturday afternoon for another closing day program of big car races at the Bedford Fair.

The speedfare, sanctioned by the United Racing Club (URC) under direction of Sam Nunis, opens with car warmups at 1:30 and the first race at 2:30. A 20-lap finale heads the seven-event card.

Most prominent of the fair entries are Eddie Gallione, Dave Humphrey and Jack Soper, top men in the current eastern standings. Gallione, from Schenectady, N.Y., leads on five feature victories, while Humphrey, of Seekonk, Mass., and Soper, from Elmira, N.Y., each have two firsts. Humphrey figured in a spectacular crackup at the fair races last year.

Saturday's post parade also will include notables Bobby Courtwright, Butler, N.J.; George Monsen, Chelmsford, Mass.; Hank Rogers, Trenton, N.J.; Dan Daniels, Batavia, N.Y.; Tom Price, Wilmington, Del., and Johnny Dodd, Baltimore. The latter driver scored his first major win at the Harrington (Del.) Fair two weeks ago.

The mishap which thrilled a packed gallery here last season prompted the fair management to erect a new safety wall along the first and second turns of the half-mile raceway. The new structure is three feet high and nine inches thick and is to be tested for the first time Saturday.

NavySwearing-In Ceremony Set At Fairgrounds

The Cumberland Fair will be the scene of a public swearing-in ceremony for ten tri-state area Naval enlistees next week.

Chief C. B. Epps, Cumberland recruiter, said the ceremony will take place Tuesday, 7:30 p. m., in the area where the Navy is to exhibit a big replica of the USS Constellation, first fighting ship to be commissioned by the United States.

A Cumberland physician, Lt. Mervin L. Trail, will swear-in the 17 to 20-year-old youths. Lt. Trail, a graduate of Allegany High School, is located at the main Navy Recruiting Station in Baltimore. He is the physician for Maryland recruiting personnel and also examines re-enlistees.

Chief Epps, who will emcee the Tuesday ceremony, said this is believed to be the first time a group of enlistees was ever sworn in in Maryland at such an event as a fair. Members of the Mayor and Council have been invited to attend, Epps added, as have the families of the enlistees.

The contingent will leave by bus Wednesday morning for Baltimore and will be flown that night to Great Lakes, Ill., for boot training.

Those being sworn in are:

This Week In Congress

by Rep. Charles Mathias

On July 31 the House of Representatives overwhelmingly approved the President's request for authority to order units and individuals in the Ready Reserve to active duty for periods up to twelve months. This Resolution already received Senate approval on July 28.

With the lives and fortunes of so many young people intimately bound up with "what happens next" it is appropriate for them to ask questions concerning this authority and to expect answers as to what each individual may expect. Of course the changing aspect of international affairs and the unpredictability of Premier Khrushchev's maneuvering prevent clear-cut predictions of exactly what individuals or Ready Reserve Units will be called at this time. The testimony of the Secretary of Defense before the House Committee on Armed Services and the debate on this measure on the Floor of the House of Representatives does, however, provide some outline of our increased military manpower requirements under the Presidential request.

It is interesting to note at the outset that the President now has authority to call one million Ready Reservists to active duty in the event a national emergency is declared. These one million individuals could be called for as long as the emergency existed. It was not though necessary to exercise this existing authority at the present time because we are not preparing for war. We are merely preparing to defend ourselves against those who would make war. We are merely making certain that we can enforce our rights and meet any threat to man's right to be free, whenever and wherever that threat might arise. As important as the Berlin situation is, it is only part of the world-wide struggle against the ruthless march of militant communism.

The new authority given to the President allows 250,000 ready reservists to be called to active duty for periods up to twelve months. This authority is not permanent but will end on July 1, 1962. Present plans do not call for this many reservists to be called, but if the necessity arises, additional individuals or units may be called. The President proposes to increase our manpower in the Armed Forces by about 225,000 persons over and above the strength previously planned.

A part of this 225,000 will come from the Ready Reserve, which includes all of the Armed Forces and the National Guard, from increased draft calls, increased recruiting efforts, and from an extension of present enlistments.

In testimony before the House Committee on the Armed Services, the Secretary of Defense advised the nation that the following priority would be observed as much as possible in attempting to fulfill the increased personnel requirements of the armed services:

(1) By encouraging voluntary re-enlistments and voluntary extension of enlistments.

(2) By increased recruiting efforts.

(3) By an increased draft call.

(4) By involuntary extension of enlistments, or by activating the Ready Reserve. Among the ready reservists, drill-paid reservists, will normally be called prior to the nondrill-paid reservists. For example, Ready Reserve units can be ordered to active duty for 17 days under existing law, but in order to improve their degree of readiness, it may be desirable to extend their active duty period of training for several days, or perhaps a week or more. It may even be necessary to order the same unit to active duty for training twice during the same fiscal year in order to improve its state of readiness. That is the reason why the Resolution authorizes reservists to be ordered to active duty for training for up to twelve months, although there is no intention of using this full period of time unless absolutely necessary.

It has already been announced that the draft calls will be doubled and tripled and that certain Air National Guard tactical squadrons will be ordered to active duty, as well as some Air Force Reserve transport squadrons, and Navy anti-submarine warfare air squadrons.

Admittedly, this defense buildup will necessitate personal sacrifices, but our young men in the Ready Reserve have readied themselves to answer their country's call. Even if the full authority of this Resolution is required to be exercised in the future, less than ten percent of our 2.4 million ready reservists would be activated.

This Resolution is an integral part of our decision to enforce our rights in Berlin, and to impress upon the world, both friend and foe alike, that we have reached a point beyond which we will not yield. The Resolution serves notice to the world that America will honor its obligation to the people of West Berlin and that America stands behind its commitments. It is America's answer to Khrushchev's threats.

Three City Schools Begin Football Drills Tuesday

Grid Season Opens On September 8

Football coaches at Cumberland's three high schools got down to the serious buisiness of preparing for the coming gridiron season which starts next month by issuing the initial call for candidates to report for their frist practice session on Tuesday.

Coach Ed Schwarz, head mentor of Allegany High School's Campers, said his squad will report at the high school practice field at 9 a. m. on Tuesday.

The genial boss of the Alco grid fortunes will be looking for a large number of new boys to report for this year's team. Facing a tough job in rebuilding last year's undefeated championship team, Schwarz expects only two returning regulars among the lettermen who will form the nucleus of the 1961 eleven.

Lost 24 Seniors

"We lost 24 seniors from last year's team," Schwarz stated, "and almost all of them were on the first and second string. I concentrated mainly on a winning season in 1960 and didn't build for the future," he added.

Expected to be back this year are Dick Sindy, defensive tackle, and Dave Merrill, regular center. "These are the only regulars returning," Schwarz said, "so I'm hoping for quite a number of new faces to turn out for the team this year."

Allegany's defending city and CVAL champs who swept through the season without a loss or tie in 1960, will hold workouts twice daily until school starts. Beginning Wednesday the team will drill at 6:45 a. m. for 1½ hours and again at 3:30 p. m. for about 2 hours.

Light workouts will be the order of the day for the Campers who will wear gym clothes for their initial drills. Schwarz indicated that he would probably issue equipment later in the week.

Backfield Missing

Missing this year will be hard-running backfield quartet of Gary Mulligan, Bob Gaffney, Tom Miller and Ronnie Evans who sparked Allegany's offensive fireworks as the Campers won 10 games, including a second straight Thanksgiving Day victory over Fort Hill.

Workouts are planned at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. on Tuesday, Manges said, with twice daily drills set every day thereafter at 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Early workouts will be in gym clothes and LaSalle candidates are urged to report in jerseys, shorts and tennis shoes. Freshmen and Junior Varsity players are urged to turn out, Manges said, as the Jayvees will begin play early this year.

Others Expected

At Fort Hill, coach Charley Lattimer said his squad will report at 9 a.m. to begin drills on Tuesday.

The Sentinels will hold workouts daily at 9 o'clock and at 2:30 p.m. and Coach Lattimer said he will issue equipment to the players later in the week.

Fort Hill lost 16 players by graduation last year and will have three regulars returning this season. They are tackle Gary Henry, quarterback Ronnie Manges and end Dave Howser.

Lattimer also stated that Fort Hill will hold its pre-season football clinic and display at 8 p.m. at the stadium on August 30. The public is invited to attend this program.

Fort Hill will open its season with LaSalle in the first intra-city clash on Friday, September 8, while Allegany will travel to Pennsylvania to meet Altoona Catholic High there the same evening.

Eddie Blind Returns To Fairgo Sept. 11 As Official Starter

Bob Littleton Is Director Of Wagering

Film Patrol Makes Bow; 9 Races May Be Held Three Days

Eddie Blind will serve as the official starter at Fairgo when racing returns to the local half mile track Monday, September 11, after an absence of two years.

Bob Littleton

Blind, who has served in the same capacity at the recent Monmouth Park (N. J.) meeting, and will send the fields away at Bel Air, which opens a 13-day session today, will be in the starter's stand at Fairgo for the fifth year. Eddie is a native of Canada and is popular throughout the Maryland racing circuit.

Harry J. Barton, general manager of the Cumberland Fair Association, yesterday indicated that Robert Littleton, of Hagerstown, is returning as director of wagering here with a pari-mutuel crew of approximately 100 men. Littleton is pari-mutuel manager at most of the Maryland major and minor tracks and will be serving here in that role for the sixth year.

Johnny Bejshak, noted jockey of bygone days, who will be remembered as the rider of the great Discovery, is coming back to Fairgo as custodian of the jockey's quarters.

Flinagan Head Steward

R. Bruce Livie, chairman of the Maryland Racing Commission, yesterday informed The Cumberland News that Joseph Flanagan will be the chief steward. J. Fred Colwill, who served as racing secretary at Fairgo for nine consecutive years, will be also in the stewards' stand while the third steward is expected to be either Matthias "Ty" Shea or Merrall MacNeille.

Raymond Haight, son of Walter Haight, the Washington (D.C.) racing writer, will be the announcer and race caller for the 12-day meeting here. Haight served in the same capacity at Fairgo in 1957 and 1958.

James A. Callahan, secretary of the Maryland Racing Commission, states that other officials such as placing judges, paddock judge and horse identifier and clerk of the scales will be approved as soon as names are submitted to him by the Cumberland Fair Association.

Improvements Please

Callahan, who became secretary following the death of William Graham, states that he visited Fairgo recently and was pleased with the improvements made throughout the stabling area.

The film patrol will be used here for the first time when the familiar cry "They're Off" is heard at the local plant four weeks from Monday. The local meeting runs through Saturday Sept. 23. Bel Air and Timonium precede the Cumberland meeting while Hagerstown (Sept. 25-Oct. 7) and Marlboro (Oct. 9-21) follow the Fairgo session.

Melvin Mackin, of Havre De Grace, will be making his debut as racing secretary of the Cumberland Fair Association meeting this year.

Post Time Is 2 p. m.

Rawls, Suggs Tie For Lead

Pace Kansas City Open With 147s

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Betsy Rawls plastered the Brookridge course for a 3-under-par 71 to catch up with Louise Suggs after 36 holes in the $7,500 Kansas City Women's Open golf tournament Friday.

Both veterans reached the halfway point in the four-day meet with 147 strokes, one under par for the 6,463-yard par 37-37—74 course.

Miss Suggs, a 13-year tournament star from Georgia, who had the low of 72 in the first round, started poorly by missing her first shot but was even par the next 17 holes for a 38-37—75.

Mary Lena Faulk, another veteran, took over third place with a 39-35—74 and 150.

Friend Beats Phillies, 6-0

Pirates Defeat Robin Roberts

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates struck hard and fast against right-hander Robin Roberts Friday night as Bob Friend shut out the Philadelphia Phillies 6-0 in a rain-shortened game.

Roberts, just off the disabled list, was touched for five runs on seven hits in the first inning. The first five Pirate batters hit safely.

Roberto Clemente clubbed his 20th homer of the year off Roberts in leading off the third.

Roberts, who hadn't pitched since July 10 because of a knee injury, went down to his ninth defeat. He's won one.

Friend gave up five hits, struck out three and walked one in picking up his 12th victory against 13 defeats.

The game was called after six innings.

ODC Defeats Bedford Road

Optimists Lose To Graham, 6-2

The Outdoor Club parlayed Jim Graham's pitching arm and his bat into a 6-2 victory over Bedford Road's Optimists last night in the second game of two Hot Stove League tilts played at Penn Avenue field.

Graham held Bedford Road to four hits and whiffed eight in going the route for ODC. He cracked out a home run and two singles to pace the winners at the plate. Ronnie Horn also had a double and single for Outdoor Club.

The loss dropped Bedford Road out of a three-way tie for second place in the standings and eliminated any possible chance of the Optimists winning the pennant this year. The defeat was the ninth for Bedford Road while the league-leading Cumberland Optimists are 19-3 with five games to play.

Lee Miller was the loser although he held ODC to eight hits and struck out 12.

The Jaycees took over sole possession of second place with a 10-3 triumph over B'nai B'rith in the first Hot Stove encounter at Penn Avenue yesterday afternoon.

A five-run rally in the second inning gave the Jaycees all the runs they needed for their 14th triumph.

Tommy Zembower belted a triple and two singles to lead the winners at the plate while Bob Boyle chipped in with a double and single and Donnie Sewell had a triple.

Greg Shaffer hit a home run and added a single for the B'rithmen while Lynch belted a three-bagger for the losers.

Kroll Leads Insurance Golf Open

Holds 4-Stroke Edge At Halfway Mark

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Balding Ted Kroll, a 42-year-old veteran, Friday shot an exciting 62 for a 36-hole total of 129 to lead at the halfway mark in the Insurance City Open golf tournament.

Kroll, who won the first ICO here back in 1952 with a 273, collected nine birdies in his 30-32, 9-under-par round. His 129 was 13 under par.

An earlier finisher, Kroll hung around to learn that his most serious challengers were Bob Goetz of Tulsa, Okla., a coleader Thursday; Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., Joe Campbell of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Frank Boynton of Corpus Christi, Tex. They are tied at 133.

Arnold Palmer, the 1960 ICO winner and current British Open champion, equaled Kroll's five-under-par 30 at the turn and was six under going into the 208-yard 17th hole. But he double bogeyed at this spot and finished with a 37 for a 67 and a 36-hole total of 135.

Kroll's 62 was the best in a PGA tourney since 1954 when Tommy Bolt recorded a brilliant 60. But it was the third 62 among the touring pros so far this season.

40,775 See Warren Beat Jack Curtis

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Lefthander Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves, the amazing fellow with the 40-year-old arm that refuses to tire, became the 13th player in major league history to win 300 games, when he defeated the Chicago Cubs, 2-1 Friday night.

Lefty Grove, the only one of the 13 still living, was the last to reach 300, doing it on July 25, 1941. He quit that same year after five more appearances. Too ill to attend Friday night's game, he wished Spahn luck.

This one had a World Series flavor about it. The biggest crowd since 1959, 40,775, watched young Jack Curtis who was only nine when Spahn won his first game, give the veteran a tough time of it.

It was 1-1 with one out in the eighth when light-hitting Gino Cimoli socked his third homer of the season over the left field screen to put Spahn in the company of some of baseball's immortals.

The crowd was deafening in the ninth when Spahn struck out Andre Rodgers and got Jerry Kindall on a low liner that Cimoli caught on his knees. Pinch hitter Ernie Banks rolled a stiff grounder at third baseman Eddie Mathews, who threw the ball over Adcock's head to put Banks on first.

The crowd grew silent when pinch batter Jim McAnany came up for Curtis. With the count no strikes and two balls, McAnany hit a short fly to right that Hank Aaron caught easily and the crowd went wild. Spahn was mobbed by his teammates and the cheers lasted well after he disappeared into the dugout.

Spahn, who holds the National League record for home runs hit by a pitcher, batted in Milwaukee's first run in the fifth when he hit a sacrifice fly to score Joe Torre from third base. Torre had reached second when Billie Williams dropped his fly ball and had advanced on a single by Roy McMillan.

Cubs Score In 6th

Spahn allowed the Cubs only two singles in the first five innings, putting them down in order in the first three. They got to him for their run in the sixth when Rodgers singled to score Ron Santo from second base. Santo had reached first on a fielder's choice and moved up on a single by Williams. They got only one other hit off of him after that, a leadoff single by Don Zimmer in the eighth.

Curtis, only 24, gave the Braves only one other scoring chance outside of the two innings in which they got their runs. That was in the opening inning when Cimoli singled and Aaron walked after two were out. But Joe Adcock hit into a fielder's choice to end that.

Spahn said before the game the winning of his 300th would be his "biggest thrill in baseball" and his wife, Lorene, and young son, Greg, were here to share it with him. As a bride, Mrs. Spahn watched him win his first game on July 14, 1946.

The big crowd was a tremendous tribute to Spahn.

His record is now 12-12, meaning he's within grasp of his 12th season of 20 or more wins, a Nation League record, and third on the all-time list.

Spahn, who has a barrel full of records and is a cinch for the Hall of Fame, thus became the sixth modern day pitcher to reach 300 and the first lefthander in the National League to do it.

Plank Won 325

This unique Athlete can now shoot for Eddie Plank's 325 victories, which stands as the most compiled by a lefthander in major league history. Grove, Plank, and Spahn are the only lefthanders to reach this immortal mark.

Only one other present day pitcher has an imminent chance at 300. He's Early Wynn of the Chicago White Sox, who has 292 and is sidelines with an injury that will prevent him from getting there until next season, if then. He's 41.

Orioles Trim Red Sox, 6-3

Gentile Hits 33d, Billy Hoeft Victor

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles, powered by home runs off the bats of Jim Gentile and Brooks Robinson, staved off an eighth inning rally by Boston Friday night and defeated the Red Sox 6-3.

The Birds pounded three Red Sox hurlers for 12 hits as they scored in four separate innings and put at least one man on base in every inning.

The Red Sox threatened in the eighth inning when they scored two runs and had the bases loaded with one out. But Wes Stock relieved Chuck Estrada to retire the side without further damage.

Gentile's homer in the sixth was his 33rd of the year and it increased his runs batted in total to 104, putting him in a tie with New York's Roger Maris. The homer by Robinson, in the fourth, was his third. Both blows came with no one on.

The Orioles' starting pitcher Billy Hoeft was credited with his second victory of the season against three losses.

Moorefield Will Battle Pennsy Club

Leaders Have Won 12 In Row; Lehman, Deremer Bagged 10

Hyndman gets an opportunity to win its third pennant in the Pen-Mar Baseball League Sunday when it plays host to Moorefield in the fourth and final game of their season series.

The Pennsylvanians lead the race with a 19-6 record and there's a three-way tie for the runner-up position involving Moorefield, Barrelville and Frostburg, who own 15-9 records.

Moorefield could make it 16-9 if it defeats Salisbury in the only league game on tap for today. This game is billed for Salisbury and is scheduled for 3:30 p.m.

Hyndman needs only one win in its three remaining games and hopes to sew it up tomorrow.

Win Twelve Straight

Since losing a doubleheader to Frostburg on June 18, Hyndman has reeled off 12 consecutive wins, including a forfeit victory over Barrelville when the latter had a player shortage. During that streak Vohn Lehman and Glenn Deremer have won five games each and Charley Rice, one.

The league leaders' victims include Flintstone 7-1, 5-0 and 10-0, Salisbury 4-2 and 6-3, Mt. Savage 5-4 and 8-3, Moorefield 18-6, Lonaconing 6-3, Frostburg 4-3 and Barrelville 9-0 and 5-4.

Deremer's record is 7-1 and Lehman is 8-3 for the season. Rice, whose last win was scored on July 1, owns a 3-2 mark.

Barrelville has won pennants the past two seasons and has a total of five regular season championships to its credit in the past 12 years. The Old Exports won the flag in 1949, the first year of the league, and scored again in 1954, 1956, 1959 and 1960.

Hyndman captured pennants in 1957 and 1958.

Other winners were Klondyke 1950, Wellersburg 1951 and 1952, Keyser Ridge 1953 and Grantsville 1955.

The Bedford countians hold a 2-1 edge in their series with Moorefield, having won 6-5 and 18-6 while dropping a 3-2 decision.

Other Sunday Games

In other Sunday action, Barrelville visits Lonaconing (11-14), Salisbury's Cardinals (10-13) host the Frostburg Merchants and Flintstone (3-19) invades Mt. Savage (8-17).

Sunday games are scheduled for 2:30 p.m.

Hyndman, Frostburg, Moorefield and Barrelville have qualified for the playoffs.

The regular season ends two weeks from tomorrow.

A's Ask Waivers On McDermott

CHICAGO (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics Friday asked waivers on veteran pitcher Maury Mc Dermott for the purpose of granting his unconditional release.

Mc Dermott, 33, came to the A's three weeks ago from the St. Louis Cardinals and in 5 2-3 relief innings granted 14 hits, walked 10 and yielded 9 earned runs.

Change In Football Helmet For Greater Safety Is Proposed

CHICAGO (UPI) —Football helmet changes for greater safety were proposed Friday by two physicians and two grid greats at the University of Michigan.

Athletic Director Herbert O. "Fritz" Crisler, head coach Bennie G. Oosterbann, University of Michigan, and Drs. Richard C. Schneider, and Edward Reifel, based their suggestions on a study of 14 fatal injuries to the head and spinal cord in American football players in 1959 and 1960.

The recommendations appeared in the current journal of the American Medical Association.

The group urged the use of more resilient materials in the structure of the helmet, modification of the face guard and improvement in the chin strap.

Cards Earn Title Shot At Phillies, Beat Braves, 9-6

Jim Ellsworth's Cardinals earned the right to battle it out with the Phillies for the second straight year for the championship of the Dapper Dan Little League by defeating the Braves in the third and final game of their playoff series yesterday at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 9-6.

The Braves won the opener, 3-2, and the Cardinals copped the second contest, 3-2.

Last year the Phillies bagged the title for the third straight season by winning two out of three games from the Cardinals.

Dave Coffman went the route for the Cardinals and kept seven hits well scattered in yesterday's clincher.

The Cards collected an even dozen blows, including a two-run homer by Kenny Green, triples by Walter Davis and Coffman, Nick Perlozzo's double and single and two singles each by Joe Hemmis and Curtis Kime.

Army Lieutenant Sets Discus Mark

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) —Jay Silvester, a U.S. Army lieutenant from Trementon, Utah, achieved one of his athletic goals Friday night when he threw the discus 198 feet, 8¼ inches—more than two fet beyond the listed world record.

Silvester thus became the first man to break the 60-meter barrier in the discus throw, a feat akin to breaking the four-minute barrier for the mile run.

The listed world mark is 196 feet, 6½ inches, established by Edmund Piatkowski of Poland in 1959 and equalled by Rink Babka of Los Angeles last year.

Wright is subbing for Benny (Kid) Paret, former welterchampion, in the 10-round fight to be carried on network (ABC) television, starting at 9 p.m. (EST). Paret fell while doing his road work and injured an ankle and shoulder.

Chris Von Saltza Loses 100 Meters

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Robyn Johnson, a 15-year-old tenth-grader from Arlington, Va., upset the mighty Chris Von Saltza Friday night to win the 100-meter free-style title of the Women's National AAU outdoor swimming championships. Both were clocked in 1:03.2 in a blanket finish.

The first six of the eight finalists were clocked within seven-tenths of a second of each other. It took the officials about a half hour to decide between the young unknown from the Northern Virginia A.C. and the Olympic great from the Santa Clara (Calif.) S.C.

The officials decided in favor of Miss Johnson by a 4-5 (low wins) count. The score was based on the timers, the timing machines and the judges.

Coaches Appointed

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Kanawha County Board of Education has named Ronald Miller to succeed Jesse Lilly as head football coach at Elkview High School.

At the same time, Jim Lilly, former Logan High basketball coach, was named an assistant coach at Dunbar.

The board rejected a recommendation by School Supt. L. K. Lowenstein that Frank Vincent be transferred from Clendenin to St. Albans as football coach. The St. Albans post is still open as a result of the resignation of Claude (Hopper) Dent.

Mt. Savage swept a doubleheader from Westernport, 8-0 and 13-4, yesterday to run their winning streak to 14 in a row in the Bi-State Pony League.

The pennant-winners scored twice in four different innings to back the three-hit shutout hurling of Bernie Loar in the opener, then pounded four Westernport hurlers for 15 hits to win the nightcap.

The triumphs were the 18th and 19th of the season for Mt. Savage which will close out its season by hosting Cresaptown today at 1 p.m. in the makeup of an earlier tie game.

Bobby Robertson and Phillips each had two hits and Wilson chipped in with a double for Mt. Savage in the first game. Jerry Ferguson had a two-bagger for Westernport.

In the second tilt Robertson belted a home run, double and single to lead the attack. Dan Mulligan also hit for the circuit and added a two-bagger while Loar, Birmingham, Moran and Barth each chipped in with doubles for the winners. Vernon Miller's two-base blow and a pair of doubles by Billy Detterman were the big hits for Westernport in the nightcap.

Corriganville upset Lonaconing, 7-4, yesterday in the final game of the season for both teams. The loss put Lonaconing in the position of being ousted from second place if Cresaptown should beat Mt. Savage today.

Richard Mellott and Wayne Bittner combined to hold Lonaconing to nine hits with Mellott picking up the victory.

Terry Crabtree hit a double and two singles to pace Corriganville at the plate while Kenny Duckworth smacked a home run for the winners. Wheeler Clark had a homer and double and Bevan three singles for Lonaconing.

The Frostburg Mounties bowed to Barton, 8-7, in an eight-inning game at Frostburg. Ed Cuthbertson went the route on a seven-hit effort to pick up the win for Barton.

The loss dropped the Mounties into fourth place in the standings behind Cresaptown.

Lancaster hit two triples and a home run, Thrasher had a triple, home run and single and Ashby banged out a three-bagger in the extra-base assault by Barton. Robert Seibert had a double and triple for the Mounties. The results:

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Prospects for a record crop this year caused heavy selling in soybean futures Friday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Other grains held within narrow limits as the government's Aug. 1 crop report fell in line with most expectations.

Wheat closed off ⅛ to up ½, corn off ⅛ to up ⅛, oats off ½ to up ⅜, rye unchanged to up ¾ and soybeans off 1⅛ to 1⅜.

Soybeans futures sold off as much as 2⅝ cents in early trading. Meal dropped $1.25 a ton, carrying deferred contracts to new lows for the season. Prices later staged a partial recovery as selling fell off.

Thursday's USDA report indicating record soybean production exceeded most trade estimates. The report set the 1961 crop at 683,132,000 bushels, which would top the record 1958 crop by 18 per cent.

Wheat futures rallied from an early decline brought on by profit-taking and exporter selling. Commission, local and commercial traders bought wheat on the side. Southwest cash markets were strong.

Exporters said Italy took 2,610,000 bushels of hard wheat and Turkey 3,500,000 bushels.

Feed grains were slow and without feature. Spreaders were active in corn. Hedging continued in oats.

Rye was mosty steady despite strong markets at Winnipeg. Dry conditions in the Northwest prompted heavy buying of flax.

Jaycees Plan Family Picnic

The annual family picnic of the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce will be held Sunday at Minke's Cottage Inn grounds, according to Frederick J. Hill, president.

Gaylord Brooks and Joseph Gratton, co-chairmen, said the program will start at 1:30 p.m. Alan Douglas in charge of games, and Alan Stevens will be cook.

The world bread grain production in 1960 was around the 250 million short ton mark.

Md. Cigarette Tax Revenue Down Slightly

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Cigarette tax collections for the fiscal year just ended declined slightly and fell considerably short of the official estimate, the comptroller's office said Friday.

Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said tobacco tax collections totaled $16,782,746 for the fiscal year which closed June 30. The figure is $73,352 below the total for fiscal 1960 and $835,253 short of the official estimate of the comptroller's staff.

Goldstein said the decline in revenue and the failure to meet the estimate could be attributed to a change in the law by the recent legislature. The General Assembly boosted cigarette tax to six cents statewide.

The comptroller said normal sales of cigarette tax stamps fell off during June due to a requirement calling for advanced sale of the new six-cent stamp.

Goldstein said that $1,010,467 collected from the advance sale of tax stamps had to be credited to fiscal year 1962 during the month of July, boosting the July total to $2,871,812. Receipts for July a year ago were $1,439,402.

Goldstein said that despite the 3-cent cigarette tax increase, the State will get none of the additional revenue. The money is being turned over to the 23 counties and Baltimore City to use as they wish.

The subdivisions will receive their share of the cigarette tax receipts quarterly on a population basis. The first such distribution will be in October, Goldstein said.

Six trailer permits have been issued by the Allegany County Assessment Department.

Three of the house trailers are situated in Bean's Trailer Court along Baltimore Pike in Election District 21. They are owned by James C. Saville, Buddy Wingfield and Homer Ray.

J. Merrill Rayner, 3 Island Street, Lonaconing, obtained a permit for his house trailer in Election District 15, Lonaconing. James W. Murphy Jr., RFD 4, Oldtown Road, obtained a permit for a house trailer in Election District 16, North Branch. Larry D. Fisher, Midlothian, obtained a permit for the sixth house trailer in Election District 19, Shaft.

Springfield Cow Rated Best Butterfat Producer

Lorraine, a grade Guernsey owned by C. W. Brinker, Springfield, W. Va., was the July butterfat champion of Potomac Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association No. 1 with 70 pounds of butterfat in 1,340 pounds of July milk.

Workman Brothers, RFD 1, Frostburg, had the second best cow in July when Pet, a grade Holstein, produced 69 pounds of butterfat in 1,980 pounds of milk. Harry H. Delbrook, Mt. Savage, had the third best cow in July, a grade Holstein designated as No. 1, who had 68 pounds of butterfat in 1,660 pounds of milk.

Five of the 10 top butterfat producers last month were owned by Mr. Delbrook. His other top cows rated fourth, eighth, ninth and tenth. The Workman Brothers had three of the top producers. Besides the No. 2 cow, they had two other cows placed fifth and sixth.

The only other top producer last month was Louella, a registered Holstein owned by James E Miltenberger, RFD 1, Ridgeley, who placed seventh.

Harry E. Miller, association supervisor, reported that 146 cows were on test during July. They averaged 750 pounds of milk, 28.1 pounds of butterfat and 3.75 per cent butterfat.

Mr. Miltenberger's herd had the highest average. His 24 cows averaged 803 pounds of milk, 30.9 pounds of butterfat and 3.86 per cent butterfat.

Garrett Host For County Boards Meet

The next meeting of the Western Maryland County Commissioners group will be held Thursday, August 31, at 10:30 a. m. at McHenry on Deep Creek Lake.

Notice of the quarterly session was sent to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday by the Garrett County board, which will be host for the program.

The group is comprised of the county boards from Allegany, Garrett, Washington, Frederick and Carroll counties. They discuss various matters which are of mutual interest.

The Allegany County board yesterday said it would notify the Garrett unit of items it wishes to have placed on the agenda for discussion.

Lions To Operate Food Stand At Fair

The LaVale Lions Club will operate a food stand during the Cumberland Fair, according to Floyd V. Cozad, president, who said the menu will feature barbecued chicken.

The club booth will be in operation Sunday through Saturday, with Harry E. White as general chairman. On Sunday, the booth will be open from noon to 6 p. m., while from Monday through Saturday, the hours will be from noon to 11 p. m.

Proceeds from the project will be used for civic and LaVale Park improvements, Cozad said. The club decided to sponsor the food booth, the president explained, because of the popularity of its barbecued chicken project during the past few National Sports Car Races here.

Sandwiches and soft drinks also will be available at the stand, White said.

Gasoline, Liquor Tax Revenue Up For July

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The comptroller's office reported Friday that receipts from motor vehicle fuel and alcoholic beverage taxes increased during July over the comparable month a year ago.

Net receipts from the sale of fuels totaled $5,151,815 while the alcoholic beverage tax yielded $794,671.

The fuel tax receipts jumped $301,750 or 6.2 per cent from the $4,850,065 collected in July, 1960, while the tax yield on the sale of alcoholic beverages increased $31,900 or 4.1 per cent over totals for the same month last year.

The State Roads Commission received $2.5 million of the fuel tax receipts; Baltimore City $1.5 million; the counties and municipalities received in excess of $1 million, and $22,171 went for administrative expenses.

An increase of $32,632 in receipts from the tax on the sale of distilled spirits led the way for the jump in alcoholic beverage tax revenue. The only decrease was noted in the receipts from the beer tax, which fell off $1,160.

Local Share Of Dam Cut $21 Million

Army Board Lowers Non-Federal Cost To $16,935,000

A new recommendation yesterday by the Board of Army Engineers for Rivers and Harbors in Washington reduced the non-federal costs of the proposed $51 million North Branch dam about two miles above Bloomington on the Potomac River from $37,962,000 to $16,935,000.

Back in May, the Board of Army Engineers for Rivers and Harbors had recommended that about 75 per cent of the cost or nearly $38,000,000 should be paid by non-federal interests.

This recommendation would have required local interests to pay the nearly $38,000,000 for water supply and water quality control and also to pay a proportionate part of the operation, maintenance and replacement costs.

Pay One Third

Yesterday's recommendation that non-federal interests pay only one-third of the cost came after the board in Washington considered the report on the project on the basis of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act amendment approved last July 1.

Col. Warren R. Johnson, Baltimore District engineer who now has Corps of Engineer responsibility for the Potomac River Basin, offered an explanation of the financing recommendations on the Bloomington dam, one of three recommended in April by the Corps of Engineers for the North Branch of the Potomac.

Previous federal regulations required the assessment of 75 per cent of the cost to water supply and water quality control. Amendment of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act reduced the percentage to 33 per cent for water supply and water quality control.

Col. Johnson stated that local interests may select one of three options for payment of their share of the cost. They are (1) one lump sum payment, (2) payment upon completion of construction and (3) payment in installments after the reservoir is in operation.

Most Attractive

There are a number of qualifications to the third option, which apparently would be most attractive to local interests.

For use of the reservoir for water supply, local interests would be required to pay about 5.8 per cent of the total cost or about $3,000,000, plus interest during construction of the dam and interest on the unpaid balance.

The balance of the non-federal cost of 27.4 per cent of the total cost, or about $14,000,000, would be repaid beginning 10 years after the storage is first available for low flow augmentation and final payment to be made 50 years thereafter, Col. Johnson advised.

Others Would Pay

Down-river users would pay a portion of the $14,000,000 cost because the storage would make available some of their future water supply needs, Col. Johnson explained.

In other words, not all of the $16,935,000 non-federal cost would have to be paid by Maryland and West Virginia. The dam would provide some benefits for both Virginia and the District of Columbia, the Corps of Engineers contends.

In its report to U. S. Senators J. Glenn Beall and John Marshall Butler of Maryland, Jennings Randolph and Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, and Reps. Charles McC. Mathias Jr. of Maryland's Sixth District and Harley O. Staggers of West Virginia's Second District, the Corps of Engineers estimated that the Bloomington dam would serve the needs of the area for 30 years. These needs include flood protection, water supply, water quality control, recreation, fish and wildlife.

Endorsed for later are a second Savage River Dam in Garrett County and a Stoney River Dam in Grant County, W. Va.

First To Apply For College

These two young men, both graduates of LaSalle High School, are the first to obtain application forms for the new Allegany Community College which plans to open its doors September 25. They are Gerald White, left, 212 Charles Street, and Roger Saliga, 20 Wempe Drive. Application forms will be mailed to some 650 interested persons Monday.

Two LaSalle Graduates Get First Applications

Application forms for prospective students for the new Allegany Community College arrived at the County Board of Education office yesterday afternoon and almost immediately two young men became the first to obtain the forms.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster said the forms had hardly arrived from the printers before Roger Saliga, 20 Wempe Drive, and Gerald White, 212 Charles Street, came to the office and obtained the first two applications.

Both are graduates of LaSalle High School. Young Saliga completed his high school studies in 1960 and attended Potomac State College at Keyser last year. He would like to enroll in the University of Maryland but needs to take a few special courses at the new college on Frederick Street.

The other young man was graduated in June from LaSalle. He would like to attend the community college for two years and then transfer to Frostburg State Teachers College.

Mr. Webster said yesterday that application forms will be mailed Monday to all of the approximately 650 persons who expressed some interest in a community college during a survey conducted by the superintendent early in June.

Meanwhile Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, dean of the evening and extension division of Montgomery Junior College in Montgomery County, has prepared a suggested schedule for day and evening classes. Dr. Zimmer will become president of Allegany Community College when he relinquishes his Montgomery duties August 18.

The college reserves the right to withdraw any offering if the demand is insufficient. Dr. Zimmer and Mrs. Webster are hopeful of an enrollment of at least 150 when classes start September 25.

Hit And Run Driver Fined, Officer Cited

A hit and run accident case which began June 17 was concluded yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court when the driver of the hit and run vehicle was fined and the city police officer who brought the case to court was commended by the court and state's attorney.

On June 17, Officer Robert Hershberger answered a call to Offutt Street where he found that a car owned by James Ashby, 416 Pine Avenue, parked on the left side of the street, had been damaged by a hit and run car. Ashby had parked the car there while he was at work at the B&O shops.

Neighbors told the officer that a light blue 1951 Buick had struck the car.

Officer Hershberger checked for several days and finally located a blue Buick of the description with a scrape mark on the left front fender about the same height as the mark on the damaged car. The car, found in the back yard on Elder Street, a couple blocks away from the scene of the accident, belonged to Herman Francis Bergman, 223 Elder Street.

Hershberger took samples of paint from both cars and sent it to the FBI. The FBI report was not conclusive, but as far as they could determine in testing, they found it was possible that the cars had come in contact.

Bergman appeared yesterday before Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt, who found him guilty of leaving the scene of an accident when property damage was involved and fined him $50 and costs. He also assessed Bergen eight points and suspended his driving license.

State's Attorney James S. Getty prosecuted the case, and Harold E. Naughton was Bergman's attorney.

Nationwide Obtains School Bus Insurance

Nationwide Insurance Companies, through agent Clarence McKenzie, submitted a low bid of $3,928.50 for insurance on the fleet of 106 buses and 12 automobiles used to transport Allegany County public school children to classes.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster said the contract has been awarded. The only other bidder was Federal Mutual Insurance Company, Decatur, Ill., through Norval W. Twigg, $5,685.82. The insurance is effective for 12 months beginning August 15.

The vehicles will be inspected Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday under direction of J. Hubert Radcliffe, county supervisor of transportation.

Deep Creek Lake 'Safety Strip' Rules Explained

"Will you help keep Deep Creek Lake a place of beauty for thousands to enjoy?"

That question was asked by the Pennsylvania Electric Company in large display advertisements which appeared this week in Cumberland and Oakland newspapers.

Deep Creek Lake was built at a cost of more than $9,000,000 by Pennsylvania Electric Company to supply water for the Deep Creek hydro-electric generating station. Efficient operation of this station must be the sole criterion for determining the water level in the lake, the company states.

Walter W. Dawson, Oakland attorney who represents the Pennsylvania Electric Company, explained last night that the "safety strip" is determined by the altitude of 2,466 feet. The strip extends a distance of 25 feet back from the 2,466-foot contour line around the entire 65 miles of shore.

The company has experienced difficulty in attempting to enforce its regulation prohibiting permanent structures within the "safety strip." A number which were constructed in violation of the regulations have been removed or moved to new sites. Several large stone walls had to be torn down and permanent boat houses moved from the "safety strip."

Lonaconing Men On Co-Op Board

Bertus Beeman and William Wier of Lonaconing were elected to the local Southern States Cooperative Board during a recent annual membership meeting held in that community.

Elected to the local Southern States Farm Home Advisory Committee were Mrs. Jessie Green and Mrs. Sam Metz of Barton.

One of the highlights of the meeting was the report of the Southern States Cooperative which was given by David Nuzum of Fairmont, W. Va., a regional representative.

Charles Clise, manager of Clise Feed and Supply Company, gave a report on local operations and services.

'Fly-In Brunch' Set Tomorrow At Airport

Display Will Be Open To Public

The Cumberland Pilots' Association is making preparations to serve up to 150 area pilots at the "Fly-In Brunch" planned tomorrow at the Cumberland Municipal Airport.

The guests are expected to arrive here between 11 a. m. and 4 p. m. Special invitations have been extended to inactive pilots of the area.

Trophies will be awarded for the best restored antique and experimental aircraft. Complimentary sailplane flights will be offered to the pilot coming the longest distance and to the oldest and youngest active pilots.

A number of planes will be here for the outing and the public is welcome to inspect them, the association said.

Among the display will be a T-28 former Navy trainer and a Fairchild K-R 34, and a number of modern private and commercial planes.

The West Virginia National Guard, through Kenneth Gornal, former local pilot, will send a C-119 Flying Boxcar to the fly-in. It will be open to the public for inspection.

Contests scheduled during the "fly-in" will depend upon favorable weather. The rain date is August 20.

Found Guilty Of Assault

Stelman R. Flanagan pleaded not guilty to the charge when he appeared before Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt.

He was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction but was placed on probation for 12 months on condition that he refrain from drinking, stay out of places where alcoholic beverages are sold or served, and stop abusing his wife and children.

He was also ordered to report to Magistrate Weatherholt once each month during the time he is on probation.

Girl Is Unhurt When Hit By Car

City police said last night that a girl hit by a car at Fort Cumberland Homes was uninjured except for a scratch on the leg.

They said the girl, Bonnie Creamer, 12, Fort Cumberland Homes, was standing at the curb on a sharp curve, and was struck by the back of a passing car.

Police said the driver had no knowledege of the accident.

Planning Grant Is Requested For Cumberland

Urgent Needs Are Listed By Mayor

Mayor J. Edwin Keech has been advised that an application for an urban planning grant is being forwarded to the Housing and Home Finance Agency by the State Planning Department.

The director of the state unit, James J. O'Donnell, in announcing that the application was being filed, warned Mayor Keech that a delay of from 30 to 60 days can be anticipated.

The Mayor told Mr. O'Donnell he was delighted to know that the application was being filed and urged the state unit to do all it can to expedite the beginning of the planning program here.

Cites Problems

The State Roads Commission, he said, will complete a new $20,000,000 Thruway through the City of Cumberland and the impact of this facility on the central business district and residential sections must be studied.

Several hundred properties, commercial and residential, will be torn down during the Thruway construction, and the city's traffic flow will change considerably.

Other problems which must be solved during the city's planning program include the request of LaVale for sewage treatment services, he said.

One shopping center is nearing completion and another will be constructed in the near future. Both are outside the city limits, he said, and their effect on the central business section must be studied, and plans made to revitalize the area.

He added that areas adjoining the city have requested city water and sewage services, and studies will be needed on whether or not it will be advisable to annex these areas.

Will Need Study

Studies of off-street and on-street parking and traffic flow will be needed, and a "Workable Program" placed into effect to alleviate present conditions.

A new zoning ordinance will also be needed, he added, since the present ordinance was adopted in 1944 and does not meet present requirements.

Forwarded to the state unit were copies of a formal application for participation in the Urban Planning Assistance Program signed by Albert S. Paye, chairman of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, and Mayor Keech.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Western Maryland Railway Friday announced it will increase the work force of its Elkins, W. Va. car shop by 41 per cent on Sept. 5.

He said the new men will join 44 workers assigned to program work, which is scheduled overall maintenance of cars. The other 41 employes at Elkins car shop do normal day-to-day maintenance.

The first project for the men will be to put new bodies on hopper cars which are used to haul coal, ore, etc. When that program is finished, they will work on gondola-type cars which are used to carry steel and steel products.

NYC President Predicts 3-Way Rail Merger

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The financial difficulties of the eastern railroads will result in a merger of the Chesapeake & Ohio, the Baltimore & Ohio and the New York Central, NYC President Alfred E. Perlman said here Friday.

A two-way merger of the C & O and B & O at this time, he said, "would result in bankrupting the New York Central by taking away traffic that now goes in combination, via the Central-C & O and Central-B & O."

The C & O has applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for control over and later to merge with the B & O.

Perlman was in town to act as host to 24 security analysists making a three-day inspection tour of the New York Central system.

He said he hoped the C & O and the Central would be allowed equal stock control over the B & O, which would be held in trust. The B & O would then be independent until a three-way merger was feasible.

"The economies of joint ownership would mean enough savings within a few years that the C & O, which does not now want a three-way merger, should find it desirable," he said.

Perlman cited a report by Morgan Stanley Co., New York investment house, which indicated the three-way merger would annually save over $150 million and the C & O would benefit the most. The report was prepared at the request of the B & O.

Perlman and the analysts will also visit Toledo, Indianapolis and Pittsburgh.

Camp Potomac Attended By 572 Boy Scouts

Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, recently completed another successful season at Camp Potomac, near Oldtown, according to Ross O. Decker, council camping chairman.

This was the 11th year the County United Fund agency has conducted a summer camp at the 114-acre site for Scouts of Allegany, Garrett, Hampshire, Mineral, Hardy and Grant counties.

Some 572 Scouts spent a week or more at camp, for a total of 713 Scout weeks. This represents 54 per cent of the eligible membership. Last year, 56 per cent of the membership attended camp for a total of 748 Scout weeks, which placed the Council in third place among the 52 councils of the region.

Forty-four of the council's 48 troops were represented at camp and 33 had their own adult leader attend with them.

Camp Potomac again received an A rating on the official camp inspection by scoring 96 of a possible 100 points in the national scoring plan.

Dr. John B. Davis, Frostburg, council health and safety chairman, arranged for local physicians to conduct medical rechecks of all Scouts upon arrival at camp. Only three boys required the attention of a physician during the six-week camping season.

While at Camp Potomac the Scouts had an opportunity to take advantage of an adequate staff and facilities for advancement in scouting skills and merit badges.

The grocery list for the summer included 523 pounds of ham, 463½ roast beef, 430 ground beef, 230 pounds of wieners, 180 dozen eggs, 805 chicken legs, 15,155½ pints of milk, 2,928 sweet rolls and 1,057 loaves of bread.

The Cumberland Lions Club foundation made available to the camp 12 new tents and platforms, three aluminum canoes and three rowboats. The Petersburg, W. Va., Lions Club purchased material for an outdoor chapel which was constructed by members and leaders of Explorer Post 63, sponsored by the club.

Articles Stolen Here Recovered In Fairmont

Detainers Filed For Man Held There

Several of the articles stolen from business establishments here over the weekend were found in the possession of a man being held by Fairmont, W.Va. police, according to Detective Capt. James E. Van.

He said Sgt. Wayne Stutler of the Fairmont Police Department called yesterday to report that a man booked as Charles William Brown was in custody there.

Capt. Van added that Sgt. Stutler said the man had in possession, when he was picked up, several of the articles believed stolen here.

Had Credit Card

The loot includes a check writer taken from the offices of the John I. Vandegrift Company in the Liberty Trust building over the weekend; a typewriter case reported stolen from Goldfine's Studio, 117 Baltimore Street, and an expired credit card taken from Henry K. Duke's office at 72 Pershing Street.

Capt. Van said Fairmont police reported that the man had a number of other articles, of which nothing is known here, in his possession.

There was no trace of the portable typewriter taken when the Goldfine studio office door was forced.

Capt. Van said he was advised the man had made no statement.

Details of the cases, he said, have been turned over to the state's attorney's office and State's Attorney James S. Getty has said he will extradite, if necessary.

Three breaking and entering warrants have been sent to Fairmont police to serve as detainers.

Accomplice Missing

Charges will be filed here against the man and his accomplice, who is still missing, as soon as the investigation is completed, Capt. Van said.

Copies of the complaint sheets prepared by the Detective Bureau and sent to area authorities resulted in the solving of the cases.

Capt. Van, who has been investigating with Detective Harry Iser, said authorities here expect to go to Fairmont next week to confer with authorities concerning the thefts here.

Doors of the establishments entered over the weekend were opened by the use of a thin metal probe, authorities said.

By PAUL GERARD

When the arrangements were being made for an interview with Dorothy Collins for this article, the picture kept recurring in our mind of the pretty young girl next door with the white blouse and black tie who made famous—and in turn became famous as a result of it — the cigarette commercial on "Your Hit Parade" in the early years of television.

It has been a long road and a most successful one since the "Be Happy, Go Lucky" jingle became her trademark and the association paved her way to success.

Actually, Dorothy hasn't changed a bit. She is still as lovely and charming albeit the white blouse and tie are gone, and she is now the mother of two lovely girls, Deborah 6 and Elizabeth 2.

Although the question uppermost in our mind was how she, who has been primarily a singer, became a regular on "Candid Camera" (CBS-TV, Sundays, 10:00 to 10:30 p.m.), we were soon to learn that our Dorothy has exhibited a versatility perhaps little known to most TV fans.

In her early years as a vocalist with the "Raymond Scott Quintet", the petite songstress was called upon to act as mistress-of-ceremonies as well as a vocalist while Raymond Scott, who chartered her career and married her in 1952, left to take over as conductor of "The Hit Parade" orchestra for his brother, Mark Marnow after his death.

DOROTHY COLLINS

In 1950 Scott was asked by a national tobacco company to create a "jingle" commercial for one of their products. Dorothy, without credit, sang the verse. The success of the commercial eventually led to her being signed for "Your Hit Parade". This, in turn, led to national recognition. She starred on the program

By late 1956, she began branching out as a major attraction at leading night clubs and hotels around the nation. During the last few years she has also been seen frequently as a guest star on the top variety shows, including "The Garry Moore Show", "The Pat Boone Show", "The Perry Como Show" and "Music for a Summer Night". She has also starred on the summer stock circuit in "South Pacific", "Carousel" and "Rosalie".

Thus we came back to our question of Dorothy and "Candid Camera". It seems that when plans were being made to revive "Candid Camera", Allen Funt decided he didn't want anyone with any set routnies. "I want someone like Dorothy Collins," he said. Dorothy agreed to appear as a semi-regular and participate in various candid film vignettes. And it was as simple as that.

The success of "Candid Camera" has been phenomenal. It beat out its opposition, "The Loretta Young Show" in the ratings — a feat no other show has been able to accomplish. We feel Dorothy Collins has been a strong cog in the wheel of success of "Candid Camera". Viewers will long remember Miss Collins driving a car without any motor; asking passersby to change a tire while her husband naps in the back seat of the car; asking people at Idlewild Airport to look after her "little sister" who is making her first flight alone; smoking a cigar and assaying the reaction of the man-in-the-street to lady cigar smokers — and many more hilarious sequences.

MOVIES BECKON — Actor Richard Boone, (Paladin of TV) plays a role totally dissimilar to that of the "Have Gun, Will Travel" hero as he heeds the call of the big screen to film "A Thunder of Drums," a story of U. S. Calvary and Indian Fighters. The sophistication of Paladin is gone, and Boone portrays an embittered man.

Dance Reflects Influence Of TV

There seems to be a trend toward made-in-America ballet, according to Lucia Chase, director of the American Ballet Theatre, just back from a tour of 47 cities in this country.

She thinks television may have had something to do with this. Seeing ballet so frequently on TV shows has made the American public more conscious of it, Lucia claims.

"Americans are accepting a native ballet company as the equal of any in the world," she says.

K Says West Won't Fight

Rusk Reports On Europe

Secretary of State Dean Rusk talks with newsmen outside the White House Friday after giving a personal report to President Kennedy on his week-long consultations in Europe. He said he found a "high degree of unity among the western allies on the Berlin problem," and that major powers all expect negotiations with Russia over the issue. (AP Photofax.)

Army Sending 3,000 New Men To Europe

Additional Troops Being Trained

By CHARLES W. CORDDRY

WASHINGTON — (UPI) Army Secretary Elvis J. Stahr Jr. said Friday night the Army will send 3,000 additional troops to Europe in the immediate future, and is training even more men for shipment later.

Stahr made the announcement in branding as "completely without foundation" an unofficial military journal's report that Gen. Lauris Norstad, supreme allied commander in Europe, had been rebuffed by the Pentagon in his request for 38,000 additional troops.

The Army secretary failed to say, however, whether Norstad would get the full number of additional troops he asked.

The report that Norstad's request had been rejected was carried by the Army-Navy-Air Force Journal, an unofficial but authoritative publication. It said the administration had decided to restrict the buildup of U.S. forces in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) to between 3,000 and 4,000 soldiers.

The Pentagon had declined comment on the article earlier. But this evening Stahr said in a statement: "This report is completely without foundation." He added:

"The secretary of defense and I are in complete accord with our commanders in Europe on the size and timing of the buildup and actions that are under way to carry out the plans in timely fashion."

He referred to President Kennedy's emergency military plans for meeting threats to Berlin and other Western outposts.

Stahr said that in addition to sending the 3,000 new froops to Norstad's command, the remaining soldiers required to meet the needs in that theater "are being trained in specific tasks" for shipment later.

Echo I Begins Second Year In Outer Space

By SAM HARTZ

Gazed at by millions, the silvery balloon satellite has ticked off more than 4,700 two-hour global tours since it blossomed into being above Cape Canaveral, Fla. Aug. 12, 1960.

But its trips are showing.

Though bright as ever to viewers, Echo is something of a Sad Sack. From 100 feet in diameter, it has shrunk to 70; its cellophane thin aluminum skin is wrinkled at the seams; and its shape is half way between a prune and a balloon.

Punctured by micrometeorites, Echo has probably just about run out of gas, too.

But the Smithsonian Institution Astrophysical Laboratory has given it another year, perhaps two or three, before it spirals to fiery death in the earth's atmosphere.

The big communications satellite was a success from the moment in space when it was born of a bundle of plastic sheeting and 30 pounds of sublimating powder that bloomed into gas to inflate it.

On orbit No. 1, scientists in California hit the shiny sphere by radio with a recorded message from President Eisenhower. Echo whizzing along at 18,000 miles an hour, 1,000 feet above the earth, relayed the message down to Holmdel, N. J. Two-way telephone talks, pictures and musical recordings—the first of hundreds to follow—were bounced off the satellite from one part of the earth to another. A dream of worldwide television became closer to reality.

To the man on the street, Echo became "the satellite you can see."

Paratroopers Make Big Jump

CHERAW, S.C. (UPI) —More than 4,000 paratroopers from the 101st Airborne Division filled the skies over Cheraw, S.C., Friday in a new phase of this nation's most extensive war games since Nazi armies threatened democracy.

The maneuvers, involving more than 40,000 men strung out along a 100 mile front, are aimed at testing this nation's ability to fight a "brush fire" war such as Korea.

At least two men were injured in Friday's jump. Their main parachutes failed and their reserve chutes didn't open until they had reached tree top level in their 1250 foot plunge.

Two other parachute failures destroyed a truck and a trailer. Both pieces of equipment cannonballed to earth and were smashed.

Impacted Area School Aid Is To Be Approved

By LEWIS HAWKINS

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee Friday rammed through swift approval of a bill to continue aid to school districts where federal activities have boomed populations.

The move symbolized the death of administration hopes for any general aid-to-education legislation at this session of Congress.

Dispensing with hearings, the Senate Labor and Welfare Committee voted 11-1 for a measure, introduced Thursday, to extend for one year the impacted areas program which has been costing about $312 million a year.

In contrast to the bitter opposition to general aid, this legislation is expected to sail through virtually unopposed. The reason is that this aid—which is for teachers' salaries as well as classroom construction — goes to schools in the home districts of 315 representatives and the states of 96 senators.

The program expired June 30 and to hasten its revival the Senate bill is to be sent to the House and acted on there under a suspension of the rules. This means it would go to no committees.

Outer Mongolia Plan Dropped

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has decided not to set up diplomatic relations with Outer Mongolia at this time, the State Department announced Friday.

The department said that, "In view of the existing world situation, it is in the best interests of the United States to suspend further exploration of that matter at this time."

The possibility of recognizing Outer Mongolia has been widely discussed within the Kennedy administration since it took office in January.

East Germany To Seal Off Escape Routes

Travel Bans Expected As Next Move

Parliament Gives Red Officials Full Authority

By EDWARD J. SHIELDS

BERLIN (UPI)—All travel by East Germans into both East and West Berlin soon will be banned by Communist authorities, reliable sources said Friday night.

The ban will mean, the sources said, that no East German citizen will be allowed to travel to either East or West Berlin without the special permission of authorities in his own home town.

The sources said the unprecedented ban was drawn up Friday after the East German parliament gave the government a blank check to take all measures to halt the greatest mass exodus since the June 17, 1953 revolt.

Shortly after the parliament acted East German Foreign Minister Lothar Bolz announced the Soviet bloc Warsaw Pact foreign ministers would meet late this autumn to discuss preparations for a German peace treaty and agree on the next steps in the Berlin crisis.

Considered Unusual

The ban was considered unusual by observers here who believed that never before had a government barred travel of its citizens to their own capital.

The sources stressed that trips to East as well as West Berlin were to be barred. Most refugees take elevated or subway trains to West Berlin from East Berlin.

However, the sources said there would be no ban on travel between East and West Berlin immediately. They said the East German government did not plan to close the East-West city border now.

They said for the time being East Berlin residents, unlike East Germans, outside the city, would be able to travel freely to West Berlin as now.

As the parliament acted, hundreds more East Germans crossed into West Berlin. The West German press office said another 1,573 refugees registered Friday, raising the month's total to 16,187.

The press office also announced that 12,448 East Germans fled during the week ending Friday for the highest weekly total in eight years.

Many of the refugees brought reports of heightening unrest in East Germany similar to that which exploded into the Soviet Zone revolt of June 17, 1953.

Approved Resolution

The Communist-dominated East German parliament approved — without a single "no" — a resolution authorizing the government "to prepare and execute all measures" to stem the refugee tide.

It was a virtual blank check to crack down on what the Communists call "the organized head-hunting and slave trading carried out from West Germany and West Berlin and to safeguard the (East) German Democratic Republic."

West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt promptly condemned the resolution as the "Enabling Act" of 1933 that Germany's last pre-war Democratic parliament handed over all its effective powers to Adolf Hitler.

Senate Arguing Foreign Aid Bill

By ERNEST VACCARO

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's foreign aid program survived a major hazard Friday night when the Senate rejected a move to deny him long-range authority to lend funds borrowed from the Treasury.

An amendment which would have forced annual congressional appropriations for any lending was beaten.

The amendment was rejected on a 56-39 roll call, giving the administration a 17-vote margin in contrast to predictions earlier Friday of an edge of only five to seven votes.

Bi-Partisan Support

Forty-six Democrats and 10 Republicans supported the President while 16 Democrats joined 23 Republicans in opposition to his plan.

Approval of the amendment would have destroyed the long-range lending and Treasury-borrowing principles which the administration feels are vital to the over-all success of its program.

While preservation of these principles constituted a major victory for the administration, it did not insure that the chief executive will get the full, five-year $8.8-billion lending program he has asked.

Byrd And Goldwater

Sens. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., and Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., paced the attack on the President's request for authority to lend up to $8.8 billion in the next five years with money largely borrowed from the Treasury without annual appropriations by Congress.

Byrd, a frequent opponent of administration bills, offered the amendment to strike the lending authority from the pending measure to provide $4.3 billion for foreign aid this year. This includes $1.1 billion to start the long-term, low-interest loans to underdeveloped nations.

The Virginia veteran said the program would promote poor risk loans with no certainty of repayment. He said if there were no repayments over the 50-year span which the loans could cover, the compounded interest on the $8.8 billion would run it to $29.7 billion.

"This is no time to relax control over any public spending," he added.

REVOLUTION REPORTED IN ARGENTINA

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — A broadcast by a proclaimed revolutionary junta said Friday night the government of President Arturo Frondizi has been deposed. The proclamation was delivered over the government radio.

The manifesto said members of the armed forces, with what it called "national sensibility identified with the people" have started a march toward "our liberation."

Laotian Forces Fight Mortar, Artillery Duel

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI) — Government and rebel Laotian forces battled sporadically with mortars and artillery for two days on the outskirts of the rebel capital at Xieng Khoung, reliable sources reported Friday. There was no word on the outcome of the battle.

The fighting began Tuesday night when rebel troops in Xieng Khoung trained their 105 mm. howitzers on positions held by pro-government Meo tribesmen in the surrounding mountains, sources here said.

An estimated six to eight Meo companies known to be in the area responded with the heaviest weapons they have, apparently including 81 mm. mortars. Several of the mortar shells fell on the rebel capital, sources said.

This would mean that the tribesmen were within three miles of Xieng Khoung, military experts here said.

Speaking amid an all-out Communist attack against international controls in Laos, Indian chief delegate Arthur Lall warned that the three-month-old conference must reach a settlement soon.

At the same time U.S. Roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman again pledged that the 300 U.S. military advisors in Laos would be withdrawn, providing other forces — including Communist Vietminh units — were removed simultaneously under effective supervision by the International Control Commission.

Ann Duncan Wins Stay Of Execution

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Elizabeth Ann Duncan, under sentence to die Wednesday, was granted a stay of execution Friday by the U. S. Court of Appeals.

The stay will remain in effect until the court can hear arguments on whether newspaper publicity inflamed the residents of Ventura, where Mrs. Duncan was tried, and influenced the jurors.

Mrs. Duncan, 57, was convicted of hiring two men to slay her daughter-in-law, the wife of her son, Frank, who is acting as her attorney.

Japs Protest Mikoyan Visit

By ROY ESSOYAN

TOKYO (AP)—About 1,600 banner-waving ultrarightists, hundreds of them clad in steel helmets and leather boots, clashed Friday with police guarding the Soviet Embassy. The demonstrators were protesting a visit to Japan next week by Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan.

Police, grouped in ranks five deep, threw back two charges 200 yards from the embassy. The demonstrators gave up and marched off after truncheon-wielding police reinforcements rushed in.

Officers counted one casualty among their ranks but made no arrests in the second organized demonstration in three days protesting Mikoyan's arrival Monday. He is top open a Soviet trade fair.

Police appeared determined to prevent a repetition of the mob law which blocked former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's visit to Japan last year. But the right-wingers appeared equally determined to even the score.

Demonstrators protected by bright green, blue and yellow steel helmets waved placards saying "Red devil stay home" and "Let Kamikaze World War II suicide pilots expel him."

Senators Approve New Cabinet Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation to create a new Cabinet secretary was approved Friday by the Senate Government Operations Committee.

The bill, requested by President Kennedy, would establish a Department of Urban Affairs and Housing. Actually the effect would be to elevate the present Housing and Home Finance Agency to Cabinet status and give it a new name.

GOP LEADER QUITS—Frank Kenna, accused of using his office for private profit, quit his post as Republican leader of New York's borough of Queens, Friday. He said his action is no admission of wrongdoing, but he is stepping aside as he doesn't want his own role to be an issue in the city's mayoralty election. (AP Photofax)

Germans Honor Dr. Buchman At Memorial

FREUDENSTADT, Germany (AP) — Memorial services were held Friday for Dr. Frank Buchman, the American who founded the Moral Rearmament Movement.

Buchman died at 83 after a coronary attack Monday night while vacationing at this Black Forest resort. It was here that 23 years ago he conceived the idea that sparked the worldwide movement.

About 1,000 of his followers jammed into Kurtheater where the services were held.

Federal Labor Secretary Theo Blank, the official representative of the West German government, told the audience Germany will never forget Buchman.

"He was among the first to extend a brotherly hand to us after the defeat in the last war," said Blank.

Dr. Paul Campbell, an American physician who for years looked after Buchman and was at his bedside when he died, called on the audience "to remain silent and listen whether God may not give us new guidance."

This was followed by two minutes of silence.

On Sunday, similar memorial services are to be held in Caux, Switzerland, headquarters of the Moral Rearmament Movement.

Perry Como's Son Weds Beauty Queen

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Beauty queen Melanie Adams was wed Friday to Ronald Como, son of singer Perry Como, in a quiet ceremony limited to friends and relatives.

Nearly 200 curiosity seekers gathered outside the Sacred Heart church on the University of Notre Dame campus. The vows were read in a small chapel inside by the Rev. Glenn Borman, prefect of religion at Notre Dame.

Both the bride and bridegroom are 21. Como will be a senior at Notre Dame next month.

Reiterates Willingness To Negotiate

Russian Premier Tells Red Rally Soviet Is Strong

By REINHOLD G. ENSZ

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev declared Friday it is a fairy tale that the West will fight for West Berlin. If war does come, he went on, "hundreds of millions" will die in the resulting nuclear holocaust.

He reiterated that he is ready to negotiate on the problem of Berlin; asserted "We will not be the first to push the button for a rocket war," and added: "We believe common sense will win."

But in almost the same breath, shouting and waving his arms, Khrushchev declared nothing will stop the Soviet Union from signing a peace treaty with East Germany. He even said Soviet rockets would destroy the Acropolis in Athens if necessary to promote Soviet aims.

Western Fairy Tale

He was so excited that his sentences became somewhat jumbled, but his meaning was clear.

"It is a fairy tale," he said, "that they will fight for the freedom of the Germans in West Germany if we sign a peace treaty.

"For 2,200,000 people (approximate population of West Berlin) they want to declare war and hundreds of millions of people will perish. What man of common sense can believe such nonsense?"

He said any Western war to create one Germany out of two Germanys is bound to fail. If such a war is fought, he said, there probably will be nothing left in Germany to unite.

But Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, Khrushchev said, "is stubbornly pulling his allies on the road of threats and an intensification of war dangers."

For the first time, Khrushchev stated outright that his drive for a peace treaty is firmly tied to the question of Soviet prestige.

"The question of the fight for a peace treaty with Germany is not just literally for a peace treaty," he said. "This is a question of a fight for recognition, the recognition of our greatness. Here is his majesty, the working class of the Soviet Union, which has organized a state with which you imperialists and colonial states have to reckon."

Friendship Rally

Khrushchev was speaking at a friendship rally in the Kremlin for Romanian Communist party chief Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej. The Romanian has been visiting the Soviet Union since July 31.

After discussing the merits of Soviet-Romanian friendship for about 15 minutes, Khrushchev launched into his angry denunciation of the Western military buildup.

The Soviet people, he shouted, refuse to be intimidated. He said the roars of the imperialists used to terrify Asian and African peoples but "times are different now."

Bow And Arrow Warriors Guard Devastated Village

By DENNIS NEELD

LAC MUKAMBA, the Congo (AP)—Bow and arrow warriors stand guard here now over the charred ruins of a dozen African villages devastated in a new and savage outbreak of tribal fighting.

Luntu tribesmen and invading Baluba soldiers from South Kasai met in battle around this old Congo holiday resort as soon as U. N. troops were withdrawn from the area.

Barely a hut remains undamaged. Rows of gutted homes stretch out for mile after mile. Luntu survivors claim hundreds of men, women and children were butchered in the three-day massacre.

Lac Mukamba now is like a town withstanding a siege. It is cut off from the outside world by broken bridges and great jungle trees felled across narrow roads. Only by helicopter is it possible to reach here.

When the ship put down, Luntus approached it menacingly with homemade guns, spears and bows and poison-tipped arrows at the ready. The U. N. helicopter pilot threw out his K-rations and the warriors lowered their weapons.

The Luntus poured out of a big, tin-roofed shack they have turned into a fortress. It is the only building for miles around still standing.

From the air, villagers could be seen raking through the ruins of their homes. As the helicopter passed overhead, they stopped to wave white flags as an appeal for help. But the nearest U. N. troops now are based at Luluabourg, 50 miles away.

The withdrawal of U. N. Ghanaian soldiers from Lac Mukamba has never been announced and no explanation has been given. There is no sign of Albert Kalonji's troops, for whom the U. N. withdrawal was the signal to swarm in from South Kasai in a bid to recover territory they claim traditionally belongs to them. After the battle the Balubas apparently went back to their outposts across the disputed and undefined frontier.

FCC To Air Complaints That Weather Broadcasters Puff Up Little Storms And Hurt Summer Business

By FRANCIS STILLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Weather broadcasters seem to be making some people hotter than the summer temperatures nowadays.

These sizzling citizens claim that too often the broadcasters give overinflated and horrendous accounts of the possibility of bad weather, which are not only bad business but bad for business.

It was a one-man heat wave generated by bandleader Guy Lombardo last weekend which set off a storm of blasts at weather commentators.

Lombardo and others decided that while they can't change the weather they can at least try to change the way some broadcasters tell about it.

Lombardo's ire also got him a job as a weather commentator himself, with a chance to show the other boys how he wants it done. He accepted an invitation to appear Friday night on New York TV station WPIX.

His forecast went this way: "According to the U. S. Weather Bureau forecast, this looks like a weekend for real good weather. So I'm forecasting that there are going to be many, many happy people around this area, such as resort owners, beach concessionaires, people in the boating business and everyone else connected with a summer enterprise."

Lombardo bosses a big summer outdoor show at Long Island's famed Jones Beach. He said some dire predictions by broadcasters cost the show about 2,000 customers last Sunday although the weather turned out just fine.

Lombardo, emphasizing he had no quarrel whatsoever with official U. S. weather forecasts, complained to the Federal Communications Commission about the way some broadcasters dramatize them.

He was soon followed by William H. Coy of Detroit, director of the Car Wash Institute, and by the chamber of commerce at Hampton Beach, N. H.

Coy said his association represents a $2-million daily business. But, he added, business at times this summer has been off as much as 40 per cent because of "negative forecasting." Furthermore, it sounds better anyway to say "partly sunny" instead of "partly cloudy," he said.

Hampton Beach asserted that "opinionated broadcasts" puffing up a weekend storm which failed to materialize did "irreparable damage to this and many other resorts on the New Hampshire coasts."

The FCC said it would look into these and a number of similar complaints.

As for the weather commentators themselves, none around New York would admit to having embroidered his account. But it seems that no matter what they do, somebody squawks.

Baltimore Widow Robbed, Murdered

Two Youths Sought By Police

BALTIMORE (AP)—Police searched Friday for two young men who fatally beat, raped and apparently robbed a well-to-do 64-year-old widow in her apartment in Northwest Baltimore.

Mrs. Ida Helen Baker was found in a semi-conscious condition on the bedroom floor by firemen who were called by neighbors when smoke was discovered coming from the apartment. The woman died at a hospital early Friday about three hours after she was discovered.

Police were unable to ascertain what might have been stolen. Investigators found $341 in cash hidden in a closet. There was also a small safe in the closet which had not been opened, although the five-room apartment had been ransacked.

In searching through the woman's personal papers, police found three bank books listing a total of $30,000, and $14,000 in government bonds.

There were stocks and bonds and insurance policies with a total value of about $100,000.

Investigators also found deeds to considerable property and receipts for a total of $2,704.90 paid last month in city taxes on properties she owned.

On the way to the hospital, Mrs. Baker told police she was attacked by two youths Thursday night when she went to investigate a noise in her rear bedroom.

Mrs. Baker died at a hospital about three hours after she was found lying on a bedroom floor under two windows.

In a statement to Patrolman Calvin Cason while enroute to the hospital in an ambulance, the dying woman said she was preparing for bed about 10:30 p.m. Thursday night when she heard a noise in a rear bedroom, went to investigate "and saw two boys." She identified them as white.

"They then jumped me and threw me on the floor," her statement added. "They attacked me and bound my arms and legs and gagged me. One of the youths then said, 'I have a gun and I will kill you if you do not tell me where the money is hidden.' "

She told them there was money in her purse, but did not say how much. She then told the officer the assailants carried her into a bathroom off the rear bedroom, where she lost consciousness. Later, she regained consciousness and managed to drag herself into the bedroom where firemen found her.

A passport indicated Mrs. Baker had traveled in Holland, France and Germany last spring.

did not disclose immediately what measures it would take to stem the refugee flood. It has the power to forbid East Germans to visit or work in West Berlin and to close the still-open border between East and West Berlin.

Western sources in Berlin, meanwhile, took a serious view of the surprise appointment of veteran Soviet Marshal Ivan S. Koniev as commander of the 22 Russian divisions in East Germany.

Western sources saw his appointment as the first concrete development following up Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's threat in his televised address Monday to increase Soviet forces on the "Western frontiers."

7 Civil Defense Officials In Md. Fail To Qualify

BALTIMORE (AP) —The U.S. Defense Department says a decision could be expetced Monday on seven Baltimore Civil Defense officials facing dismissal.

The department statement came in answer to a telegram Thursday from Sherley Ewing, Maryland Civil Defense Agency chief, who asked federal permission to keep the Baltimore officials on the job. The seven officials failed a Civil Service merit examination, and were dropped from the eligibility list for their own jobs

The officials included Carl J. Holub, deputy director of the city organization, and shelter officer Thomas P. Grogan, brother-in-law of Mayor J. Harold Grady.

In his telegram, Ewing said release all seven men now would cripple the city's civil defense program.

Baltimore's CD organization was placed on the merit system to make it eligible for federal funds.

In Baltimore, Francis B. Burch, chief of the city's Civil Service Commission, said his agency might consider giving the officials new examinations if an investigation showed the existing tests were inadequate gauges of eligibility. Several State and city CD officials charged that the examination in question included many questions not related to local Civil Defense duties and requirements.

Deadline for dismissal of the employes who failed the test is this month, unless the Defense Department intervenes. Civil Defense organizations throughout the nation recently came under the supervision of the department.

2 Counties Show Use Of State Aid

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Kent and Wicomico counties are the first two subdivisions to reply to Gov. Tawes' request for a report on how new State aid is being used at the local government level.

The two Eastern Shore counties said their share of the $14 5 million made available through increased sales and cigarette taxes largely had gone to increasing teachers' salaries and for school construction.

Wicomico County said the aid makes possible a boost in teacher pay from $100 to $400, a $50,000 appropriation for school construction, and a decrease in property taxes by four cents. Other receipts will be used for welfare contributions.

Estimates place Wicomico's share of the new tax revenue at between $140,000 and $168,000.

Kent County is expected to receive $106,618, and will use $36,489 for higher teacher salaries, $13,038 for new school science equipment, $4,264 for welfare purposes, and $52,827 for school construction.

REDHILL, England (AP) — A dairy company was fined 50 pounds—$140—when a housewife found a 15½-inch snake in the milk she was pouring over her breakfast cereal.

Note To Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department Friday said it has sent another note to Cuba about the hijacked Eastern Airlines plane which Cuba still has.

A spokesman said contents of the note would not be made public until Cuba receives it and replies.

Israel Fires Multi-Stage Test Rocket

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Israel recently fired its second space rocket within five weeks "during the last few days," reliable sources said Friday.

The rocket, known as "Shavit Three," had an altitude range of 100 miles, the sources said. Details on the firing were not available but informants said the rocket included one more stage than "Shavit Two," the multi-stage rocket which Israel launched last July 5.

There was no comment from the government.

The report of the rocket-firing came as the newspaper Maariv featured a story Friday reporting that "Shavit Three" was "ready" to be fired and that another rocket—"Shavit Four"—was being prepared for launching.

The newspaper said Premier David Ben-Gurion had ordered that "Shavit Three" not be fired until after next Tuesday's general elections. He requested the delay, the newspaper said, to head off any charges that the government was using the rocket launching for domestic political propaganda purposes.

According to Maariv, Israeli scientists decided not to include any costly recording and other instruments in "Shavit Three" until the missile's reliability had been proven.

Artist, Devout Presbyterian Layman, Draws Humorous Side Of Church Life

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

"And so, this Sunday, I have decided to preach on a less controversial subject."

The words appear beneath the drawing of a clergyman, standing before a sharply dwindled congregation—three people in a nearly empty church.

He carries on a ministry of the drawing board, puncturing pious pomposity with a grin, and using a chuckle to prick the consciences of the indifferent.

It's a new kind of pulpit—with a text that tickles.

"It's an inoffensive way to spank somebody's hand," he says. "If you tried to tell them in a serious way, they'd take offense."

One sketch, for instance, shows a sporty characetr shaking hand with the minister at the door. "Good sermon, reverend," he says. "Glad my golf partner 'chickened out' on me this Sunday."

Or, the cartoon of a determined clergyman addressing a sleepy congregation: "I'd be shot for saying these things in Russia. Still, it must be nice to get some kind of response."

Cartwright, a devout Presbyterian layman, started turning out his cartoon homilies in 1952. Distributed by the Interdenominational All-Church Press, Inc., they now appear regularly in more than 50 religious publications.

He has a deep regard for the church, but also a keen eye for its foibles and phonies, and he delivers his licks with a laugh.

"Most humor is tragedy," he says. But seeing the funny "little tragedies of life" in others may alert a person to his own failings.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . .
ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

The carefree may call this entertainment. The discouraged might call it life!

We feel often as though we're not getting anywhere. Many of us recall a long succession of up and downs—coming in a vicious circle.

To get anywhere, our life must have direction!

Not just ambition, mind you. Ambition is simply a restless yearning to reach another plateau.

Direction is a course of forward progress.

It may lead to one's ambition . . . or beyond. And sometimes it bypasses an unworthy ambition to bring within our reach a worthy goal.

Set a time in your week when you will forego both entertainment and ambition—to insure for body, mind and soul a right direction. Begin next Sunday morning!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Stockings Should Fit Like A Glove

But how many women have prefectly-proportioned legs? Very few, if any. One pair of legs, with average well-shaped calves, may have heavy outsize thighs. Another with normal thighs might copy the tree-trunk in abnormally thick calves and ankles. A third set of nearly perfect legs can treminate in long-narrow or short-pudgy feet.

There is no "average" leg. And, at long last, name-brand hosiery is knit to fit all the irregular proportions needed by each individual wearer. As a result, the stockings look better, feel better in action . . . and can boast of a lot more mileage before the first run.

The odd sizes (which comes close to being hosiery's "average" group) can now cater to the very tall or the very short, to the petites as well as the medium, and to both very slender or very heavy women. They include all the popular stocking types and weights—support, stretch, seamless or regular full-fashioned.

Thigh expansion is undoubtedly one of the happiest innovations in today's hosiery. The top welt is designed for super-stretch in the ample lengths and sizes . . . but, very practically, adjusts also to slender thighs.

Foot construction is designed for complete flexibility. Contour heels have conquered bagging, slipping and wrinkling about the ankles, give the closer fit so necessary in sling-back shoes. The feet are cleverly seamed to shape the top and the instep, toes are tailored to allow for wiggle-room.

If your leg proportions are irregular, tell your exact measurements to the sales clerk next time you shop for hose. Tell her the kind of foundation garment you expect to wear with your new stockings, too. A brief panty-girdle may require extra-long hose; a short length may be sufficient with long-leg foundations.

You'll detect an immediate difference in wearing well-fitted stockings. In comfort and appearance alone, the difference is obvious. Pulling, buldging and drooping disappear. Financially, the difference pays off in longer wear per pair. It's a known fact that loose-fitting stockings snag easily, while the strains caused by tight fit break into runs.

To help you take your measurements and estimate the irregularities in your proportions, send for my booklet, Do You Measure Up? Accompany your request to me, John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper with 10c in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Delivery will be made within two weeks.

The annual Henry Clay Shepherd family reunion will be held tomorrow in Grove 4 of Constitution Park. It will be an all-day picnic. Mr. and Mrs. George Shepherd are co-chairmen of arrangements.

Descendants of the late Benjamin E. Wotring will have a reunion today at Smouse's picnic grounds. Dinner will be served at 8 o'clock. A program of games for all ages has been planned and prizes will be awarded.

Allegany High School, class of 1951 will hold a reunion tonight at the Ali Ghan Country Club. It will be in the form of a dinner-dance, beginning at 6:30. Ronald Chapman will be master of ceremonies. Guests will include Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of schools, and Robert Pence, supervisor of physical education.

Women Voters League Selects Study Topic

"Foreign Economic Policy" will be the topic of study of the newly organized Provisional League of Women Voters of Allegany County.

Mrs. Abdul Hashim conducted the meeting, held at City Hall council room, at which time two main things were discussed. First the board recommended a budget be accepted. It was presented by Mrs. Lee Fresh, chairman. Assisting her are Mrs. Raymond McCullough and Mrs. John Kneisley.

The board recommended two items of study and the group chose the foreign economic policy. This was presented by Mrs. Alexander Ganyu, who also discussed setting up unit meetings.

So far it was decided to have one unit meeting a month. One will be held in Cumberland and the other in Frostburg. They tentatively are set for the first and second Tuesday of the month. Mrs. Edward Sokolowski was named unit chairman of the Cumberland group and Mrs. John Zimmerman of the Frostburg unit. The first meeting of the local unit is to be held September 5. It will be at the City Hall council room. Frostburg unit will meet September 12 in Lowndes hall of Frostburg State Teachers College. Both are to be at 8 p. m.

It was pointed out that the unit meetings are more or less study sessions, but will have speakers at various times.

Thomas Lohr Richards was guest speaker. His topic was the history of Allegany County. It was selected since the comprehensive survey of the county has begun.

Other officers serving with Mrs. Hashim are Mrs. Ganyu, vice president; Mrs. Robert Schwartz, secretary and Mrs. Kneisley, treasurer. They with Mrs. E. E. Miller, Mrs. Daniel Shupe and Mrs. William Van Newkirk compose the board of directors. They are to meet August 22, at which time they will discuss the leaders to be named.

Fashion Forecast For Fall-Winter, 1961-1962

Two-parts by day — long and slender by night: This summarizes the prevailing silhouette trend in dresses for fall. Strong — and getting stronger — is the bloused bodice. It makes some of the newest, most attractive daytime dresses; it lends grace and flow to the covered evening models. This is the fall-winter fashion picture.

Capes are seen as rippling little capelets or enveloping evening dresses in stately floor-length mantles. Some of the costume components look like capes, though they may be jackets or coats with stubby sleeves.

The two-part dress affirms the overblouse look, real or simulated. It's often banded or rimmed in grosgrain, contrasting fabric and newest of all — fur — to bring out the line. The glittering flowing evening metallics achieve elegance quietly in the covered, overblouse silhouette.

The flare is here, no doubt about it. It doesn't swoosh doorway-wide; it's under control; it's moderated.

Watch the line lengthen from shoulder to hip. The belt is often placed lower, the bodice descends past the natural waistline to the hipbone — especially when it blouses.

Body conscious is the watchword. More shaping is here. The silhouette moves into the body, especially in front. Not the old clutching look of the prechemise days, but something shapely and feminine, not disguising the figure, but not flaunting it either.

Crepes are everywhere, in color as well as black; they're fluid, they're shapely; they're new. Velvet steps out boldly, casting its rich glow on simple silhouettes, sometimes paired with satin. The velvet suit, the velvet dress, the velyet gown are three expressions.

Past Chiefs In Meet

The Past Chiefs of Calanthe Temple 3, Pythian Sisters Frostburg, will meet Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Mary Ziegler, Pocahontas, Pa. Each member must provide her own transportation.

The Brehm family reunion will be held tomorrow at the Melvin Brehm camp, South Branch. All relatives are invited.

A ham and chicken supper will be served from 5 until 7:30 tonight at Calvary Church social hall, Ridgeley.

Area Orchards To Ship First Peaches Next Week

The first of the commercial varieties of peaches will be shipped from the area peach orchard belt next week.

From the Hampshire fruit belt, where annually a quarter of a million bushels of peaches are harvested for the big metropolitan markets, will be going Hale Haven and Southland varieties.

A few early peaches have been picked in the past week, but these were of little commercial consequence.

The season, according to R. L. Sumner, manager of Mountain Fruit Sales Inc., big Hampshire County cooperative located in Romney, is from a week to ten days late.

Hale Havens and Southlands accounts for about ten per cent of the area crop, with the main variety, the Elberta, being over half of the peaches grown in this section.

As it stand now, the Elberta shipments will begin the week of August 27, and as usual harvesting will be interrupted by the long, Labor Day holiday.

Due to market conditions, the last day peaches can be shipped before the holiday will be on Wednesday, August 30.

Summer pointed out that a hydro-cooling or steri-cooling plus cold storage helps the orchardists over this period.

The peaches are given a long bath in ice water just as soon as brought in from being picked.

This removes the orchard heat from the fruit, which is a causative agent to spoiling, and then the peaches are placed in containers and held in cold storage until ready for movement to market.

Advances in this field of orcharding and marketing have almost revolutionized the handling of the very fragile peach in the past few years.

Sumner pointed out that in view of the rain of the past week or so crop prospects for peaches in this area are the best in years.

There has been very little hail damage, no particular onslaught by insects or disease, and there has been adequate moisture to size the fruit.

ABL Employes Commended By Blood Center

Mrs. Betty S. Vizi, administrator of the Blood Center, has written Mrs. Harry Beneman, chairman of the county's blood program, that the 301 pints of blood processed at the ABL visit set a new production record for the region.

Mrs. Vizi explained that the previous record for the amount collected at a single operation was 289 pints. Herman Smith, coordinator of the plant's program, and ABL officials were warmly praised by the administrator, who also noted that Red Cross personnel put in many hours of work in setting the blood-collection record.

The blood center has been in operation 12 years, Mrs. Vizi pointed out, and Allegany County will have completed 10 years of participation in the program next January. Pointing out that "accidents and illness do not take holidays," Mrs. Vizi said the Johnstown center is responsible for supplying the life-giving fluid to 44 hospitals in the region.

Collections of blood during the summer months pose a problem because of vacations and an increase in the number of traffic accidents. ABL's "splendid response came at a time blood was urgently needed," according to Mrs. Vizi.

Credit for Monday's record collection was given by Mrs. Vizi to ABL's program coordinator, explaining that Smith had arranged for 449 donors to sign up. Many of these were unable to be at the plant during the time of the visit, others were rejected for health reasons, and some were unable to wait around for processing because of the necessity of meeting transportation to their homes.

The Johnstown Blood Center is composed of 30 affiliated chapters in Pennsylvania, two in Maryland (Allegany and Garrett counties) and one in Mineral County (Keyser-Piedmont), W. Va.

You may have spent all these years believing that the Liberty Bell pealed our independence on July 4, 1776, but it isn't so. Actually, the Liberty Bell did not ring out tidings of our freedom from England until four days later — July 8, 1776, when Col. John Nixon first proclaimed the declaration publicly outside Independence Hall in Philadelphia.

2 New Employes Named To Amcelle Plant Staff

The addition of two men to the Amcelle professional staff of Celanese Fibers Company was announced yesterday by Hudson Nix, industrial relations manager.

Gary A. Smook has been assigned to cellulose compounds manufacturing section as a production engineer. Smook comes to the local plant from Rayonier, Inc., in Jessup, Ga., where he was a process engineer. He is a native of Oakland, Calif., and graduated from the University of California at Berkeley, in 1956 with a B.S. degree in chemical engineering.

His professional affiliations include the American Chemical Society and Technical Association of Pulp and Paper Industry. He was also active in the Lions Club and Toastmasters Club. He plans to reside in Potomac Park.

Philip W. Tigan has joined the accounting section at the local plant. He graduated from the University of Illinois in 1959 with a B.S. degree in accounting. He served in the Army for six months as second lieutenant and is presently in the active reserve.

Prior to coming to the local plant, he worked for Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation in Baltimore. While in school, he was a member of Alpha Phi Omega Fraternity, Newman Club, Army Drill Team and American Accounting Association. He is residing in Bowling Green.

Health Officer Asks State's Cooperation

Dr. W. Ross Cameron, acting deputy state health officer for Allegany County, has written Dr. Perry F. Prather, director of the State Department of Health, of the need for certain procedural changes in the operation of the local unit.

A copy of Dr. Cameron's letter was read at yesterday's session of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

The letter states:

"In recent months there appears to be an abnormal number of the staff of the Central Office (of the State Department of Health) spending time in Allegany County.

"Little seems to be accomplished except to add confusion to an already complex situation. It seems of the utmost importance that state and local authorities work together as a team rather than appear to the public to be working at cross purpose.

"Therefore, it seems desirable at the present time to take the following steps.

"Staff members of the Central Office should report to this office before undertaking work in this county and present their findings after they are finished. This represents little more than professional courtesy.

"Visitors should refrain from issuing statements to the press unless cleared through this office, or through John J. Rowan, president of the Board of County Commissioners.

"It is most fortunate that Mr. Rowan is taking such an intense interest in the development of this department. To do otherwise than to cooperate closely with him and the other commissioners indicates a lack of understanding of the fitness of these men."

Dr. Cameron is the deputy state health officer for Washington County and has been acting in a similar capacity here until the position is filled.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need some help with my 11-year-old daughter. I raised her without a father—he left shortly after the girl was born. Now I know what you mean when you say a child needs two parents.

Ever since Eunice was a tot she was overly affectionate with men. She loved to sit on their laps, hug and kiss them.

This was considered cute when she was a toddler and naturally she received a lot of affection in return. I thought she'd outgrow this lap-sitting and hair-combing, but she hasn't.

She kisses the delivery men, the paper boy, her girl-friend's father—anyone in trousers. I'm terribly worried about where it may lead. Please tell me how I can put a stop to it.

—WORRIED SICK

DEAR WORRIED: Little girls who grow up with no father are often starved for male attention. They try to compensate for this loss by behaving aggressively with "anyone in trousers."

Your daughter needs professional help. Contact your family doctor, clergyman or the local mental health clinic. An expert who knows how to deal with troubled children may be able to change the course of this girl's life.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Have you got some pull with the shoe manufacturers? Please say something about the monstrosities they force us women to wear. For two years we've had to cram our feet into a needle-pointed horror. Now they are coming out with a square-toed nightmare. Who ever heard of a woman's foot coming to a point—or a square foot, for that matter?

I'm not ashamed to admit that I'm vain and wouldn't be caught dead in last year's styles. As a result I'm a near crippie. If enough women complain the manufacturers will have to change the styles. Please say something and help liberate us from this trend to foot torture.

—LIMPING 'LOU

DEAR LIMPING: Don't blame the shoe manufacturers. It's the women who are to blame. Females who complain about shoe styles fall into two categories. The majority of screamers are vain dames who, 20 years ago, wore 5A, and are loath to give up the fantasy that their iddy-biddy tootsies have spread a bit—what with four pregnancies and an added 20 years. It isn't the style that's murdering them, it's the SIZE.

The second group of complainers have long since wrecked their feet with ill-fitting footwear and if they wore the boxes instead of the shoes, their feet would still hurt.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband passed away eight months ago. Since then I have stayed home night and day and worked myself half to death so my time would be occupied and I wouldn't go crazy with grief.

Several women friends and a few gentlemen have invited me to dinner and other places, and I'd like to accept but my mother-in-law says no decent woman would accept a social invitation before "a year is up." She says I owe it to the memory of my husband to show him this respect.

We were happily married for 14 years and I feel I "showed my respect" by being a good wife and mother. Do you think my mother-in-law is right? I need your advice.—STIR NUTS

DEAR STIR NUTS: Life is for the living. If you think you would enjoy an evening out—GO.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry—Is It Love or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mathias Named Town Attorney Of Midland

MIDLAND—John J. Mathias, Frostburg and Cumberland attorney, has been appointed town attorney by Mayor Lionel Baker and Town Council, effective immediately.

He succeeds Jack I. Mullen of Westernport, who asked to be relieved of the duties because of the press of other business.

Several complaints were received about bad sewage conditions in George's Creek. The volunteer firemen have offered to flush sewers and to treat the creek with chemicals, according to Commissioner Donald Cook.

The books of the town for the fiscal year which ended June 30 will be audited by Lowell M. Sowers Jr., Frostburg accountant.

Three Hospitals Get Conditional W.Va. Licenses

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Three major West Virginia hospitals were cited last month for alleged fire hazards have been granted conditional licenses, it was announced Thursday.

The state fire marshal's office said the institutions are the new Pleasant Valley Hospital, Pt. Pleasant; Davis Memorial Hospital, Elkins, and Tucker General Hospital, Parsons.

Fire Marshal Basil Wright said the licenses were issued on the basis of their formal pledges to correct existing hazards.

He said Wheeling Hospital advised him it has prepared corrective measures which he will study, and Hinton Hospital's similar plan appears acceptable he said.

However, Wright said he has not heard from a number of other hospitals — including five in Charleston.

Wright also cited a number of nursing homes July 18 when he listed 28 hospitals that were refused licenses because of the hazards.

However, he said several are now being given conditional licenses on the same conditions granted the hospitals.

Withdrawal Of Whisky Causes Dispute

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — State Liquor Commissioner Clarence E. Elmore has vehemently denied that he authorized anyone to sign his name to paperwork for the withdrawal of whisky from the State warehouse.

Elmore replied to charges made by Nicholas M. Homes, who resigned recently as the department's merchandising director. The Charleston Daily Mail quoted Homes as saying 201 cases of liquor worth $10,000 were removed from the time Elmore took office in January to this week.

Homes, the last holdover from the previous Republican administration to leave a top-level liquor commission post, said the State lost no money on the whisky. He explained that it was charged to the distillers who manufactured it.

How Much Is A Billion Anyway?

Probably every one of us has, at some time or another, tried in vain to comprehend the size of a billion of something. This familiar mental gymnastic is occasioned most often by the mention of the billions of dollars the U.S. government annually takes away from us all and spends in some fashion or other.

From time to time we read that a billion one-dollar bills piled one on another would reach ever so high, or laid end to end would reach around the earth about four times. But when Congress gave its final assent the other day to a $46.6 billion defense budget, an even more overwhelming comparison came to the mind of a fellow who ponders such matters. Suppose, he supposed, that a typist could type 100 words per minute. Problem: how long would it take him to type a billion words? The answer, laboriously arrived at: 19 years, four days and about 18 hours. But wait—the problematical typist has been banging out a hundred words a minute, non-stop, 24 hours a day, seven days a week, without even a coffee break or a day off for leap year. If he were to work the customary eight-hour day, it would take him about 57 years, 14 days and six hours—and he still wouldn't get a day off, much less an annual vacation.

Now suppose our ambitious typist were trying to earn a billion dollars to make his 57 years of labor worthwhile. How much would he have to be paid per hour? Answer: at $1 per word, or $100 per minute, he would get $6,000 an hour. This works out to more than $17.5 million a year. If he were to defy the rules of longevity and live long enough to earn as much money as the new defense budget contains, he'd have to keep pecking away at the typewriter for 2,658 years. In other words, if he had started in the year 697 B.C., long before the era of dollars or of typewriters, he still wouldn't be quite finished.

And even if somebody had that many words to say or were willing to pay a typist so well, do you know what would happen when our typewriting Methuselah finished? Uncle Sam would be right there waiting to take it away from him, that's what.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Cowards Die

I recently received an unsigned post-card which speaks for itself:

"Sir:

"You made a real war-mongering speech today. Be sure to omit my son when you volunteer our sons!

"When did you last fight a war?

"I'd sign this but you'd say I'm a 'Red.' Amen."

This post-card comes from Newark, New Jersey, and refers to a radio talk I gave on the nature of the present war. What the card represents is abject cowardice, lack of patriotism, self-centered selfishness. The man who failed to sign his post-card is by nature cowardly. I would not call him a "Red." Most of the Communists I have known were daring men who risked their lives for what they believed to be true. Lenin, Trotzky, Bukharin, and all the makers of the Revolution were courageous.

The Newark anonymous post-card writer is more dangerous than a Communist because he is a coward and cannot be counted on in a crisis. Whoever he is, he offers nothing to the country that has given him opportunity and freedom.

To avoid invidious comparisons, my sons have done more than the law requires. We do not tolerate cowards in our breed.

This is a moral question which grows in significance as we come closer to peril. The cowards are stumbling blocks. They have voted and their votes have imperilled the survival of our country. As desirable as a free system of government is, both in the United States and Great Britain, cowards have sought to impede the defenses of both countries. It is too easy to attribute these evils to Communism and Communist machinations. Some of it is due to selfish fear, to an unwillingness to serve, to a lack of understanding of the American way of life.

No one need remain in this country; exit is unhampered. This is not true in Soviet Russia. Therefore, the person who finds himself uncomfortable under our system of government or who prefers another should pursue the advantages of freedom of choice and do what my father and millions of others did, find a better place to live than where they were born.

For the coward who does not want me to volunteer his son, I suggest Soviet Russia as a very suitable place to live. Then his son would not be asked to volunteer for anything. He would be told and he would do as he is told. There cowardice is not recognized as a right or are conscientious objectors given a chance to drive an ambulance. Whoever is not ready to perform what the government demands of him is a counter-revolutionist, a criminal against the state and party and is punished adequately. There is no choice.

If he does not like Soviet Russia, I strongly recommend Red China. That is a country ruled by a philosopher who also writes poetry. To Mao Tze-tung a person is a creature of the state, a mechanism to carry out the purposes of his party. His land and wife have only such relations as the state may from time to time find necessary. Children are separated so that their loyalty may not be retained by the family but would be focused on the state. Who needs a father or a mother if he can think of Mao Tze-tung as both? There one can be part of the permanent revolution and their wonderful human rights would be held in tutelage not by the Kuomintang as Sun Yat-sen designed but by the Communist Party which conquered and overawed the Chinese people.

Or if our coward does not like that, we can find a place for him in the Congo. There segregation is practiced but it is the white man who is segregated, pushed aside, and often killed. Or maybe this Newark coward would prefer Cuba — well, he can hijack a plane and land in Havana, a thief to be honored for his thievery and treachery.

But why go further? I shall be told that it is immoral to say, "Go back where you came from," and it is often geographically incorrect because the coward may have originated in Newark and he is still there and he has nowhere to go to.

But we need to have watchmen at our gates these days, careful, dedicated watchmen who recognize the coward who would sell our land for his personal safety. The time is running out when we can continue to risk his presence.

Threat Of Economic Blockade Worries Mr. K

By David Lawrence

IN EUROPE, Aug. 11 — Nikita Khrushchev's real dilemma doesn't stand out clearly because no single event points it up, but it is real just the same. He is up against a problem in East Germany which will never be solved his way—by trying to make Communists out of the majority of the German people.

All the world fears a nuclear war, because one is, of course, possible. But it isn't probable. This is recognized by the foreign ministers who have been meeting in Paris and by the Communist spokesmen who have been broadcasting their propaganda threats from Moscow. Mr. Khrushchev himself is somewhat dumbfounded by what he now calls the "war psychosis." For he knows the West wouldn't start a nuclear war, and he himself doesn't dare to do so, either. He is well aware that his twenty-year plan and the aspirations of Communism to dominate the world cannot be realized on the debris of a devastated humanity.

What, then, is the international sparring match about? The Soviet Premier is desperately trying to save East Germany from being absorbed some day by a prosperous and efficient West Germany. Communism is far from a success in East Germany, as evidenced by the steady flow of refugees to West Germany.

Also, Poland is restless. So is Czechoslovakia. So is Hungary. The fate of Communism is at stake in East Germany, and Mr. Khrushchev will try in any way he can to get that separate peace treaty signed, even if it finally means letting West Berlin itself alone.

But the test will not come—as has been so often assumed—by a deliberate or major attempt to block the Allied routes of access to West Berlin. It will come in gradual stages, and at a slow and exasperating pace, after a peace treaty with East Germany has been signed later this year.

Climaxes will arise one after another as East German customs guards or troops delay or block traffic here and there, only to remove the obstructions when a real fuss is made about it by the Allies.

Western troops will continue to be in readiness nearby, but the Soviets will never give them an opportunity to do any fighting. Also, on the Western side the futility of a military operation to stop interferences with Allied traffic will sooner or later become apparent. Instead, other measures, primarily in the economic field, may have to be undertaken.

It is significant that the State Department in Washington announced on August 4 that for the time being a total trade embargo on the Communist bloc as a counter-measure to Soviet pressure on Berlin had been shelved. But the exact words of the announcement are worth noting:

"It is only natural that Soviet threats with respect to Berlin should have stimulated considerable speculation concerning counter-measures, including action in the economic field. Now it is possible that if the Soviet government continues its threatening attitude toward the vital interests of the United States and its Allies, we will be obliged to reconsider all aspects of our relations, including economic, with the Soviet Union and the countries of the Soviet Bloc."

Those few words have more meaning to the Moscow government than all the talk of more military divisions in NATO or the calling up of reservists. For the economic weapon can be the most powerful of all in forcing the Kremlin to abandon its harassment of Allied routes to West Berlin.

Critics of the economic-warfare idea are saying that the same thing was tried in the 1930s before World War II, and failed due to disagreements among the anti-Hitler Allies. But the threat of a conventional war in those days aroused less interest in an economic blockade than does the fear of a nuclear war today. The world hasn't yet been right up against a nuclear war, and, if such a situation should really materialize, economic blockades will come promptly as a matter of course. At present, such measures are only in the "contingency planning" stage, which is the correct way to deal with this weapon at the moment. The Western foreign ministers discussed the problem at length in Paris this week, but gave only vague hints to the press as to the nature of their studies.

The potential danger to the Kremlin of an economic blockade is the impact it might produce inside the Communist-Bloc countries. There would be little chance of holding East Germany together. The demoralizing effect it might have on Poland and the other Communist-Bloc countries cannot be overestimated. The exodus of refugees to the West would be multiplied, factories would close down, unemployment would ensue.

Damage would be done to Allied trade, too, and the so-called "neutral" countries would have a hard time of it because the demand would naturally arise also to cut them off from essential trade with the West if any of them played ball with the Communists. Any blockade is a last-resort measure, but it is possible —and Nikita Khrushchev knows it.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

MAJOR DOMO — Of all the "take charge" guys on Capitol Hill, none is more ubiquitous than the Doorkeeper of the House, William M. (Fishbait) Miller.

Having received Presidents, kings, and emperors when they appeared on the Hill, "Fishbait" took in stride the appearance there of Mohammed Ayub Khan, president of Pakistan, to address a joint session of Congress.

As usual the military chiefs of staff came to the House to listen to Ayub Khan's speech, and, being early, Fishbait ushered them into Speaker Sam Rayburn's outer office. Fishbait threw his arm across the shoulders of two of the top-ranking generals who flanked him and joined in the small talk.

Then, looking at his watch, he announced, "Come on, boys, it's time to go in now."

Gen. L. L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, looked at his colleagues, laughed, and commented, "Well, I'll be darned. I don't get ordered around like this at the Pentagon." But Lemnitzer dutifully filed into the chamber with the others.

The incident reminded newsmen of the very best of Fishbait's lines. When then Princess Elizabeth of England and her husband, Prince Philip, came to the House in 1952, the lady who is now queen was seated on the rostrum by Fishbait, who then turned to the House officials standing beneath him and said, "All right boys, pass me up the prince."

Dream Of German Reunification Distorts International Relations

By Drew Pearson

BERLIN — The greatest myth plaguing German relations with the outside world today is the idea that Communist East Germany and Capitalist West Germany can and should be successfully united.

The second big question mark plaguing Germany's relations with her neighbors is whether this dynamic country which caused two world wars will go on the rampage again.

The two questions cannot be considered separately, for if Germany does become unified, it constitutes a much greater threat to its neighbors.

The two questions are also all wrapped up in the Kennedy-Khrushchev impasse over Berlin, as follows:

1. Khrushchev has announced that he will sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany, come what may. This is for the purpose of making permanent the separation of the two Germanys.
2. The United States has been pledged to back the unification of Germany, partly because our close friend, Chancellor Adenauer has campaigned on this issue.
3. There exists very real worry on the part of Germany's two Communist neighbors, Poland and Czechoslovakia, regarding the emergence of a belligerent, aggressive Germany in another ten years, and this worry is shared, unofficially, by some of our Allies —England, Belgium, the Netherlands, and France.

My own conclusion is that the unification of Germany is a myth, and not even the Germans want it. The single exception is the German politicians. They have talked so long about unification that they can't drop it as a campaign slogan — any more than American labor can quit talking about the Taft-Hartley Act. But just as labor has learned to live with the Taft-Hartley Act, so the German people have learned to live as a divided nation.

And most Germans will admit, confidentially, that unification of the two Germanys would cause a political explosion.

The West has built up its own capitalism. The East has built up Communism. It would be very difficult to make the two mesh. Furthermore, West Germany is predominantly Catholic, the East predominantly Lutheran. If the two were united, the Protestants would control, which automatically would kick Adenauer out of power. The United States has been working nationally with Catholic forces (though locally with many non-Catholics); so unification would be a serious blow to our influence.

So, as far as a separate Russian treaty with East Germany is concerned, there's no reason, in my opinion, to fight a war over it.

Future German Militarism

The question of whether Germany will ever go on a military rampage again is much harder to answer. Under Germany's present leaders, the answer definitely would be no.

But men are mortal. The next generation's memory may be short.

There are three groups of men in Germany today with varying views on Nazism. They are:

1. The older generation, aged 60 to 70, which served under the Weimar Republic, then under Hitler, have adjusted themselves to change, and give the impression of being willing to serve under any new type of dictatorship.
2. A middleage group between 35 and 45 which saw the evils of Nazism, are dead opposed to it, and are becoming the new leaders of Germany. They are also the hope of German democracy. Under them there would be no resurgence of militarism.
3. The teen-agers and boys in their early twenties who have not tasted Nazism, and know not of its pitfalls. They see photos of their fathers in Nazi uniform on the living-room table at home and wonder why, if the system was so bad, their fathers were members.

They see the documentary history of Hitler as shown by the German government — and the government has done a superb job of portraying the evils of Hitlerism. Even so they remain confused.

It is this younger generation which must lead Germany 10 to 20 years from now, and it is over their heads that the big question mark hangs.

When I was in Germany in 1951, German youth was rebelling at the thought of a draft. Almost no one liked the idea of building up a new German Army. But now that opposition has evaporated. The change took place in 10 years. This may be a significant sign of the times.

A year ago last Christmas, the world was startled at the display of swastikas in German cities. In the spring of 1960 a giant rally of German Sudetenese was held in Vienna, to urge that Czechoslovakia give the Sudetenland to Germany. It was Hitler's march into the Sudetenland in 1938 that helped bring about World War II.

All this leads to genuine concern on the part of Germany's neighbors, both Communist and non-Communist, regarding the future. It makes them wonder why the United States is so determined to back both German unification and nuclear weapons for the new German Army.

A Time For Change

By John Crosby

LOCH AWE, Scotland

The great purpose of travel, virtually the only one when you consider the trouble and expense, is change. One needs change as one needs air. Change of climate, change of countryside, change of scenery — of food, of drink, of architecture, change of the appearance of people, of their speech and their clothes. The more complete the change the more refreshing it is and one of the terrible things about modern times is that, with the great speed of transport and communication, the degree of change, the degree of differences in all these things — speech, attitudes, architecture, food — is diminishing and eventually will disappear altogether. Horrible thought.

Eventually, there will not be a Welsh or Scottish accent because everyone will look at the same terrible television shows and derive their ideas on how to dress and talk and live from "Lassie." Happily that's still pretty distant.

Arriving here in Scotland, land of my ancestors, into which I have never before set foot, I am struck first — and struck like a blow — by the difference in scale. Scotland is a tiny land and at first everything seems tiny. The feeling is transient. I was so accustomed to New York's huge anthills of buildings that the little stone cottages here seemed tiny, almost like dollhouses. But, as I say, the feeling passes rapidly. After you've been here a couple days the stone cottages seem not too small but just right. One's sense of scale adjusts.

I suppose it seems unimportant, my feeling for scale, but it isn't really. The impact of scale on someone coming from New York where human scale has almost disappeared, the refreshment of the human spirit, is immense, almost impossible to describe. Small stone cottages, small stone bridges, little villages. Small roads on which two small cars have trouble passing, tiny green fields. I exclaimed over each of these things and my Scottish driver said — in some wonderment — that Americans were incessantly exclaiming over things that a Scotsman took for granted.

Well, that's true enough. A brown cow is hardly anything to exclaim about to a farmer. You start exclaiming over a cow and they're likely to find you peculiar. But then they have their own exclamatory peculiarities, too. Waiting for a ferry to take me across one of Scotland's innumerable firths, I was talking to a Scot who sold the tickets. He'd been in New York and he exclaimed over the Rockettes. You know—those girls who kick in unison. (Imagine exclaiming over them!) There's a play in London now called "The Kitchen," where a couple of cooks exclaim at some length about Broadway, the lights and all that. (Fancy getting worked up about that dirty old street!)

One more word about human scale and I'll get off that. I think scale alone is reason enough to come to Scotland because it puts the emphasis where it belongs — on humans. Bigness in America bothers me because I think we all get away from the purposes of life, the meaning of living, the reason for anything. A big plant is an efficient plant (so they say, though in light of some of the junk coming out of Detroit I'm not sure I believe it) but a guy stamping out one small screw hour after hour doesn't know what the screw is for or ultimately what he's for. This applies to everything. Unions are so big that the workers' welfare is far below the union leader who may never have met a worker, at least not recently. The advertising man on Madison Avenue is so far from the consumer that he has no real understanding of his wants and he is far more involved in impressing the vice president down the hall.

Here in a little country activity has immediacy and meaning. A stone cottage is a house. It's to live in, not a real estate speculation. I'm nuts about these stone houses because they look permanent and permanence in our rootless America is hard to come by. They all have names—Heathcote, Wyoming, Homewood, Cold Cottage. Now there's an appropriate name.

Because the other thing that strikes you — it too like a blow — is that it's cold. Oh, brother, is it cold! The pilot, when we landed at Prestwick, said that it was 55 degrees. Soming from a 92-degree New York City that sounded cold but when I got off the plane it was even colder than I expected. All I can say about that is that 55 in Scotland is not like 55 in America. It's a much colder 55 than ours. Also the wind blows. And blows, Of course, the Scots—all of them—explain that it's very unusual, the wind. Very unusual, the cold, too. Well, I've heard that one before. In California. In New York, for that matter. There is no such thing as usual weather, anywhere. Weather is automatically unusual.

I went fishing for salmon the other day in the River Awee and caught nothing but a chill. The wind blew. The clouds lowered. And the fish were uninterested. Still, it was a good day. I saw a couple of salmon jump, which I had never seen before. My God, they're big. The gillie went after them with a rod only a little shorter than a telephont pole. I asked him how long he'd owned it.

"Forty years," he said. "But it was not new when I got it. A mon left it to me in his will. I'm an old-fashioned mon and I like old-fashioned things." His reel, an ancient brass affair, was almost a hundred years old.

The gillie has been taking salmon out of the river Awee fifty years, but this will be his last year. A big dam under construction now will trap the swift brown waters and that will be the end of the fishing.

"Well, I've had a good fifty years of it," says the gillie philosophically.

If You Had Cancer, Would You Want To Know?

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

If you had cancer, would you want to be told the truth? More than 92 per cent of a group of physicians said yes when asked this question by the staff of the Medical Tribune. The majority believed they would find out sooner or later because of their familiarity with the disease. They felt, too, that by getting the news early, they could arrange their affairs more satisfactorily. As one physician put it, he had "many promises to keep and many miles to go before I sleep."

It is almost impossible to hide this diagnosis from a physician, but what about his patients? Would you want to be told if cancer were discovered in the stomach or lung? Let me know by writing me care of this newspaper.

More than 1,300 physicians were asked whether they believed in being frank with their patients after cancer has been diagnosed. More than 50 per cent said yes, but many qualified the answer by saying it depended upon the patient's ability to cope with reality. Some medicos had an established rule along this line and were in the habit of deciding each case on an individual basis.

Some of the medical men referred to the lesion as a tumor and never used the word cancer. Nor would they say anything about the outlook. They tried to be optimistic and, as one said, the situation should be viewed "with hope, not hopelessness."

Some individuals cannot be told because they go to pieces. Others react in the same way when they discover what is wrong after being kept in the dark for some time. They lose faith in the physician and are difficult to manage thereafter. But all physicians make it a point to inform the relatives and often discuss with them the advisability of telling the patient.

DISHPAN HANDS

H. R. H. writes: Is detergent burn (blisters, itching, burning, and peeling) due to allergy? My hands still are affected even though I wear rubber gloves when dishwashing.

REPLY

Yes, but detergents are not necessarily responsible for dishpan hands. Other factors may play a role, including water and injury to the skin from bumping, scraping, and scratching in handling knives and pans. In addition, going out of doors in cold weather shortly after washing dishes leads to chapping, a condition difficult to distinguish from dishpan hands.

SUICIDES

Mrs. L. writes: Does suicide indicate a weak or a strong mind?

REPLY

Everyone has a breaking point, which is reached sooner by the weak. On the other hand, the terms weak minded and strong minded are ambiguous. A strong minded person may find it difficult to take some types of adversity, whereas the weaker personality does not accept responsibility, hence will not worry or become depressed.

Rh INCOMPATIBILITY

D. F. writes: Is it safe for a Rh negative woman to marry an Rh positive man?

REPLY

Yes. The marriage may lead to a maternity problem later. Many miscarriages and still-births, as well as adnormalities of the newborn, are traceable to this combination of blood groups.

END STAGE

O. H. A. writes: Is terminal cancer when pain comes?

REPLY

Pain may come early or late or not at all. It depends upon where the cancer is located and what it is doing to the neighboring nerves, organs, and other structures.

ENLARGED SPLEEN AND LIVER

L. J. H. writes: What information can you give me on Gaucher's disease?

REPLY

It is a rare disorder in which the liver and spleen enlarge. The latter may be so large it fills the abdomen. Many victims are anemic and the skin assumes a brownish yellow color. Changes occur in the bones also. Removal of the spleen is the best remedy. At one time we thought the disease developed only in children but we know now it occurs occasionally in adults.

To the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Veteran stage trouper Dale, of Smith and Dale, tells about a ramshackle, wooden walled theater in Oshkosh in the good old days. There, one evening, a young lady excused herself to go to the powder room. It was unoccupied, save for a maid industriously dusting some furniture.

The young lady adjusted the seams of her stockings, remarked ruefully to the maid, "I sure look shot this evening," and resumed her seat in the orchestra next to her boyfriend. "What's the plot so far?" she whispered.

"It's hard to follow," he admitted. "A maid was dusting when some girl walked in, fixed her stockings, said 'I look shot this evening,' and walked off. I just don't get it!"

John Brophy, 77 Says Farewell To CIO Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pals from the old CIO are throwing a farewell "brunch" Saturday for John Brophy, 77, veteran labor union official and social planner.

Always a rebel, Brophy is a bit embarrassed about the party but said Friday "If it will make some of the boys happy it's all right with me."

Brophy is a distinguished-looking bantamweight type — looking more like a bank or college president than the union leader denounced in the 1930s as everything from a professional agitator to a Communist. He has been a union member for 62 years.

Recently, he retired as an official of the Industrial Union Department of the AFL-CIO. It is the body that took over most of the CIO after merger with the AFL.

Brophy was director of the CIO for its first four years and took a leading role in its organizing drives in America's mass production industries.

Brophy walked the picket line in the first major CIO strike at Akron, Ohio, participated in the auto sitdowns in Detroit and Flint Mich., helped negotiate the first CIO contract with General Motors, and aided in forming many of the present-day industrial labor unions.

Born in England, the son of a coal miner, Brophy emigrated to America with his family when he was a youngster. At the age of 11 he started work full-time with his father in Pennsylvania mines.

Communications Satellite Contract Awarded By NASA

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hughes Aircraft Corp. of Sulver City, Calif., was chosen Friday to build the first "stationary" type communications satellite for the National Aeronautics and space Administration.

The 50-pound satellite will be launched into an orbit 22,300 miles above the earth. Rotating at the same speed and in the same direction as the earth, it will appear to hover over a given area.

The cost of at least three flight units was estimated at about $4 million. The first launching is scheduled for late next year.

NASA gave the spacecraft the name of Project Syncom, describing a communications satellite in synchronous rotation with the earth.

The project takes its place along with two other NASA programs for active communications satellites, its own Project Relay orbiter being developed by Radio Corp. of America, and the privately financed American Telephone & Telegraph Co. satellite.

Veeck To Return To Mayo Clinic

EASTON, Md. (AP)—Bill Veeck, former major domo of three American League baseball clubs, will return to Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., Sunday.

His wife, who will accompany him, said her husband is "returning for more tests and we hope to have some answer" for what is ailing the colorful sports figure.

Veeck had been at the clinic twice before and his ill health caused him to sell out a majority interest in the Chicago White Sox. He previously had run the Cleveland Indians and the St. Louis Browns.

GOTEBORG, Sweden (UPI) — Co-world light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore Friday night turned down an offer to fight Swedish light-heavyweight Lennart Risberg in Stockholm next month.

In a telephone talk with promoter Edwin Ahlqvist, Moore said he cannot shed enough weight by September to put his share of the title at stake against Risberg.

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Amateur Athletic Union announced Friday the selection of Denver as the site for the AAU men's baseball tournament in 1962 and Toledo, as the site for the freestyle and Greco-Roman wrestling championships.

The basketball tournament will be held March 19-24 while the wrestling championships will be held the week beginning June 21.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11 — You can buy this ticket—Cyd Charisse will join Kirk Douglas and Spencer Tracy in "Two Weeks in Another Town," Irwin Shaw's best seller about movie making in Rome. This is an MGM movie and while Cyd bowed out of her exclusive deal with this studio about a year ago, it was on the friendliest terms. She's a friend of both Director Vincente Minnelli and Producer John Houseman.

Both of these gentlemen are doing some fast talking to get Cyd—their enthusiasm whetted by her excellent performance in "Black Tights," a ballet opus made in Europe last year.

As I remember "Two Weeks in Another Town" the heroine was not a dancer. But she was a devastating "looker"—and Cyd's all of that.

There were rumors that Gower Champion, who made a package deal with Columbia for "Bye Bye Birdie," will not direct the movie and is in New York.

Sam Briskin confirmed that there was a possibility that Champion, who is a brilliant director, might not direct the picture, but he is hoping that they can still get together.

One reason Gower went to New York was to try to get another actress for "Carnival." Anita Gillette, who has taken Anna's place, is committed for another play.

Three distinguished members of the cloth, Monsignor Edwin Broderick, secretary to Francis Cardinal Spellman, who has always gone out of his way to help our Hollywood people, Monsignor John H. Harrington, editor-in-chief of the Catholic Youth Encyclopedia, and Rev. John L. Guido, language professor of Cardinal Hayes High School, are currently visiting Los Angeles.

Howard and Gail Strickling entertained them at dinner at Chasen's, and I introduced them to Norma Shearer and her husband Marty Arrouge, to Gloria and Jimmy Stewart who were celebrating their wedding anniversary, and to Marilyn Monroe and Joe DiMaggio.

They paid a call on Mrs. Clark Gable, and Father Guido took pictures of the baby. Here on a special mission of interest to motion pictures, Monsignor Broderick was able to get away because Cardinal Spellman has gone to Rome to attend the funeral of Pope John XXIII's secretary.

Hard to believe that David Merrick doesn't think that Anna Maria Alberghetti is ill and that he made light of her contribution as an actress in "Carnival."

He didn't talk like that when Anna was acclaimed the darling of New York and received such glowing notices.

Her indignant mother, Mrs. Victoria Alberghetti, telephoned to tell me she is hurrying to her daughter in New York. "Anna worked when she was very sick with very low blood pressure and she is very anemic. I cannot understand Mr. Merrick's attitude."

"I am taking her to her own apartment but the doctor says she cannot work for several weeks," said Mrs. Alberghetti.

The thing that hurt Anna was that Merrick was quoted as saying that the understudy Anita Gillette, was better than she.

If Merrick really said those things, why then was Anna given an extension of her contract?

Sidney Miller, former sidekick of Don O'Connor, and a very talented comedian, went up to San Francisco to see Blake Edwards about a TV project they're interested in. Edwards is there directing "Operation Terror" with Lee Remick and Glen Ford. During the course of some dinner-business confabs, Sidney happened to mention that he hasn't appeared in a movie in four years.

It must have given Blake an idea because he decided to give him the key role of a murder suspect in this Columbia thriller. After all his hoofing and singing and cracking jokes with Don O'Connor—being suspected of murder is something new for Sidney.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

With the book "The Cardinal" so much in the news, it's shocking to hear of the tragic death of its author, Henry Morton Robinson, who was scalded when he took a hot bath after swallowing sleeping pills. It was not listed as a suicide, but as an accident.

Michael Rennie and Mary Gardner, the former Mrs. Otto Preminger, met quietly for dinner at the Kowloon. They are still very good friends.

Carl Foreman was sincerely touched when writers Herb Baker and Dan Taradash co-hosted a World War II revisited luncheon for him yesterday at Perino's, partly to celebrate Carl's hit "Guns of Navaronne" and as a get together with his old wartime buddies.

My household never fails to listen to Curt Massey's 15-minute musical program on TV. I enjoy him too, and listening to Liltin's Martha Tilton, a friend of many years.

Maryland Seeks Trade With Africa

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — It's off to Africa next Tuesday for Harry A. Boswell, a State official who's traveling at his own expense in search of big game — but not the wildlife variety.

Boswell, head of the State Economic Development Commission, hopes to bag some new international trade for Maryland.

His safari will not be to the bush country, but the main cities of newly-emergent African countries where he hopes "to sell the possibility of an export-import business between Maryland and the African nations."

Seven African countries—Sierra Leone, Liberia, Ghana, Nigeria, the Republic of the Congo, the Congo Republic and Nigeria — are on his itinerary. He also will visit Rome and Tel Aviv to investigate Italian and Israeli trade relations with the African nations.

Boswell will carry a letter of greeting from Gov. Tawes to leaders of each of the African nations.

Bedford Fair Holds Big Car Races Today

25 Drivers To Vie, First Event At 2:30

BEDFORD, Pa. — Upwards of 25 leading eastern drivers convene here Saturday afternoon for another closing day program of big car races at the Bedford Fair.

The speedfare, sanctioned by the United Racing Club (URC) under direction of Sam Nunis, opens with car warmups at 1:30 and the first race at 2:30. A 20-lap finale heads the seven-event card.

Most prominent of the fair entries are Eddie Gallione, Dave Humphrey and Jack Soper, top men in the current eastern standings. Gallione, from Schenectady, N.Y., leads on five feature victories, while Humphrey, of Seekonk, Mass., and Soper, from Elmira, N.Y., each have two firsts. Humphrey figured in a spectacular crackup at the fair races last year.

Saturday's post parade also will include notables Bobby Courtwright, Butler, N.J.; George Monsen, Chelmsford, Mass.; Hank Rogers, Trenton, N.J.; Dan Daniels, Batavia, N.Y.; Tom Price, Wilmington, Del., and Johnny Dodd, Baltimore. The latter driver scored his first major win at the Harrington (Del.) Fair two weeks ago.

The mishap which thrilled a packed gallery here last season prompted the fair management to erect a new safety wall along the first and second turns of the half-mile raceway. The new structure is three feet high and nine inches thick and is to be tested for the first time Saturday.

NavySwearing-In Ceremony Set At Fairgrounds

The Cumberland Fair will be the scene of a public swearing-in ceremony for ten tri-state area Naval enlistees next week.

Chief C. B. Epps, Cumberland recruiter, said the ceremony will take place Tuesday, 7:30 p. m., in the area where the Navy is to exhibit a big replica of the USS Constellation, first fighting ship to be commissioned by the United States.

A Cumberland physician, Lt. Mervin L. Trail, will swear-in the 17 to 20-year-old youths. Lt. Trail, a graduate of Allegany High School, is located at the main Navy Recruiting Station in Baltimore. He is the physician for Maryland recruiting personnel and also examines re-enlistees.

Chief Epps, who will emcee the Tuesday ceremony, said this is believed to be the first time a group of enlistees was ever sworn in in Maryland at such an event as a fair. Members of the Mayor and Council have been invited to attend, Epps added, as have the families of the enlistees.

The contingent will leave by bus Wednesday morning for Baltimore and will be flown that night to Great Lakes, Ill., for boot training.

Those being sworn in are:

This Week In Congress

by Rep. Charles Mathias

On July 31 the House of Representatives overwhelmingly approved the President's request for authority to order units and individuals in the Ready Reserve to active duty for periods up to twelve months. This Resolution already received Senate approval on July 28.

With the lives and fortunes of so many young people intimately bound up with "what happens next" it is appropriate for them to ask questions concerning this authority and to expect answers as to what each individual may expect. Of course the changing aspect of international affairs and the unpredictability of Premier Khrushchev's maneuvering prevent clear-cut predictions of exactly what individuals or Ready Reserve Units will be called at this time. The testimony of the Secretary of Defense before the House Committee on Armed Services and the debate on this measure on the Floor of the House of Representatives does, however, provide some outline of our increased military manpower requirements under the Presidential request.

It is interesting to note at the outset that the President now has authority to call one million Ready Reservists to active duty in the event a national emergency is declared. These one million individuals could be called for as long as the emergency existed. It was not though necessary to exercise this existing authority at the present time because we are not preparing for war. We are merely preparing to defend ourselves against those who would make war. We are merely making certain that we can enforce our rights and meet any threat to man's right to be free, whenever and wherever that threat might arise. As important as the Berlin situation is, it is only part of the world-wide struggle against the ruthless march of militant communism.

The new authority given to the President allows 250,000 ready reservists to be called to active duty for periods up to twelve months. This authority is not permanent but will end on July 1, 1962. Present plans do not call for this many reservists to be called, but if the necessity arises, additional individuals or units may be called. The President proposes to increase our manpower in the Armed Forces by about 225,000 persons over and above the strength previously planned. A part of this 225,000 will come from the Ready Reserve, which includes all of the Armed Forces and the National Guard, from increased draft calls, increased recruiting efforts, and from an extension of present enlistments.

In testimony before the House Committee on the Armed Services, the Secretary of Defense advised the nation that the following priority would be observed as much as possible in attempting to fulfill the increased personnel requirements of the armed services:

(1) By encouraging voluntary re-enlistments and voluntary extension of enlistments.

(2) By increased recruiting efforts.

(3) By an increased draft call.

(4) By involuntary extension of enlistments, or by activating the Ready Reserve. Among the ready reservists, drill-paid reservists, will normally be called prior to the nondrill-paid reservists. For example, Ready Reserve units can be ordered to active duty for 17 days under existing law, but in order to improve their degree of readiness, it may be desirable to extend their active duty period of training for several days, or perhaps a week or more. It may even be necessary to order the same unit to active duty for training twice during the same fiscal year in order to improve its state of readiness. That is the reason why the Resolution authorizes reservists to be ordered to active duty for training for up to twelve months, although there is no intention of using this full period of time unless absolutely necessary.

It has already been announced that the draft calls will be doubled and tripled and that certain Air National Guard tactical squadrons will be ordered to active duty, as well as some Air Force Reserve transport squadrons, and Navy anti-submarine warfare air squadrons.

Admittedly, this defense build-up will necessitate personal sacrifices, but our young men in the Ready Reserve have readied themselves to answer their country's call. Even if the full authority of this Resolution is required to be exercised in the future, less than ten percent of our 2.4 million ready reservists would be activated.

This Resolution is an integral part of our decision to enforce our rights in Berlin, and to impress upon the world, both friend and foe alike, that we have reached a point beyond which we will not yield. The Resolution serves notice to the world that America will honor its obligation to the people of West Berlin and that America stands behind its commitments. It is America's answer to Khrushchev's threats.

Three City Schools Begin Football Drills Tuesday

Grid Season Opens On September 8

Football coaches at Cumberland's three high schools got down to the serious buisiness of preparing for the coming gridiron season which starts next month by issuing the initial call for candidates to report for their frist practice session on Tuesday.

Coach Ed Schwarz, head mentor of Allegany High School's Campers, said his squad will report at the high school practice field at 9 a. m. on Tuesday.

The genial boss of the Alco grid fortunes will be looking for a large number of new boys to report for this year's team. Facing a tough job in rebuilding last year's undefeated championship team, Schwarz expects only two returning regulars among the lettermen who will form the nucleus of the 1961 eleven.

Lost 24 Seniors

"We lost 24 seniors from last year's team," Schwarz stated, "and almost all of them were on the first and second string. I concentrated mainly on a winning season in 1960 and didn't build for the future," he added.

Expected to be back this year are Dick Sindy, defensive tackle, and Dave Merrill, regular center. "These are the only regulars returning," Schwarz said, "so I'm hoping for quite a number of new faces to turn out for the team this year."

Allegany's defending city and CVAL champs who swept through the season without a loss or tie in 1960, will hold workouts twice daily until school starts. Beginning Wednesday the team will drill at 6:45 a. m. for 1½ hours and again at 3:30 p. m. for about 2 hours.

Light workouts will be the order of the day for the Campers who will wear gym clothes for their initial drills. Schwarz indicated that he would probably issue equipment later in the week.

Backfield Missing

Missing this year will be hard-running backfield quartet of Gary Mulligan, Bob Gaffney, Tom Miller and Ronnie Evans who sparked Allegany's offensive fireworks as the Campers won 10 games, including a second straight Thanksgiving Day victory over Fort Hill.

Workouts are planned at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. on Tuesday, Manges said, with twice daily drills set every day thereafter at 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.

Early workouts will be in gym clothes and LaSalle candidates are urged to report in jerseys, shorts and tennis shoes. Freshmen and Junior Varsity players are urged to turn out, Manges said, as the Jayvees will begin play early this year.

Others Expected

At Fort Hill, coach Charley Lattimer said his squad will report at 9 a.m. to begin drills on Tuesday.

The Sentinels will hold workouts daily at 9 o'clock and at 2:30 p.m. and Coach Lattimer said he will issue equipment to the players later in the week.

Fort Hill lost 16 players by graduation last year and will have three regulars returning this season. They are tackle Gary Henry, quarterback Ronnie Manges and end Dave Howser.

Lattimer also stated that Fort Hill will hold its pre-season football clinic and display at 8 p.m. at the stadium on August 30. The public is invited to attend this program.

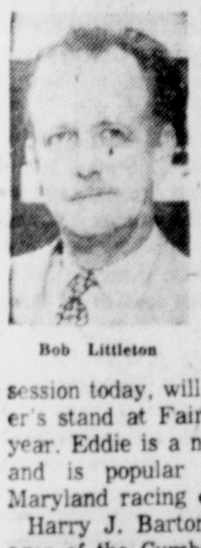
Eddie Blind Returns To Fairgo Sept. 11 As Official Starter

Bob Littleton Is Director Of Wagering

Film Patrol Makes Bow; 9 Races May Be Held Three Days

Eddie Blind will serve as the official starter at Fairgo when racing returns to the local half mile track Monday, September 11, after an absence of two years.



Bob Littleton

Blind, who has served in the same capacity at the recent Monmouth Park (N. J.) meeting, and will send the fields away at Bel Air, which opens a 13-day session today, will be in the starter's stand at Fairgo for the fifth year. Eddie is a native of Canada and is popular throughout the Maryland racing circuit.

Harry J. Barton, general manager of the Cumberland Fair Association, yesterday indicated that Robert Littleton, of Hagerstown, is returning as director of wagering here with a pari-mutuel crew of approximately 100 men. Littleton is pari-mutuel manager at most of the Maryland major and minor tracks and will be serving here in that role for the sixth year.

Johnny Bejshak, noted jockey of bygone days, who will be remembered as the rider of the great Discovery, is coming back to Fairgo as custodian of the jockey's quarters.

Flinagan Head Steward

R. Bruce Livie, chairman of the Maryland Racing Commission, yesterday informed The Cumberland News that Joseph Flanagan will be the chief steward. J. Fred Colwill, who served as racing secretary at Fairgo for nine consecutive years, will be also in the stewards' stand while the third steward is expected to be either Matthias "Ty" Shea or Merrall MacNeille.

Raymond Haight, son of Walter Haight, the Washington (D.C.) racing writer, will be the announcer and race caller for the 12-day meeting here. Haight served in the same capacity at Fairgo in 1957 and 1958.

James A. Callahan, secretary of the Maryland Racing Commission, states that other officials such as placing judges, paddock judge and horse identifier and clerk of the scales will be approved as soon as names are submitted to him by the Cumberland Fair Association.

Improvements Please

Callahan, who became secretary following the death of William Graham, states that he visited Fairgo recently and was pleased with the improvements made throughout the stabling area.

The film patrol will be used here for the first time when the familiar cry "They're Off" is heard at the local plant four weeks from Monday. The local meeting runs through Saturday Sept. 23. Bel Air and Timonium precede the Cumberland meeting while Hagerstown (Sept. 25-Oct. 7) and Marlboro (Oct. 9-21) follow the Fairgo session.

Melvin Mackin, of Havre De Grace, will be making his debut as racing secretary of the Cumberland Fair Association meeting this year.

Post Time Is 2 p. m.

Post time for the Cumberland races will be 2 p. m. E.D.T.

General manager Barton states that eight races will be staged on most days but there may be nine on the opening Saturday, Cumberland Day and on Getaway Day. Daily double wagering will be on the first and second races each day as in past years.

This will be the 35th year for thoroughbred racing at Fairgo. Five-day meets were held from 1925 through 1934 and ten-day sessions from 1935 through 1955. This is the fourth 12-day meeting, the first having been held in 1956. The races were transferred to Hagerstown in 1959 and Timonium last year due to a shortage of horses.

Rawls, Suggs Tie For Lead

Pace Kansas City Open With 147s

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Betsy Rawls plastered the Brookridge course for a 3-under-par 71 to catch up with Louise Suggs after 36 holes in the $7,500 Kansas City Women's Open golf tournament Friday.

Both veterans reached the halfway point in the four-day meet with 147 strokes, one under par for the 6,463-yard par 37-37—74 course.

Miss Suggs, a 13-year tournament star from Georgia, who had the low of 72 in the first round, started poorly by missing her first shot but was even par the next 17 holes for a 38-37—75.

Mary Lena Faulk, another veteran, took over third place with a 39-35—74 and 150.

Friend Beats Phillies, 6-0

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates struck hard and fast against right-hander Robin Roberts Friday night as Bob Friend shut out the Philadelphia Phillies 6-0 in a rain-shortened game.

Roberts, just off the disabled list, was touched for five runs on seven hits in the first inning. The first five Pirate batters hit safely.

Roberts, who hadn't pitched since July 10 because of a knee injury, went down to his ninth defeat. He's won one.

Friend gave up five hits, struck out three and walked one in picking up his 12th victory against 13 defeats.

ODC Defeats Bedford Road

Optimists Lose To Graham, 6-2

The Outdoor Club parlayed Jim Graham's pitching arm and his bat into a 6-2 victory over Bedford Road's Optimists last night in the second game of two Hot Stove League tilts played at Penn Avenue field.

Graham held Bedford Road to four hits and whiffed eight in going the route for ODC. He cracked out a home run and two singles to pace the winners at the plate. Ronnie Horn also had a double and single for Outdoor Club.

The loss dropped Bedford Road out of a three-way tie for second place in the standings and eliminated any possible chance of the Optimists winning the pennant this year. The defeat was the ninth for Bedford Road while the league-leading Cumberland Optimists are 19-3 with five games to play.

Lee Miller was the loser although he held ODC to eight hits and struck out 12.

The Jaycees took over sole possession of second place with a 10-3 triumph over B'nai B'rith in the first Hot Stove encounter at Penn Avenue yesterday afternoon.

Kroll Leads Insurance Golf Open

Holds 4-Stroke Edge At Halfway Mark

Kroll, who won the first ICO here back in 1952 with a 273, collected nine birdies in his 30-32, 9-under-par round. His 129 was 13 under par.

An earlier finisher, Kroll hung around to learn that his most serious challengers were Bob Goetz of Tulsa, Okla., a coleader Thursday; Phil Rodgers of La Jolla, Calif., Joe Campbell of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Frank Boynton of Corpus Christi, Tex. They are tied at 133.

Arnold Palmer, the 1960 ICO winner and current British Open champion, equaled Kroll's five-under-par 30 at the turn and was six under going into the 208-yard 17th hole. But he double bogeyed at this spot and finished with a 37 for a 67 and a 36-hole total of 135.

Kroll's 62 was the best in a PGA tourney since 1954 when Tommy Bolt recorded a brilliant 60. But it was the third 62 among the touring pros so far this season.

40,775 See Warren Beat Jack Curtis

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Lefthander Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves, the amazing fellow with the 40-year-old arm that refuses to tire, became the 13th player in major league history to win 300 games, when he defeated the Chicago Cubs, 2-1 Friday night.

Lefty Grove, the only one of the 13 still living, was the last to reach 300, doing it on July 25, 1941. He quit that same year after five more appearances. Too ill to attend Friday night's game, he wished Spahn luck.

This one had a World Series flavor about it. The biggest crowd since 1959, 40,775, watched young Jack Curtis who was only nine when Spahn won his first game, give the veteran a tough time of it.

It was 1-1 with one out in the eighth when light-hitting Gino Cimoli socked his third homer of the season over the left field screen to put Spahn in the company of some of baseball's immortals.

The crowd was deafening in the ninth when Spahn struck out Andre Rodgers and got Jerry Kindall on a low liner that Cimoli caught on his knees. Pinch hitter Ernie Banks rolled a stiff grounder at third baseman Eddie Mathews, who threw the ball over Adcock's head to put Banks on first.

The crowd grew silent when pinch batter Jim McAnany came up for Curtis. With the count no strikes and two balls, McAnany hit a short fly to right that Hank Aaron caught easily and the crowd went wild. Spahn was mobbed by his teammates and the cheers lasted well after he disappeared into the dugout.

Spahn, who holds the National League record for home runs hit by a pitcher, batted in Milwaukee's first run in the fifth when he hit a sacrifice fly to score Joe Torre from third base. Torre had reached second when Billie Williams dropped his fly ball and had advanced on a single by Roy McMillan.

Cubs Score In 6th

Spahn allowed the Cubs only two singles in the first five innings, putting them down in order in the first three. They got to him for their run in the sixth when Rodgers singled to score Ron Santo from second base. Santo had reached first on a fielder's choice and moved up on a single by Williams. They got only one other hit off of him after that, a leadoff single by Don Zimmer in the eighth.

Curtis, only 24, gave the Braves only one other scoring chance outside of the two innings in which they got their runs. That was in the opening inning when Cimoli singled and Aaron walked after two were out. But Joe Adcock hit into a fielder's choice to end that.

Spahn said before the game the winning of his 300th would be his "biggest thrill in baseball" and his wife, Lorene, and young son, Greg, were here to share it with him. As a bride, Mrs. Spahn watched him win his first game on July 14, 1946.

The big crowd was a tremendous tribute to Spahn.

His record is now 12-12, meaning he's within grasp of his 12th season of 20 or more wins, a Nation League record, and third on the all-time list.

Spahn, who has a barrel full of records and is a cinch for the Hall of Fame, thus became the sixth modern day pitcher to reach 300 and the first lefthander in the National League to do it.

Plank Won 325

This unique Athlete can now shoot for Eddie Plank's 325 victories, which stands as the most compiled by a lefthander in major league history. Grove, Plank, and Spahn are the only lefthanders to reach this immortal mark.

Only one other present day pitcher has an imminent chance at 300. He's Early Wynn of the Chicago White Sox, who has 292 and is sidelines with an injury that will prevent him from getting there until next season, if then. He's 41.

Orioles Trim Red Sox, 6-3

Gentile Hits 33d, Billy Hoeft Victor

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles, powered by home runs off the bats of Jim Gentile and Brooks Robinson, staved off an eighth inning rally by Boston Friday night and defeated the Red Sox 6-3.

The Birds pounded three Red Sox hurlers for 12 hits as they scored in four separate innings and put at least one man on base in every inning.

The Red Sox threatened in the eighth inning when they scored two runs and had the bases loaded with one out. But Wes Stock relieved Chuck Estrada to retire the side without further damage.

Gentile's homer in the sixth was his 33rd of the year and it increased his runs batted in total to 104, putting him in a tie with New York's Roger Maris. The homer by Robinson, in the fourth, was his third. Both blows came with no one on.

The Orioles' starting pitcher Billy Hoeft was credited with his second victory of the season against three losses.

Hyndman Seeks Third Pen-Mar League Pennant In Sunday Game

Moorefield Will Battle Pennsy Club

Leaders Have Won 12 In Row; Lehman, Deremer Bagged 10

Hyndman gets an opportunity to win its third pennant in the Pen-Mar Baseball League Sunday when it plays host to Moorefield in the fourth and final game of their season series.

The Pennsylvanians lead the race with a 19-6 record and there's a three-way tie for the runner-up position involving Moorefield, Barrelville and Frostburg, who own 15-9 records.

Moorefield could make it 16-9 if it defeats Salisbury in the only league game on tap for today. This game is billed for Salisbury and is scheduled for 3:30 p.m.

Hyndman needs only one win in its three remaining games and hopes to sew it up tomorrow.

Win Twelve Straight

Since losing a doubleheader to Frostburg on June 18, Hyndman has reeled off 12 consecutive wins, including a forfeit victory over Barrelville when the latter had a player shortage. During that streak Vohn Lehman and Glenn Deremer have won five games each and Charley Rice, one.

The league leaders' victims include Flintstone 7-1, 5-0 and 10-0, Salisbury 4-2 and 6-3, Mt. Savage 5-4 and 8-3, Moorefield 18-6, Lonaconing 6-3, Frostburg 4-3 and Barrelville 9-0 and 5-4.

Deremer's record is 7-1 and Lehman is 8-3 for the season. Rice, whose last win was scored on July 1, owns a 3-2 mark.

Barrelville has won pennants the past two seasons and has a total of five regular season championships to its credit in the past 12 years. The Old Exports won the flag in 1949, the first year of the league, and scored again in 1954, 1956, 1959 and 1960.

Hyndman captured pennants in 1957 and 1958.

Other winners were Klondyke 1950, Wellersburg 1951 and 1952, Keyser Ridge 1953 and Grantsville 1955.

The Bedford countians hold a 2-1 edge in their series with Moorefield, having won 6-5 and 18-6 while dropping a 3-2 decision.

Other Sunday Games

In other Sunday action, Barrelville visits Lonaconing (11-14), Salisbury's Cardinals (10-13) host the Frostburg Merchants and Flintstone (3-19) invades Mt. Savage (8-17).

Sunday games are scheduled for 2:30 p.m.

Hyndman, Frostburg, Moorefield and Barrelville have qualified for the playoffs.

The regular season ends two weeks from tomorrow.

A's Ask Waivers On McDermott

CHICAGO (AP) — The Kansas City Athletics Friday asked waivers on veteran pitcher Maury Mc Dermott for the purpose of granting his unconditional release.

Mc Dermott, 33, came to the A's three weeks ago from the St. Louis Cardinals and in 5 2-3 relief innings granted 14 hits, walked 10 and yielded 9 earned runs.

Change In Football Helmet For Greater Safety Is Proposed

CHICAGO (UPI) —Football helmet changes for greater safety were proposed Friday by two physicians and two grid greats at the University of Michigan.

Athletic Director Herbert O. "Fritz" Crisler, head coach Bennie G. Oosterbann, University of Michigan, and Drs. Richard C. Schneider, and Edward Reifel, based their suggestions on a study of 14 fatal injuries to the head and spinal cord in American football players in 1959 and 1960.

The recommendations appeared in the current journal of the American Medical Association.

The group urged the use of more resilient materials in the structure of the helmet, modification of the face guard and improvement in the chin strap.

Cards Earn Title Shot At Phillies, Beat Braves, 9-6

Jim Ellsworth's Cardinals earned the right to battle it out with the Phillies for the second straight year for the championship of the Dapper Dan Little League by defeating the Braves in the third and final game of their playoff series yesterday at Penn Avenue Field by the score of 9-6.

Last year the Phillies bagged the title for the third straight season by winning two out of three games from the Cardinals.

Dave Coffman went the route for the Cardinals and kept seven hits well scattered in yesterday's clincher.

The Cards collected an even dozen blows, including a two-run homer by Kenny Green, triples by Walter Davis and Coffman, Nick Perlozzo's double and single and two singles each by Joe Hemmis and Curtis Kime.

Army Lieutenant Sets Discus Mark

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) —Jay Silvester, a U.S. Army lieutenant from Trementon, Utah, achieved one of his athletic goals Friday night when he threw the discus 198 feet, 8¼ inches—more than two fet beyond the listed world record.

Silvester thus became the first man to break the 60-meter barrier in the discus throw, a feat akin to breaking the four-minute barrier for the mile run.

The listed world mark is 196 feet, 6½ inches, established by Edmund Piatkowski of Poland in 1959 and equalled by Rink Babka of Los Angeles last year.

Chris Von Saltza Loses 100 Meters

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Robyn Johnson, a 15-year-old tenth-grader from Arlington, Va., upset the mighty Chris Von Saltza Friday night to win the 100-meter freestyle title of the Women's National AAU outdoor swimming championships. Both were clocked in 1:03.2 in a blanket finish.

The first six of the eight finalists were clocked within seventenths of a second of each other. It took the officials about a half hour to decide between the young unknown from the Northern Virginia A.C. and the Olympic great from the Santa Clara (Calif.) S.C.

The officials decided in favor of Miss Johnson by a 4-5 (low wins) count. The score was based on the timers, the timing machines and the judges.

Coaches Appointed

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The Kanawha County Board of Education has named Ronald Miller to succeed Jesse Lilly as head football coach at Elkview High School.

At the same time, Jim Lilly, former Logan High basketball coach, was named an assistant coach at Dunbar.

The board rejected a recommendation by School Supt. L. K. Lowenstein that Frank Vincent be transferred from Clendenin to St. Albans as football coach. The St. Albans post is still open as a result of the resignation of Claude (Hopper) Dent.

Mt. Savage swept a doubleheader from Westernport, 8-0 and 13-4, yesterday to run their winning streak to 14 in a row in the Bi-State Pony League.

The pennant-winners scored twice in four different innings to back the three-hit shutout hurling of Bernie Loar in the opener, then pounded four Westernport hurlers for 15 hits to win the nightcap.

The triumphs were the 18th and 19th of the season for Mt. Savage which will close out its season by hosting Cresaptown today at 1 p.m. in the makeup of an earlier tie game.

Bobby Robertson and Phillips each had two hits and Wilson chipped in with a double for Mt. Savage in the first game. Jerry Ferguson had a two-bagger for Westernport.

In the second tilt Robertson belted a home run, double and single to lead the attack. Dan Mulligan also hit for the circuit and added a two-bagger while Loar, Birmingham, Moran and Barth each chipped in with doubles for the winners. Vernon Miller's two-base blow and a pair of doubles by Billy Detterman were the big hits for Westernport in the nightcap.

Corriganville upset Lonaconing, 7-4, yesterday in the final game of the season for both teams. The loss put Lonaconing in the position of being ousted from second place if Cresaptown should beat Mt. Savage today.

Richard Mellott and Wayne Bittner combined to hold Lonaconing to nine hits with Mellott picking up the victory.

Terry Crabtree hit a double and two singles to pace Corriganville at the plate while Kenny Duckworth smacked a home run for the winners. Wheeler Clark had a homer and double and Bevan three singles for Lonaconing.

The Frostburg Mounties bowed to Barton, 8-7, in an eight-inning game at Frostburg. Ed Cuthbertson went the route on a seven-hit effort to pick up the win for Barton.

The loss dropped the Mounties into fourth place in the standings behind Cresaptown.

Chicago Grains

CHICAGO (UPI) — Prospects for a record crop this year caused heavy selling in soybean futures Friday on the Chicago Board of Trade.

Other grains held within narrow limits as the government's Aug. 1 crop report fell in line with most expectations.

Wheat closed off ⅛ to up ½, corn off ⅛ to up ⅛, oats off ½ to up ⅜, rye unchanged to up ¾ and soybeans off 1⅛ to 1⅞.

Soybeans futures sold off as much as 2⅝ cents in early trading. Meal dropped $1.25 a ton, carrying deferred contracts to new lows for the season. Prices later staged a partial recovery as selling fell off.

Thursday's USDA report indicating record soybean production exceeded most trade estimates. The report set the 1961 crop at 683,132,000 bushels, which would top the record 1958 crop by 18 per cent.

Wheat futures rallied from an early decline brought on by profit-taking and exporter selling. Commission, local and commercial traders bought wheat on the side. Southwest cash markets were strong.

Exporters said Italy took 2,610,000 bushels of hard wheat and Turkey 3,500,000 bushels.

Feed grains were slow and without feature. Spreaders were active in corn. Hedging continued in oats.

Rye was mosty steady despite strong markets at Winnipeg. Dry conditions in the Northwest prompted heavy buying of flax.

Md. Cigarette Tax Revenue Down Slightly

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Cigarette tax collections for the fiscal year just ended declined slightly and fell considerably short of the official estimate, the comptroller's office said Friday.

Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said tobacco tax collections totaled $16,782,746 for the fiscal year which closed June 30. The figure is $73,352 below the total for fiscal 1960 and $835,253 short of the official estimate of the comptroller's staff.

Goldstein said the decline in revenue and the failure to meet the estimate could be attributed to a change in the law by the recent legislature. The General Assembly boosted cigarette tax to six cents statewide.

The comptroller said normal sales of cigarette tax stamps fell off during June due to a requirement calling for advanced sale of the new six-cent stamp.

Goldstein said that $1,010,467 collected from the advance sale of tax stamps had to be credited to fiscal year 1962 during the month of July, boosting the July total to $2,871,812. Receipts for July a year ago were $1,439,402.

Goldstein said that despite the 3-cent cigarette tax increase, the State will get none of the additional revenue. The money is being turned over to the 23 counties and Baltimore City to use as they wish.

The subdivisions will receive their share of the cigarette tax receipts quarterly on a population basis. The first such distribution will be in October, Goldstein said.

Six Trailer Arrival Permits Issued

Six trailer permits have been issued by the Allegany County Assessment Department.

Three of the house trailers are situated in Bean's Trailer Court along Baltimore Pike in Election District 21. They are owned by James C. Saville, Buddy Wingfield and Homer Ray.

J. Merrill Rayner, 3 Island Street, Lonaconing, obtained a permit for his house trailer in Election District 15, Lonaconing. James W. Murphy Jr., RFD 4, Oldtown Road, obtained a permit for a house trailer in Election District 16, North Branch. Larry D. Fisher, Midlothian, obtained a permit for the sixth house trailer in Election District 19, Shaft.

Springfield Cow Rated Best Butterfat Producer

Lorraine, a grade Guernsey owned by C. W. Brinker, Springfield, W. Va., was the July butterfat champion of Potomac Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association No. 1 with 70 pounds of butterfat in 1,340 pounds of July milk.

Workman Brothers, RFD 1, Frostburg, had the second best cow in July when Pet, a grade Holstein, produced 69 pounds of butterfat in 1,980 pounds of milk. Harry H. Delbrook, Mt. Savage, had the third best cow in July, a grade Holstein designated as No. 1, who had 68 pounds of butterfat in 1,660 pounds of milk.

Five of the 10 top butterfat producers last month were owned by Mr. Delbrook. His other top cows rated fourth, eighth, ninth and tenth. The Workman Brothers had three of the top producers. Besides the No. 2 cow, they had two other cows placed fifth and sixth.

The only other top producer last month was Louella, a registered Holstein owned by James E Miltenberger, RFD 1, Ridgeley, who placed seventh.

Harry E. Miller, association supervisor, reported that 146 cows were on test during July. They averaged 750 pounds of milk, 28.1 pounds of butterfat and 3.75 per cent butterfat.

Mr. Miltenberger's herd had the highest average. His 24 cows averaged 803 pounds of milk, 30.9 pounds of butterfat and 3.86 per cent butterfat.

Garrett Host For County Boards Meet

The next meeting of the Western Maryland County Commissioners group will be held Thursday, August 31, at 10:30 a. m. at McHenry on Deep Creek Lake.

Notice of the quarterly session was sent to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday by the Garrett County board, which will be host for the program.

The group is comprised of the county boards from Allegany, Garrett, Washington, Frederick and Carroll counties. They discuss various matters which are of mutual interest.

The Allegany County board yesterday said it would notify the Garrett unit of items it wishes to have placed on the agenda for discussion.

Lions To Operate Food Stand At Fair

The LaVale Lions Club will operate a food stand during the Cumberland Fair, according to Floyd V. Cozad, president, who said the menu will feature barbecued chicken.

The club booth will be in operation Sunday through Saturday, with Harry E. White as general chairman. On Sunday, the booth will be open from noon to 6 p. m., while from Monday through Saturday, the hours will be from noon to 11 p. m.

Proceeds from the project will be used for civic and LaVale Park improvements, Cozad said. The club decided to sponsor the food booth, the president explained, because of the popularity of its barbecued chicken project during the past few National Sports Car Races here.

Sandwiches and soft drinks also will be available at the stand, White said.

Gasoline, Liquor Tax Revenue Up For July

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—The comptroller's office reported Friday that receipts from motor vehicle fuel and alcoholic beverage taxes increased during July over the comparable month a year ago.

Net receipts from the sale of fuels totaled $5,151,815 while the alcoholic beverage tax yielded $794,671.

The fuel tax receipts jumped $301,750 or 6.2 per cent from the $4,850,065 collected in July, 1960, while the tax yield on the sale of alcoholic beverages increased $31,900 or 4.1 per cent over totals for the same month last year.

The State Roads Commission received $2.5 million of the fuel tax receipts; Baltimore City $1.5 million; the counties and municipalities received in excess of $1 million, and $22,171 went for administrative expenses.

An increase of $32,632 in receipts from the tax on the sale of distilled spirits led the way for the jump in alcoholic beverage tax revenue. The only decrease was noted in the receipts from the beer tax, which fell off $1,160.

Local Share Of Dam Cut $21 Million

Army Board Lowers Non-Federal Cost To $16,935,000

A new recommendation yesterday by the Board of Army Engineers for Rivers and Harbors in Washington reduced the non-federal costs of the proposed $51 million North Branch dam about two miles above Bloomington on the Potomac River from $37,962,000 to $16,935,000.

Back in May, the Board of Army Engineers for Rivers and Harbors had recommended that about 75 per cent of the cost or nearly $38,000,000 should be paid by non-federal interests.

This recommendation would have required local interests to pay the nearly $38,000,000 for water supply and water quality control and also to pay a proportionate part of the operation, maintenance and replacement costs.

Pay One Third

Yesterday's recommendation that non-federal interests pay only one-third of the cost came after the board in Washington considered the report on the project on the basis of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act amendment approved last July 1.

Col. Warren R. Johnson, Baltimore District engineer who now has Corps of Engineer responsibility for the Potomac River Basin, offered an explanation of the financing recommendations on the Bloomington dam, one of three recommended in April by the Corps of Engineers for the North Branch of the Potomac.

Previous federal regulations required the assessment of 75 per cent of the cost to water supply and water quality control. Amendment of the Federal Water Pollution Control Act reduced the percentage to 33 per cent for water supply and water quality control.

Col. Johnson stated that local interests may select one of three options for payment of their share of the cost. They are (1) one lump sum payment, (2) payment upon completion of construction and (3) payment in installments after the reservoir is in operation.

Most Attractive

There are a number of qualifications to the third option, which apparently would be most attractive to local interests.

For use of the reservoir for water supply, local interests would be required to pay about 5.8 per cent of the total cost or about $3,000,000, plus interest during construction of the dam and interest on the unpaid balance.

The balance of the non-federal cost of 27.4 per cent of the total cost, or about $14,000,000, would be repaid beginning 10 years after the storage is first available for low flow augmentation and final payment to be made 50 years thereafter, Col. Johnson advised.

Others Would Pay

Down-river users would pay a portion of the $14,000,000 cost because the storage would make available some of their future water supply needs, Col. Johnson explained.

In other words, not all of the $16,935,000 non-federal cost would have to be paid by Maryland and West Virginia. The dam would provide some benefits for both Virginia and the District of Columbia, the Corps of Engineers contends.

In its report to U. S. Senators J. Glenn Beall and John Marshall Butler of Maryland, Jennings Randolph and Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, and Reps. Charles McC. Mathias Jr. of Maryland's Sixth District and Harley O. Staggers of West Virginia's Second District, the Corps of Engineers estimated that the Bloomington dam would serve the needs of the area for 30 years. These needs include flood protection, water supply, water quality control, recreation, fish and wildlife.

Endorsed for later are a second Savage River Dam in Garrett County and a Stoney River Dam in Grant County, W. Va.

First To Apply For College

These two young men, both graduates of LaSalle High School, are the first to obtain application forms for the new Allegany Community College which plans to open its doors September 25. They are Gerald White, left, 212 Charles Street, and Roger Saliga, 20 Wempe Drive. Application forms will be mailed to some 650 interested persons Monday.

Two LaSalle Graduates Get First Applications

Application forms for prospective students for the new Allegany Community College arrived at the County Board of Education office yesterday afternoon and almost immediately two young men became the first to obtain the forms.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster said the forms had hardly arrived from the printers before Roger Saliga, 20 Wempe Drive, and Gerald White, 212 Charles Street, came to the office and obtained the first two applications.

Both are graduates of LaSalle High School. Young Saliga completed his high school studies in 1960 and attended Potomac State College at Keyser last year. He would like to enroll in the University of Maryland but needs to take a few special courses at the new college on Frederick Street.

The other young man was graduated in June from LaSalle. He would like to attend the community college for two years and then transfer to Frostburg State Teachers College.

Mr. Webster said yesterday that application forms will be mailed Monday to all of the approximately 650 persons who expressed some interest in a community college during a survey conducted by the superintendent early in June.

Meanwhile Dr. Robert S. Zimmer, dean of the evening and extension division of Montgomery Junior College in Montgomery County, has prepared a suggested schedule for day and evening classes. Dr. Zimmer will become president of Allegany Community College when he relinquishes his Montgomery duties August 18.

The college reserves the right to withdraw any offering if the demand is insufficient. Dr. Zimmer and Mrs. Webster are hopeful of an enrollment of at least 150 when classes start September 25.

Hit And Run Driver Fined, Officer Cited

A hit and run accident case which began June 17 was concluded yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court when the driver of the hit and run vehicle was fined and the city police officer who brought the case to court was commended by the court and state's attorney.

On June 17, Officer Robert Hershberger answered a call to Offutt Street where he found that a car owned by James Ashby, 416 Pine Avenue, parked on the left side of the street, had been damaged by a hit and run car. Ashby had parked the car there while he was at work at the B&O shops.

Neighbors told the officer that a light blue 1951 Buick had struck the car.

Officer Hershberger checked for several days and finally located a blue Buick of the description with a scrape mark on the left front fender about the same height as the mark on the damaged car. The car, found in the back yard on Elder Street, a couple blocks away from the scene of the accident, belonged to Herman Francis Bergman, 223 Elder Street.

Hershberger took samples of paint from both cars and sent it to the FBI. The FBI report was not conclusive, but as far as they could determine in testing, they found it was possible that the cars had come in contact.

Bergman appeared yesterday before Magistrate F. Allan Weatherholt, who found him guilty of leaving the scene of an accident when property damage was involved and fined him $50 and costs. He also assessed Bergen eight points and suspended his driving license.

State's Attorney James S. Getty prosecuted the case, and Harold E. Naughton was Bergman's attorney.

Nationwide Obtains School Bus Insurance

Nationwide Insurance Companies, through agent Clarence McKenzie, submitted a low bid of $3,928.50 for insurance on the fleet of 106 buses and 12 automobiles used to transport Allegany County public school children to classes.

Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster said the contract has been awarded. The only other bidder was Federal Mutual Insurance Company, Decatur, Ill., through Norval W. Twigg, $5,685.82. The insurance is effective for 12 months beginning August 15.

The vehicles will be inspected Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday under direction of J. Hubert Radcliffe, county supervisor of transportation.

Deep Creek Lake 'Safety Strip' Rules Explained

"Will you help keep Deep Creek Lake a place of beauty for thousands to enjoy?"

That question was asked by the Pennsylvania Electric Company in large display advertisements which appeared this week in Cumberland and Oakland newspapers.

Deep Creek Lake was built at a cost of more than $9,000,000 by Pennsylvania Electric Company to supply water for the Deep Creek hydro-electric generating station. Efficient operation of this station must be the sole criterion for determining the water level in the lake, the company states.

Walter W. Dawson, Oakland attorney who represents the Pennsylvania Electric Company, explained last night that the "safety strip" is determined by the altitude of 2,466 feet. The strip extends a distance of 25 feet back from the 2,466-foot contour line around the entire 65 miles of shore.

The company has experienced difficulty in attempting to enforce its regulation prohibiting permanent structures within the "safety strip." A number which were constructed in violation of the regulations have been removed or moved to new sites. Several large stone walls had to be torn down and permanent boat houses moved from the "safety strip."

The West Virginia National Guard, through Kenneth Gornal, former local pilot, will send a C-119 Flying Boxcar to the fly-in. It will be open to the public for inspection.

Contests scheduled during the "fly-in" will depend upon favorable weather. The rain date is August 20.

Planning Grant Is Requested For Cumberland

Urgent Needs Are Listed By Mayor

Mayor J. Edwin Keech has been advised that an application for an urban planning grant is being forwarded to the Housing and Home Finance Agency by the State Planning Department.

The director of the state unit, James J. O'Donnell, in announcing that the application was being filed, warned Mayor Keech that a delay of from 30 to 60 days can be anticipated.

The Mayor told Mr. O'Donnell he was delighted to know that the application was being filed and urged the state unit to do all it can to expedite the beginning of the planning program here.

Cites Problems

The State Roads Commission, he said, will complete a new $20,000,000 Thruway through the City of Cumberland and the impact of this facility on the central business district and residential sections must be studied.

Several hundred properties, commercial and residential, will be torn down during the Thruway construction, and the city's traffic flow will change considerably.

Other problems which must be solved during the city's planning program include the request of LaVale for sewage treatment services, he said.

One shopping center is nearing completion and another will be constructed in the near future. Both are outside the city limits, he said, and their effect on the central business section must be studied, and plans made to revitalize the area.

He added that areas adjoining the city have requested city water and sewage services, and studies will be needed on whether or not it will be advisable to annex these areas.

Will Need Study

Studies of off-street and on-street parking and traffic flow will be needed, and a "Workable Program" placed into effect to alleviate present conditions.

A new zoning ordinance will also be needed, he added, since the present ordinance was adopted in 1944 and does not meet present requirements.

Forwarded to the state unit were copies of a formal application for participation in the Urban Planning Assistance Program signed by Albert S. Paye, chairman of the Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission, and Mayor Keech.

NYC President Predicts 3-Way Rail Merger

CLEVELAND (UPI) — The financial difficulties of the eastern railroads will result in a merger of the Chesapeake & Ohio, the Baltimore & Ohio and the New York Central, NYC President Alfred E. Perlman said here Friday.

A two-way merger of the C & o and B & O at this time, he said, "would result in bankrupting the New York Central by taking away traffic that now goes in combination, via the Central-C & O and Central-B & O."

The C & O has applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for control over and later to merge with the B & O.

Perlman was in town to act as host to 24 security analysists making a three-day inspection tour of the New York Central system.

He said he hoped the C & O and the Central would be allowed equal stock control over the B & O, which would be held in trust. The B & O would then be independent until a three-way merger was feasible.

"The economies of joint ownership would mean enough savings within a few years that the C & O, which does not now want a three-way merger, should find it desirable," he said.

Perlman cited a report by Morgan Stanley Co., New York investment house, which indicated the three-way merger would annually save over $150 million and the C & O would benefit the most. The report was prepared at the request of the B & O.

Perlman and the analysts will also visit Toledo, Indianapolis and Pittsburgh.

Camp Potomac Attended By 572 Boy Scouts

Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, recently completed another successful season at Camp Potomac, near Oldtown, according to Ross O. Decker, council camping chairman.

This was the 11th year the County United Fund agency has conducted a summer camp at the 114-acre site for Scouts of Allegany, Garrett, Hampshire, Mineral, Hardy and Grant counties.

Some 572 Scouts spent a week or more at camp, for a total of 713 Scout weeks. This represents 54 per cent of the eligible membership. Last year, 56 per cent of the membership attended camp for a total of 748 Scout weeks, which placed the Council in third place among the 52 councils of the region.

Forty-four of the council's 48 troops were represented at camp and 33 had their own adult leader attend with them.

Camp Potomac again received an A rating on the official camp inspection by scoring 96 of a possible 100 points in the national scoring plan.

Dr. John B. Davis, Frostburg, council health and safety chairman, arranged for local physicians to conduct medical rechecks of all Scouts upon arrival at camp. Only three boys required the attention of a physician during the six-week camping season.

While at Camp Potomac the Scouts had an opportunity to take advantage of an adequate staff and facilities for advancement in scouting skills and merit badges.

The grocery list for the summer included 523 pounds of ham, 463½ roast beef, 430 ground beef, 230 pounds of wieners, 180 dozen eggs, 805 chicken legs, 15,155½ pints of milk, 2,928 sweet rolls and 1,057 loaves of bread.

The Cumberland Lions Club foundation made available to the camp 12 new tents and platforms, three aluminum canoes and three rowboats. The Petersburg, W. Va., Lions Club purchased material for an outdoor chapel which was constructed by members and leaders of Explorer Post 63, sponsored by the club.

He said Sgt. Wayne Stutler of the Fairmont Police Department called yesterday to report that a man booked as Charles William Brown was in custody there.

Capt. Van added that Sgt. Stutler said the man had in possession, when he was picked up, several of the articles believed stolen here.

There was no trace of the portable typewriter taken when the Goldfine studio office door was forced.

Capt. Van said he was advised the man had made no statement.

Details of the cases, he said, have been turned over to the state's attorney's office and State's Attorney James S. Getty has said he will extradite, if necessary.

Three breaking and entering warrants have been sent to Fairmont police to serve as detainers.

Accomplice Missing

Charges will be filed here against the man and his accomplice, who is still missing, as soon as the investigation is completed, Capt. Van said.

Copies of the complaint sheets prepared by the Detective Bureau and sent to area authorities resulted in the solving of the cases.

Capt. Van, who has been investigating with Detective Harry Iser, said authorities here expect to go to Fairmont next week to confer with authorities concerning the thefts here.

Doors of the establishments entered over the weekend were opened by the use of a thin metal probe, authorities said.

By PAUL GERARD

When the arrangements were being made for an interview with Dorothy Collins for this article, the picture kept recurring in our mind of the pretty young girl next door with the white blouse and black tie who made famous—and in turn became famous as a result of it — the cigarette commercial on "Your Hit Parade" in the early years of television.

It has been a long road and a most successful one since the "Be Happy, Go Lucky" jingle became her trademark and the association paved her way to success.

Actually, Dorothy hasn't changed a bit. She is still as lovely and charming albeit the white blouse and tie are gone, and she is now the mother of two lovely girls, Deborah 6 and Elizabeth 2.

Although the question uppermost in our mind was how she, who has been primarily a singer, became a regular on "Candid Camera" (CBS-TV, Sundays, 10:00 to 10:30 p.m.), we were soon to learn that our Dorothy has exhibited a versatility perhaps little known to most TV fans.

In her early years as a vocalist with the "Raymond Scott Quintet", the petite songstress was called upon to act as mistress-of-ceremonies as well as a vocalist while Raymond Scott, who chartered her career and married her in 1952, left to take over as conductor of "The Hit Parade" orchestra for his brother, Mark Marnow after his death.

In 1950 Scott was asked by a national tobacco company to create a "jingle" commercial for one of their products. Dorothy, without credit, sang the verse. The success of the commercial eventually led to her being signed for "Your Hit Parade". This, in turn, led to national recognition. She starred on the program

DOROTHY COLLINS

By late 1956, she began branching out as a major attraction at leading night clubs and hotels around the nation. During the last few years she has also been seen frequently as a guest star on the top variety shows, including "The Garry Moore Show", "The Pat Boone Show", "The Perry Como Show" and "Music for a Summer Night". She has also starred on the summer stock circuit in "South Pacific", "Carousel" and "Rosalie".

Thus we came back to our question of Dorothy and "Candid Camera". It seems that when plans were being made to revive "Candid Camera", Allen Funt decided he didn't want anyone with any set routnies. "I want someone like Dorothy Collins," he said. Dorothy agreed to appear as a semi-regular and participate in various candid film vignettes. And it was as simple as that.

The success of "Candid Camera" has been phenomenal. It beat out its opposition, "The Loretta Young Show" in the ratings — a feat no other show has been able to accomplish. We feel Dorothy Collins has been a strong cog in the wheel of success of "Candid Camera". Viewers will long remember Miss Collins driving a car without any motor; asking passersby to change a tire while her husband naps in the back seat of the car; asking people at Idlewild Airport to look after her "little sister" who is making her first flight alone; smoking a cigar and assaying the reaction of the man-in-the-street to lady cigar smokers — and many more hilarious sequences.

MOVIES BECKON — Actor Richard Boone, (Paladin of TV) plays a role totally dissimilar to that of the "Have Gun, Will Travel" hero as he heeds the call of the big screen to film "A Thunder of Drums," a story of U. S. Cavalry and Indian Fighters. The sophistication of Paladin is gone, and Boone portrays an embittered man.

Dance Reflects Influence Of TV

There seems to be a trend toward made-in-America ballet, according to Lucia Chase, director of the American Ballet Theatre, just back from a tour of 47 cities in this country.

She thinks television may have had something to do with this. Seeing ballet so frequently on TV shows has made the American public more conscious of it, Lucia claims.

"Americans are accepting a native ballet company as the equal of any in the world," she says.
